Stomach Photography. Why a Moscow Palace? Importing Refined Sugar. Parade of the Comics.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THIS WOULD interest the late George Eastman, made forever famous by the fact that after you had pushed the button he did the rest.

A camera has been made so small that it can be introduced into the stomach to take photographs of conditions there. It takes sixteen pictures at once, with an exposure of one one-hundred and twentieth part of a second, by flash-light, and air is pumped into the stomach to keep the stomach lining away from the camera lens.

Man, apparently, can do whatever he needs to do.

DO YOU see any good reason why taxpayers of the United States should build in Moscow a home for the American ambassador, to cost one million dollars? That is the plan at present. It is an excellent idea to recognize Russia, but a foolish idea to set the Russians a bad example by spending a million dollars on labor to be done in Moscow.

If we have an extra million for labor, why not spend it in the United States, where plenty of men in the building trades need work, and many Americans are ready to sell building materials? Some Senator might inquire about that.

Benjamin Franklin did pretty well in Paris, without any nonsensical ambassadorial palace.

CONGRESS IS invited earnestly, to consider the Jones-Costigan sugar bill, now up for consideration, and what it means.

Under this bill, foreign countries, where sugar is grown, would be allowed not only to sell the raw sugar to the United States, but also to do the refining, the LABOR on it, before it comes here.

Under the Jones-Costigan bill, foreign labor would manufacture and send into this market as much sugar as is consumed by twelve million, three hundred and seventy-five thousand Americans.

Thanks to importations of refined sugar, refineries have closed in Baltimore and elsewhere, and American workers have been discharged, because the work that they did in this country for good wages is being done in tropical and sub-tropical sugar-growing countries at miserably low wages.

THIS COUNTRY offers the world's greatest market for raw sugar and sugar-growing countries outside of the United States should be content to sell the raw sugar here, not insist on doing the manufacturing, closing American refineries, forcing American workers into the unemployed ranks.

Refined sugar should be taxed so highly as to keep it out entirely, reserving the manufacturing, refining work for Americans, and raw sugar should be taxed sufficiently to give adequate protection to the cane and beet sugar growers of the United States.

COLONEL FRANK B. SHUTTS, who publishes in his Miami Herald, Maggie and Jiggs, Popeye and Sappo, Krazy Kat and Ignatz Mouse and other national characters of "King Features," in addition to publishing more advertising than any other newspaper in the fourteen southern states, has organized a "parade of the comics" in the Miami Bay Front Park for next Saturday.

With a band playing, people in appropriate comic character costumes will compete for prizes. First prize should be won by a conservative business person labelled "Jiggs," pursued by a lady with a rollin pin, labelled "Maggie NRA."

Future ages may wonder that in 1934 you could find in the United States a thousand adults able to tell all about Jiggs and Maggie for one that could tell anything about Tycho Brahe. It is true that there is no laugh in Tycho Brahe.

"BRAIN TRUSTERS," otherwise high-brow professors that President Roosevelt has gathered around him, on the theory that a man with an education might know something, have agreed to talk about the terrible revolution plot charged against them. Soon you will hear all about that, including the plan to establish a Stalin in the White House.

THE FRENCH worry about the possibility of revolution, perhaps with better reason, and are searching, for weapons, houses of Socialists and Royalists supposed to be armed for revolution, starting at opposite ends of the social ladder.

The French know about revolution. They had one, and many noble heads were chopped off in a short time, although the number beheaded during the "terror" was not as great as the number executed in London during the same year for petty theft.

TWO FLORIDA gentlemen, convicted of kidnaping, took an old man and his wife from home, and compelled them to tell where they had hidden three or four hundred dollars.

The jury convicted them with a recommendation for mercy, so they go to prison for life. Without that recommendation they would both be executed.

Florida wants it known that anybody planning a murder or a kidnaping can do it more safely somewhere else.

FOR SEVEN months Commander Byrd will be shut in, with nothing to do but sleep, listen to the radio, and write, during the long South Pole winter. Mere thinking without action is unsatisfactory. Thought cannot really exist without action, just as force does not

New Role Given Sally Eilers in Love Balm Suit

SALLY EILERS

Miss Eilers, an expectant mother, angered in Los Angeles' court by the testimony in Marjorie Gay's breach of promise suit against her husband.

STAR MAY FACE RIVAL AT TRIAL

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, April 5.—Blonde Sally Eilers has been a "good girl" in pictures.

And she has been a "bad girl" in the films.

She has played the injured wife and the woman who injured wives.

But none of the roles she filled on the screen was like the one she may play today in Superior Judge Arthur Keetch's court, where she will possibly be a witness called by the personable young woman who is suing Miss Eiler's husband, Harry Joe Brown, film producer and director, for $100,000 for asserted breach of promise.

The woman who put Miss Eilers in this position is Marjorie Whiteis, who acts on the screen under the name of Marjorie Gay. Miss Whiteis has subpenaed Miss Eilers as a witness.

Miss Whiteis has gathered the loose ends of her case together. Before nightfall, her attorney, Whitney Smith, will tell the jury

U. S. BANKERS LINKED TO KREUGER

Untermeyer Charges Swindle in Stock Losses

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Samuel Untermyer today accused the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., of Boston, of "being responsible for the perpetration of colossal swindles" on the security holders of the defunct Kreuger & Toll companies.

Untermyer made this charge before the Senate Banking Committee in opposing uniform margin requirements and other provisions in the Fletcher-Rayburn bill for federal regulation of the New York Stock Exchange.

Urging the inclusion of requirements guaranteeing machinery through which stockholders of non-dividend paying corporations can join for their mutual protection, Untermyer declared:

"The result of the present situation is that it is well-nigh impossible for protective committees on defaulted bonds or other contesting bodies of bondholders to communicate with one another. Their protection against the 'powers that be' is almost impossible.

"We recently had the last of many object lessons in this connection, and one in which I was concerned for the protective committees, in the case of the Kreuger and Toll and International match companies.

"The firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., of Boston, and its issuing houses were responsible for the perpetration of colossal swindles on the security holders of these companies. They were grossly negligent.

"And yet the issuing houses connected with that banking firm or their representatives were able to corral the bulk of these bonds, almost to the exclusion of the committees organized to protect the holders.

"This was because of the inability of the protective committees to ascertain the names and addresses of the security holders, whilst the 'inner circle' had access to that information. Even an appeal to the court proved unavailing."

Auto Kills Widow Of Industrialist

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 5.—Mrs. Myron I. Arms, 74-year-old widow of the board chairman of General Fireproofing Company, was killed when struck by an auto. She died enroute to the hospital.

Dempsey Loses Shirt, Routed by Wrestler's Wife

ALEXANDRIA, La., April 5.—(AP.)—Jack Dempsey lost a ring battle here last night. Worse than that, he was forced into ignominous retreat from the scene of contest. It all happened as the ex-heavy champion was refereeing a heavyweight wrestling match and the 95-pound wife of one of the participants climbed into the roped square and took a hand in the proceedings.

Dempsey lost his shirt and a good deal of hair before it was all over.

Mrs. Johnny Plummer, whose husband was tying up with Bruce Noland in the feature of a mat card, gave the fans the unexpected extra thrill when she challenged the former pugilistic king and won at least a temporary victory.

It all started when Dempsey warned Plummer that he would not allow any kicking of Noland when the latter was on the floor. One thing led to another and Referee Dempsey closed the argument by delivering three quick upper-cuts to the chin, which ended the evening's entertainment for Plummer.

But not for Mrs. Plummer. She was through the ropes from her ringside seat in a second and going after Dempsey's shirt and his hair before anybody could do anything about it.

Dempsey retreated as far as the ropes would allow and stood there for a while, proving he could still take it without raising a hand in defense.

When Mrs. Plummer really got organized, however, Dempsey slipped through the ropes and retreated into the crowd.

By that time, Promoter Mike Mule was in the ring trying to make everyone listen to reason, but when Mrs. Plummer turned her attention to him, he quickly pinned her arms behind her and held them thus while Dempsey slipped back into the ring and raised Noland's arm in token of a victory by default on a foul.

There was lots of excitement, but really very little damage to anyone.

ONE FLIER ALIVE IN ANDES CRASH

CALI, Colombia, April 5.—(AP.)—Newton C. Marshall, of Milwaukee, was reported found alive today, the only survivor of an airplane crash on March 10 in the Andes.

The report of the discovery was made officially by the Bolivar-valle Department.

It was said that five bodies were found in the cabin of the ariplane, the Von Krohn, of the Scadta Airline.

Marshall was said to have been found alive by a party of Indians searching for treasure.

They said Marshall was extremely weak. He had wandered, it was reported, through the dense jungles ever since.

A large shipment of gold also is supposed to be on board the plane.

MAGEE ALLY 5TH TO GET SMITH AX

Politics Charged in Ouster; Battle Brewing

Public Safety Director Ralph E. Smith today ousted the fifth employe of his department within a few days, in what is described as a political raid of jobholders.

Latest to fall under the director's ax is William A. Miller, 32, of 125 Moultrie street, chief clerk of the bureau of electricity.

Miller charged:

"Politics and nothing else is the cause for my dismissal. I have always been an active worker for the Republican party and I registered a Republican. That is the reason I have been discharged."

Mrs. Harriet Chapman, of Chesterfield road, Fourth Ward, was appointed to succeed Miller.

When informed today that Miller said politics was the cause of his dismissal, Mayor McNair offered this brief comment:

"I have to look into this."

REPLACED BY WOMAN

Miller's ouster follows that of Walter G. Scott, 53, of 7919 Susquehanna street, chief clerk in the division of accounts and permits, who had been in the city's employ for 29 years. Miller charged that Director Smith merely called him to his office Tuesday afternoon and said:

"I want your job."

Mrs. J. Wood Clark, wife of Federal Clerk of Courts J. Wood Clark and a former member of the Registration Commission, was appointed to Scott's job. She was active in the Democratic campaign.

Other employes of the department fired within the last few days were three telephone operators in the bureau of electricity, Mildred Kennedy, of the Ninth Ward; Rose Holmes, of the Nineteenth Ward, and Catherine Madairy, of the Seventh Ward.

OUSTER BATTLE LOOMS

Repercussions over Miller's dismissal are expected to develop shortly. He is a close associate of Councilman William A. Magee. Miller today exhibited the letter he had received from Director Smith notifying him of his dismissal.

Miller threatened to fight back at the McNair administration. He said:

"If it's politics the present administration is playing, I'll give them plenty of that."

Miller at one time was chief clerk of the Bureau of Police, having served in that capacity under Former Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh.

Miller was formerly district chairman of the First District of the Fourth Ward, home ward of Senator James J. Coyne, and at present is a candidate for the Legislature on the Republican and Democratic tickets.

STEEL HEADS FIGHT FOR OPEN SHOP

Union Requirements Are Protested at Senate Hearing

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—E. T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corp., today led a bitter onslaught by steel leaders of the country against the Wagner Labor Bill.

Weir told the Senate Education and Labor Committee that the proposed legislation presents "an unheard of spectacle, in the guise of a Court of Justice."

Near the end of his testimony against the Wagner measure, Weir, after reciting several incidents in which the bill would work hardships on employers and employes, said:

"These are merely instances of the vicious character of this legislation. I have not attempted to cover them all. I do not believe that industry can function under such a handicap as would be imposed upon it by this legislation."

YOUNG TAKES STAND

Weir followed other industrial leaders to the chair. All represented the American Iron and Steel Institute, traditional foe of organized labor. Arthur Young, vice president of the United States Steel Corporation, another leading witness, asserted:

"I find the bill in its entirety both vicious and undesirable. Because of its fundamental philosophy as to the certain and complete clash of interest as between employer and employe."

Weir asserted that Senator Wagner, sponsor of the measure, claims a National Labor Board with sweeping authority is necessary to punish employers who re-

31 DENIED VOTE CASE RETRIALS

Thirty-one men and women, convicted of vote frauds during the special term in Federal Court last February were denied new trials today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

Judge Schoonmaker set Friday, April 13, as the date for sentencing the defendants.

The accused election officials were members of seven boards in the Third, Fourth and Fifteenth Wards. Among them are Joseph W. Muldowney, brother of Congressman Michael J. Muldowney, who was an election judge in the Third District of the Fourth Ward; Mrs. Mary Burns, an inspector in the Seventh District of the Fifteenth Ward, and Mrs. Mary Wagner, an inspector in the Third District of the Fourth Ward.

In the case of John Stabile, a Republican watcher in the Eighth District of the Third Ward, Judge Schoonmaker reserved decision on a new trial motion.

Five others of the original group of defendants, officials of the Sixteenth District of the Fourth Ward, did not seek a new trial.

James I. Marsh, first assistant United States District Attorney, represented the government in the hearings. Earl F. Reed, special federal prosecutor in the vote fraud cases, was not in court today.

Attorneys Edward G. Coll and John Frankel represented the defendants in the Fourth Ward. Sebastian C. Pugliese and R. M. McWade were counsel for the Third Ward officials. Samuel Mattes, an official of the Eighth District, Third Ward, was represented by Attorney John Duggan, Jr.

MINISTER NABS BANDIT SUSPECT

SOMERSET, Pa., April 5.—The Rev. J. S. Shannon, Lutheran minister of Jennerstown captured one of three alleged holdup men who had fought a gun battle with two state highway patrolmen after robbing the White Oaks Roadhouse near Jennerstown, the patrolmen reported today.

The clergyman captured John Coats, 24, of Newark, N. J., as he joined 100 civilians in a manhunt last night. State highway patrolmen at Jennerstown later apprehended John Moore, 18, of New Lebanon, Conn., and Earl O'Neill, 20, Negro, of Burlington, Ia., in the mountains.

The three are held in Somerset County jail charged with highway robbery and larceny of an automobile. The car belonged to Albert Swank, Johnstown business man.

Rumania Frees 46 In Premier's Death

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 5.—(AP.)—A court today acquitted 46 persons accused of complicity in the assassination of the late Premier Ian Duca, sentencing three more to life imprisonment for the crime.

The amazing verdict was widely interpreted as a victory for the Fascist and anti-Semitic Iron Guard. Corneliu Codreanu, the leader of the Iron Guard and the so-called Hitler of Rumania, was among those freed of guilt.

Prowler on Roof 'Drops In' on Man in Tub

When Bert Phillips, roomer at 302 West Robinson street, takes a bath, he wants to do it alone.

Accordingly, he objected seriously early today when Stewart Getty, 28, of 58 Afton street, Crafton, fell through the skylight into the bathtub with him.

Phillips grabbed the "visitor" and called for help. When police arrived they arrested Getty and Raymond Sullivan, 38, of 928 Vickroy street, whom they found on the roof. They were charged with entering a building.

Elizabeth Carns is proprietor of the rooming house.

Wardrop Estate Goes to Children

In the will of Mrs. Helen D. Wardrop, socialite, of Sewickley, killed in the recent Pennsylvania wreck on the North Side, filed for probate today, she divided a $25,000 estate among her three children, Ada B., Edmund D. and Robert Wadrop. Her husband, W. Miller Wardrop, an official of the Pennsylvania Railroad, was named executor.

An estate valued at $76,000 is to be disposed of in the will of Mrs. Anna L. Warde, Beverly place, filed for probate today. It is divided among two daughters and four grandchildren.

Niagara Ice Bridge Sets All-Time Record

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., April 5.—(AP.)—The ice bridge below Niagara Falls, one of the leading winter scenic attractions, went out today after the longest stay on record.

The ice mountains, huge piles of ice at the foot of the American falls, still are in place, seemingly unaffected by the mild April weather.

Baby Jap Prince Visits Old Shrines

TOKIO, April 5.—(AP.)—Akihito Tsugo No Miya, the three-month-old Crown Prince of Japan, was carried before venerable shrines in the imperial palace today to pay homage to more than 100 generations of his ancestors.

It was a part of the ancient ritual which is to be so important to the infant's future life.

Truck Drivers Quit Work in McKeesport

About 50 truck drivers and helpers employed by Spiegel Bros., and the Potter-McCune Company, of McKeesport, wholesale grocers, went on strike today. They demanded a wage of 65 cents an hour for drivers and 55 cents an hour for helpers, extra pay for overtime, and a 48-hour week.

Mencken Calls New Deal Barber's Job

'Man on Horseback' Certain for U. S., He Asserts

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.)—Henry L. Mencken, the sage of Baltimore and most famous cynic in America, returned from a Mediterranean cruise today sufficiently refreshed to take right smart cracks at the following:

1—The New Deal.
2—Insull.
3—The veterans.
4—Clergymen.

Coming up the bay on the liner Europa in bright sunshine, Mr. Mencken was pleasantly gloomy about almost everything.

He said he was for a planned economy, "if you can find somebody to plan it." But as to the New Deal, he referred to it as the running of a ship by the ship's barbers. He said:

"My private opinion is that the big smash is going to come next year when the tax bills come in, when the people learn that the bills have to be paid."

He shook his head:

"It's going to be a sad awakening."

He predicted that in another 20 years there would be "another big rumpus which will end with a man on horseback." He said:

"America is headed for something new and worse than Fascism. In fact, Fascism will look like a Boy Scout movement in comparison with what we will get. We'll end, too, with a man on horseback."

In his opinion the man on horseback won't be anybody in Europe, because there is nobody there "fit to guard a crossing on a railroad."

Mencken visited Athens just after Samuel Insull, fugitive, left there.

He sighed:

"Athens is ruined. It has forgotten Socrates, and now it has only Insull, and he isn't there any more."

He referred to recent exposes of power utilities influence upon Legislatures as "sport," and averred that prosperity had returned because, he said:

"The thieves are getting back—all the bogus war veterans are on the rolls again."

He said that during the cruise in the Mediterranean he tried to convert several clergymen to

Insull No Socrates, Sighs Gloomy Sage, Home Again

Christianity, but, "It can't be done."

Talking shop, Mencken was told that reporters had organized a union. He snapped his fingers, said he wanted to join and added:

"I don't think it will ever accomplish anything, but it will be a hell of a lot of fun."

Mencken averred that English newspapers "have something on us," explaining:

"For one thing, the English papers are more orderly. They let the story tell itself. They recognize that if a story is dramatic it needs no fancy writing."

He said he did not intend to return to the editing of a magazine. He said:

"I'm too old. It has always been my contention that every city editor ought to be shot at the age of 35. A man's got to be crazy to be a city editor anyway."

CITY TO SEND ENVOY TO PARLEY IN UTILITY RATE CUT FIGHT

DEMMLER SEES SAVINGS FOR CONSUMER

Councilman Hopeful of Outcome of P. S. C. Conference

City Council has agreed to send a special assistant city solicitor to attend conferences of the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg looking toward reduction in public utility rates.

A resolution offered by Walter R. Demmler, providing traveling expenses for the assistant solicitor has been tentatively approved by Council. It will come up for final approval Monday.

Demmler suggests in his resolution that the action of the Public Service Commission in reducing the net earnings which the utilities are allowed from 7 to 6 per cent offers possibilities of great financial saving to the city and to all consumers.

Demmler also asks that conferences be held with other municipalities in Allegheny County looking toward a united action for lower rates.

Councilman John J. Kane was not so optimistic about savings. He said:

"I think the Commission should have done this long ago. I believe they waited until they found out the utilities were not making over 6 per cent."

Utility Rate Probe Centers On Valuation of Companies

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor

Investigation of rates charged by public utilities in Pittsburgh to be conducted under new policies of the Public Service Commission will be centered about two factors:

1—Are the public utilities companies worth what their books say they are?

2—Do their reported earnings show all the real profits or are there hidden charges?

No valuation of public utility properties in Pittsburgh has been made within recent years. A complete study of valuation would involve a tremendous expense. Such a complete study is not likely to be made at this time.

Any study of earnings inevitably will involve the question of the accuracy of some of the charges, made by the companies to subsidiaries. All the utility companies in Pittsburgh are owned by holding companies whose operations extend over a large area of the United States. These holding companies charge their subsidiaries for engineering and management services.

A study of their earnings must determine whether or not these charges are just in view of the real services rendered.

INTER-COMPANY CHARGES

Within the pyramids of holding and operating companies many inter-company charges may be made which could easily be adjusted to make individual units show either great profits or great losses. The Public Service Commission investigation, if it is to be thorough, must find out just what these charges are and if they are reasonable.

From the standpoint of the utilities such an investigation could not come at a better time. The change in the policy of the Public Service Commission in considering a reasonable return to be 6 per cent instead of 7 per cent did not come at a more reasonable time from their standpoint.

This is in view of the fact that Public Service Commission plans to base its study solely on 1933 results. Naturally 1933 earnings were the poorest in many years. Public utility companies suffered less than industrial organizations from the business depression, but the reduced use of their services by industrial organizations had a material affect.

AVERAGE EARNINGS

A study which took under consideration average earnings for the last five years would show vastly different results.

For example, the Duquesne Light Company earned $10,578,647 in 1933, it earned $11,833,712 in 1932, while in 1931 it had the greatest earnings on record, $14,135,700. Naturally, a study carrying its findings back to previous years would give a vastly different picture of public utility results than one covering a single depression year.

Whether or not these earnings are justified either in 1931 or 1933 from the standpoint of capital invested in the public utilities will depend entirely on the basis at which values are taken. Company figures are the only current ones available and these show the utilities serving Pittsburgh to be under the line at the present time. But the values might be greatly changed under independent appraisal.

This is the crux of the utility situation from the standpoint of the average Pittsburgh user of light, gas or street cars.

Electric Light Ring's Secrets Bared

Probe Will Reveal How Trust Fights 'New Deal'

(Accompanying is the first of a series of articles showing how the great electric light and power ring subsidizes college professors, authors and others and stifles competition by influencing legislation throughout the nation.)

By W. W. CHAPLIN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Current disclosures of connection of public officials with electric utilities companies have torn away the mask of piety donned by the power interests two years ago after revelations of subsidies to professors, magazine writers and authors of text books.

The six-year investigation of the electrical trust by the federal Trade Commission, which uncovered that old scandal and before which the new startling testimony is being given, is at last drawing to a close.

There is growing belief that when the final report is spread on the pages of the public record the "lid will be blown off" and by popular demand the whole secret structure of the electrical ring will be torn apart and laid before the startled eyes of the public.

When the public probe stirs those muddy waters here are a few of the facts which will be brought to light:

1—The electric interests have thrown their great bulk directly across the path of President Roosevelt's recovery program, because part of that program held out hope of cheaper electric rates in the homes and factories of the nation.

2—The sinister figure of Samuel Insull has disappeared from the high command of the electric ring but his influence remains and the predatory methods of his regime are still practised.

3—NRA liberals who dared to fight a proposed electric code, which would have created one of the most powerful monopolies in the history of big business, were subjected to mysterious pressure brought to bear on them within the very headquarters of the recovery administration.

4—Electric utility officials summoned to Washington for examination by the Federal Trade Commission are always represented by the same lawyer, maintained here by the organization which presented the code which raised a howl of protest from all liberals.

In other words, it will be shown that when the electric industry made a great clamor two years ago about voluntarily "cleaning house" it was only a gesture.

Mask Ripped Away From Power Interests

TAX 'SOCKING' RICH FOUGHT IN SENATE

La Follette Proposal Draws Strong Protest

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—In a strong protest against "socking the rich," Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, this afternoon pleaded with the Senate to reject the La Follette schedule of income taxes, which would sharply increase the levies on huge incomes.

Harrison declared the administration's tax bill would take 63 cents out of every dollar in the higher brackets, whereas the La Follette schedule would "take 77 cents out of every dollar in those brackets."

FIGHTS INCREASE

Senator La Follette (Rep.), of Wisconsin, protested the maximum tax would be imposed only on that income in excess of a million a year. Harrison agreed, saying:

"You can't say we are not making wealth pay its fair share of the tax burden. We take 63 cents out of every dollar in the top brackets. And those loopholes through which some of the rich were getting out of paying taxes have been plugged.

"If we increase these taxes, we will hamper legitimate investments. If a man is required to pay 77 cents to the government out of each dollar of income, he wouldn't invest his money in business; he'd invest in tax-exempt securities.

"Why pile up taxes in these times of distress."

SEES AMPLE REVENUE

Harrison declared the government would get ample revenue this year, under the new tax bill, to balance its regular budget. He said Treasury estimates that liquor taxes would bring in but 50 million dollars a year were going to prove far too low. He estimated the liquor revenues at 200 million dollars a year. Harrison added:

"We are not in any sense in a terrible condition. Let us not impose more taxes on the American people than are required to operate our government."

Senator Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, urged adoption of the amendment "because we are in a worse financial condition than during the World War and have the greatest indebtedness in the history of the nation."

GAMBLER FINED, PAROLED YEAR

Gus George, 35, of 1807 Westmont avenue, was fined $1,000 and placed on probation for one year when he pleaded guilty in Criminal Court today to a charge of keeping a gambling house.

George was alleged to be the concessionaire of novelty horse racing and chewing gum machines used for gambling purposes in lunchrooms, drug stores and other business places.

In imposing the fine, Judge W. Heber Dithrich said he was being lenient because operation of the devices was not as bad as operation of coin slot machines. George's brother-in-law, Stanley Szyndorski, 23, and Frank L. Janeak, 24, Oakland way, who were arrested with George, were placed on probation for three months each.

'BRAIN TRUST' QUIZ TO CALL WIRT FIRST

Probers Map Course Of Inquiry; Speedy Action Seen

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Dr. William A. Wirt probably will be asked to appear late next week before House investigators of his "brain trust" charges.

Chairman Bulwinkle (Dem.), of North Carolina, chairman of the special investigating committee, said today that no other witnesses likely would be summoned before the Gary, Ind., school head appeared, and that he saw no reason why the investigation should last long.

Bulwinkle called the committee to meet this afternoon to determine procedure.

TUGWELL GIVES STAND

He referred to the fact that "some newspaper stories say the professor is not too anxious to testify" and indicated that if Wirt did not appear voluntarily the committee might forego any attempt to force his appearance.

Speaker Rainey already had said that if Wirt declined to appear or to name the "brain trusters" supposed to have given him the revolution statements, "I would not dignify the thing by citing Dr. Wirt for contempt."

One of the most active members of the Roosevelt professorial group, Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, stepped forward to say that he didn't believe Wirt would suggest he (Tugwell) made any such statements. He said:

"I don't know Wirt. I do not believe he could have been referring to me."

PROBERS NAMED

The newly named committeemen are Representatives Bulwinkle, of North Carolina; O'Connor, of New York, and Arnold, of Illinois, Democrats, and Lehlbach, of New Jersey, and McGuggin, of Kansas, Republicans.

Republicans have indicated they will not plunge deeply into the inquiry with any eye to political advantage. Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, said:

"We are going to leave it to the Democrats."

WIRT MAKES READY

GARY, Ind., April 5.—(AP.)—Away from his home on a secret mission, Dr. William A. Wirt, author of Communist charges against certain persons in Washington, was reported today to have decided to discontinue issuing any public statements.

Mrs. Wirt said her husband, superintendent of Gary public schools, was "in conference in another city" gathering information to be used when he is called before a Congressional investigating committee in Washington.

WOMEN INSIST ON HOME AID

HARRISBURG, April 5.—(AP.)—Community action to impress on members of Congress the importance of aiding families without jobs is sought by the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

"The economic crisis which makes it impossible for many thousands of Pennsylvania families to maintain the security of home life because of the inability to pay rent."

A resolution calling for action was adopted at a conference of the federation here yesterday cited.

This step was taken after Eric H. Biddle, director of the State Emergency Relief Board, said additional funds must be obtained and shelter assured for the needy. He was one of several state officials to speak.

Mrs. S. M. R. O'Hara, Deputy Attorney General, representing the Public Charities Association, said that relief administration has been improved, but that in some sections of the state the current system is "expensive to the taxpayer, not responsive to the needs of the day, and antiquated in plant and equipment."

'Horseman'

LEOPOLD STOKOWSKI

MAESTRO LEADS ON HORSEBACK

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—(AP.)—Leave it to Leopold Stokowski, the blond baton beater, to put originality into Beethoven's Ninth Symphony.

Director of the Philadelphia Orchestra, Stokowski introduced a horse as an accessory to conducting at a rehearsal last night, and the steed on the stage threw the orchestra off key, time and equilibrium.

The rehearsal was going nicely for all except the temperamental maestro when, with a wave of his baton, he silenced the orchestra and called to his valet and man of all work:

"Teddy, bring me the horse."
"The mule? Yes, sir."

Teddy was gone only a moment. Back he trotted carrying a wooden saw horse equipped with a shiny new English saddle. Solemnly he placed it before his shirt-sleeved master as an irreverent trombone intoned:

"Horses, horses, horses."

Silencing guffaws with a frown, Stokowski deliberately placed a foot in a stirrup, mounted the horse and explained:

"Now I feel more comfortable."

And so, despite choking and swallowings from the brasses and woods, on went Beethoven's Ninth Symphony, Stokowski riding stiffly through andantes and allegros.

of seven women and five men that "the plaintiff rests."

HUSBAND'S TURN

Then it will be Brown's turn. He has a number of witnesses waiting to testify in his behalf, to tell the jury that he didn't promise to marry Miss Whiteis; that he didn't do all the things she says he did, such as popping the question when she was rubbing his head, and such as picking out silverware for their future home.

Yesterday's session was a difficult one for Miss Whiteis. Once the strain on her was so great that she collapsed in tears on the stand and a recess was called. That was when Brown's attorney, C. E. Millikan, read to the jury a letter Miss Whiteis had written on pale green note paper in which she asked Brown to help her get a part in a picture.

A point that raised considerable argument and that will probably prolong the case was brought up by Miss Whiteis when she testified that Brown pushed her out of his automobile on the way to Laguna Beach. The two unnamed persons who were riding in the car at the time were to be called as witnesses to testify to this, either by the plaintiff or the defendant.

Clad in a pretty blue suit, Miss Eilers sat at Brown's side and looked steadily at Miss Whiteis.

A letter on pale green paper was introduced by Brown's counsel. One line of it read:

"I know I haven't any right to come to you for advice and comfort."

The letter was offered to refute Miss Whiteis' claim that she and Brown were on such close terms that they advised one another.

"I DREAD THE NIGHTS"

In part, the letter read:

"Dearest Joe: It is almost evening and I dread the nights. I had expected in vain a telephone call from you. So I called you. I could not resist talking to you. I had hoped you would ask to talk to me, but you didn't."

After a discussions of a part she wanted to play in a picture, the letter continued:

"I do not want to insist on your doing it. Perhaps you'll give me a trial. That is not asking much—think so? I need a break if anyone ever did."

FARLEY, FOULOIS TOLD TO QUIT

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Continuing the Republican attack on the administration's air-mail policy, Representative Fish (Rep.), of New York, last night said James A. Farley should resign either as Postmaster General or chairman of the Democratic National Committee and that Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, Army Air Corps chief, should be retired.

In a radio broadcast, Fish insisted "the newest scheme proposed by Farley is the most colossal blunder of all that have so far been attempted in the air mail fiasco in blunderland."

He said he wondered whether the former connections of Silliman Evans, Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, with E. L. Cord, "a friend of the administration," had anything to do with Farley's call for bids to carry the mail.

LEHMAN UTILITY BILL DEFEATED

International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—In the face of a sweeping legislative investigation of public utilities and with one of its own members under fire, the Senate this afternoon defeated the key bill in Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's program for stricter state control over utilities.

The bill providing for municipal operation and ownership of utilities went down to defeat by a vote of 22 to 22. Twenty-six votes were needed for its passage.

The defeat of the most important of the Governor's bills came with startling suddenness in the Senate.

Its defeat was brought about by seven Democratic Senators who bolted their party and voted against it. Three Republicans, however, voted for the bill.

Changes in weather bureau procedure in Pittsburgh and throughout the country today were scheduled for July 1 by the Department of Agriculture, according to an International News Service dispatch.

The new program calls for forecasts every six hours, instead of every 12, and for the installation in weather stations of modern equipment to facilitate more accurate predictions.

Alice Longworth Not Senate Aspirant

WASHINGTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Alice Roosevelt Longworth does not see herself in the role of Senator any more than she did in the role of Representative from Ohio, when her husband died.

That was made clear today by her friends, following news of a Cincinnati movement to induce her to run for the Senate. She herself refused to comment publicly.

Operators to Close Mines in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 5.—(AP.)—Alabama commercial coal operators today decided to shut down operations, pending a hearing on protests of the increase in wages ordered by the NRA on March 31. The shutdown, effective Monday, it was estimated, would throw approximately 15,000 workers out of employment.

Carroll, Candidate Quits Legion Post

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—(AP.)—Col. Vincent A. Carroll, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Lieutenant Governor, today announced his resignation as national executive committeeman of the Pennsylvania Department, American Legion.

DEBT DEFAULT BILL PASSES

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Johnson bill, striking hard at foreign debt defaulters, today was ready for President Roosevelt's signature.

The bill, which prohibits foreign governments in arrears on their obligations to the United States from floating loans in this country, was passed by the House late yesterday. It had been approved by the Senate January 23.

The only criticisms offered were based upon the plea that it does not go far enough, since it particularly leaves the way open for the RFC or other government agencies to extend credit to Russia.

For violation, the penalty was fixed at a fine not exceeding $10,000, or imprisonment of not more than five years, or both.

Cambria Miners Continue Strikes

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., April 5.—Six hundred miners at the Peale Pea Company and Kerr operations at Nanty Glo last night voted to continue a strike inaugurated Tuesday night, claiming the new wage scale effective April 1 should be paid for coal on the tipple that had been previously mined.

Three hundred Consolidated Coal Company employes at Gray, Somerset County, continued on strike today also pending official announcement of the wage rate for coal hauled by conveyor. A revocation of the charter of the UMWA local at Gray is threatened by union officers.

actually exist without matter, to resist its action.

FEDERAL DETECTIVES are getting closer to John Dillinger, able criminal. Yesterday, one of his associates was shot down and captured. Captured also was the red-headed lady, friend of Dillinger, who, standing between the fire of the three bandits and the detectives, calmly backed out the bandit automobile, and took her friend Dillinger to safety.

Criminals, little and big, should not be deceived by the yarn telling how Dillinger escaped from prison, in the face of thirty guards, using only an imitation pistol whittled from the handle of a broomstick. He had a better weapon, namely, cash. He bribed two men in the jail to enable him to escape, and money, not any toy pistol, got him out. The two are indicted.

ATLANTA REPORTS a plan to "reduce the sale of dairy products between 10 and 20 per cent, the producers thereby being rewarded through government benefit payments of about 40 cents a pound for butterfat, or $1.50 a hundred pounds for milk."

Interesting and gratifying, for all but children, to whom the milk and the butter, rich in vitamins, are important. Diminishing the supply and increasing the price means less milk and butter for them, of course.

A FLORIDA WOMAN, while her husband was in prison, received from the county an allowance of forty dollars a month to help support her eight children, ten dollars a week for a family of nine, not too much.

Her husband is now released from jail and the mother of eight notifies the county commission that she will no longer take the forty dollars a month. She does not think it would be right to impose on the public, with her husband out of jail, able to work for his family.

Some in high places are not so particular about the public money.

Relief Lottery Bill Proposed at Albany

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—(AP.)—At the request of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia, a bill was introduced in the Legislature yesterday to permit New York City to raise relief funds through a lottery.

The plan, according to its sponsors, would raise between $10,000,000 and $15,000,000, with prizes of $260,000. Sponsors of the measure propose to operate the plan as a membership corporation. Any person who buys a ticket automatically would become a member, with a chance to become one of its officers.

RIDGWAY, Pa., April 5.—Judge E. H. Baird today refused to continue the hearing of malfeasance charges against the County Commissioners of Elk County, ignoring the request of Chief Counsel Charles J. Huey Long to Invade Pat Harrison's State

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—In a row upon the Senate floor Senator Huey P. Long (Dem.), of Louisiana, this afternoon accepted a "challenge" from Senator Pat Harrison (Dem.), of Mississippi, to invade Mississippi when the latter seeks re-election to the Senate.

Harrison opened the argument by attacking Huey for criticizing Democratic leadership during the Hoover administration. Pat said Long's opinion "was less respected by this body than that of any other member."

Earlier today Senator Long had invited Edward Rightor, New Orleans attorney, to "step outside with me" for bare-knuckle combat.

Only yesterday Huey was threatened with fisticuffs by Rightor's client, John D. Sullivan, political leader of New Orleans, but grimmingly advised the cursing Sullivan to "cool off."

Today's incident flared up at a Senate Finance Committee hearing on the appointment of Daniel D. Moore as collector of internal revenue for Louisiana.

Rightor had told the committee that Long was interested in the Jefferson race track. Rightor told Long:

"That's your track."

The Kingfish retorted:

"That's an infamous falsehood. I have never been inside a race track, never bet on a horse and never was interested in one."

Cathedral of Learning Searchlight Dedicated

Symbolizing Pittsburgh's aspirations, a powerful light atop the Cathedral of Learning was dedicated last night at a dinner attended by more than 100 Pittsburghers who will assist in the completion of the building.

The light is composed of a vertical beam, rising more than 5,000 feet, and a horizontal beam, visible for miles. The lens, made here for use at Panama Canal, where a similar light is in operation, and kept for years in Carnegie Museum, was designed by H. S. Hower, head of the physics department at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

While difficult to discern at great distances on clear nights the beam works most efficiently on cloudy, misty and hazy nights Hower said. In the vertical beam a 2,000-watt lamp of 4,000 candle power is transformed into 10,000,000 candle-power light. The lens is nearly a yard in diameter weighs more than 100 pounds, and is composed of hundreds of sections of glass. It was made by the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company in Pittsburgh.

The dedicatory dinner was served on the thirty-sixth floor of the Cathedral. Chancellor John G. Bowman, of the University of Pittsburgh, presided.

SPHINX-LIKE GIRL STANDS BETWEEN DILLINGER AND POLICE

SECRECY MARKS SEARCH IN MIDWEST

U. S. Mobilizes Agents In New War on Fugitive Badman

ST. PAUL, Minn., April 5.—(AP.)—An auburn-haired woman, parrying police questions with cryptic answers, stood today between federal agents and possible capture of the notorious John (Wooden Gun) Dillinger.

The officers continued silent on the progress of their investigation; but reports were circulated that the woman is Bernice Norton, a friend of Evelyn Frechetti, who, in turn, is a friend of Dillinger. Agents referred to the woman as "Bessie," and her description fits closely that of the Norton woman.

The woman occupied an apartment with Eugene Green, a Dillinger associate. Green was severely wounded and the woman was captured Tuesday night when the pair called at the home of a Negro for luggage Green had left there.

LINK BREMER KIDNAPING

The arrest of the pair led to discovery of two more hideouts of the new Dillinger gang in the Twin Cities. The resultant inquiry led, too, to the questioning of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, who paid $200,000 for freedom from kidnapers last January after being held captive 22 days. The possible connection between Dillinger gangsters and the Bremer kidnaping was not explained.

Four machine guns, three automatic rifles, one shotgun, a miniature machine gun fashioned from a .38-caliber naval special (a pistol), and a large quantity of ammunition were found in a St. Paul apartment and a Minneapolis hideout occupied by Green and the woman.

DILLINGER, THE MAN!

When the woman was arrested she carried $1,155, mostly in $50 and $100 banknotes. This led to questioning concerning recent bank robberies at Sioux Falls, S. D., and Mason City, Ia.

Dillinger himself, it was definitely established, was the man who unlimbered the machine gun on two federal operatives and a city detective last week when Dillinger, Green and a woman escaped a police trap.

The case signalled the opening of war against the new Dillinger gang by the federal government, which has a force of 25 Department of Justice agents here. Ordinarily, only 11 agents work out of the St. Paul headquarters.

FOUR TEXANS DIE IN FLOOD

Associated Press.

Texas entered into the nation's flood picture today with four victims, as nine bodies were recovered in a Western Oklahoma flood in which nearly a score may have perished.

As was the case in the Oklahoma flood which centered around Elk City and Hammon the Southwest Texas deaths near Menard occurred when a stream, usually shallow, became a torrent because of heavy rains.

C. P. Smith, district engineer, reported the Oklahoma flood damage at $625,000.

It was estimated that damage of several million dollars was done in Northern and Western Wisconsin by rain and melting snow. Nine persons died.

Seven channel projects on the upper Mississippi were endangered today when the river reached a high stage and continued its rise.

Waters were receding in Connecticut.

Storms in Ohio caused damage estimated at $100,000.

Lehman's Niece Robbed of Jewels

NEW YORK, April 5.—(INS.)—A burglar who might have scaled the outside of a five-story building was sought by police today after the theft of jewels valued at $20,000 from Mrs. John L. Loeb, a niece of Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York.

The jewelry was taken from a drawer in the bedroom of Mrs. Loeb on the fifth floor of her home in the fashionable East Seventies.

SIAMESE KING, QUEEN IN PARIS

PARIS, April 5.—(AP.)—King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambai of Siam came to the capital of France today, received royal honors and settled down for a three weeks' visit.

Premier Gaston Doumergue and Foreign Minister Louis Barthou met them at the railroad station with soldiers and a band. However, their visit will be "incognito" after they have lunch tomorrow with President Lebrun.

The royal couple originally intended to go to the United States early this month so that the king could undergo an operation on his eyes, but the plans have been altered on account of the fact that he is having dental trouble.

Consequently, the king will spend nearly two months in London, where a painful wisdom tooth will be removed, and their majesties will go on to New York in September.

Indiana Scout Governor 'For Dillinger'

INDIANAPOLIS, April 5.—(AP.)—Richard Neff, 16-year-old high school boy, occupied Gov. Paul V. McNutt's chair for an hour today as Boy Scouts took over various functions of government in celebration of National Boy Scout Week.

Young Neff conducted the Governor's regular morning press conference.

A newsman asked:

"What do you think of the John Dillinger case?"

The Boy Scout Governor replied:

"I'm for him."

His reply was amplified a moment later when he explained he was "always for the underdog."

Later, however, he admitted he may not have taken all things into consideration when it was pointed out the desperado was charged with killing a detective.

BLAZE SWEEPS SPRINGDALE CHURCH

Floor Collapses While Firemen of 4 Towns Battle Flames

Fire swept the interior of the United Presbyterian Church of Springdale early today with a loss estimated at $25,000.

Volunteer firemen from Springdale, New Kensington, Cheswick and Tarentum extinguished the flames, which for a time threatened to destroy the edifice.

A valuable collection of 2,200 theological books, owned by the pastor, the Rev. E. V. Condron, and stored in the tower room of the church, was saved.

WOMAN GIVES ALARM

The fire originated in the boiler room in the basement of the church about 6 a. m. Mrs. C. C. Cyphers, who lives nearby, detected the flames and summoned firemen.

The fire gained rapid headway in the interior of the building. Collapse of the floor resulted in virtual destruction of a $5,500 pipe organ.

After three hours' efforts, the fire fighters succeeded in bringing the blaze under control.

DINNER HELD

Members of the congregation held the annual congregational meeting and dinner in the church last night. The edifice, about 60 years old and originally an entirely wooden structure, was rebuilt with brick walls in 1915.

Pending repairs to the building, members of the congregation have been offered the use of the Springdale Methodist Episcopal Church. Thirty years ago the Methodist church burned and pending its rebuilding the congregation used the United Presbyterian Church.

St. Mark's Lutheran Church also offered its building to the United Presbyterians, and members of the school board informally offered the use of the School Street Public School Building.

CHILDREN SAVE GOODS IN FIRE

School children today worked side by side with volunteer firemen in saving the possessions of an aged widow, Mrs. Phoebe Smith, from the flames which swept through her frame home in Wexford Run road, Bradford Woods Borough.

The children, pupils at the Bradford Woods school, about a half block from the aged woman's home, carried most of her furniture from the first floor to the street.

Mrs. Smith, neighbors said, was asleep on the second floor when the fire started. She dressed and escaped without injury.

FIRE DESTROYS 'REMBRANDT'

PERRANARWORTHAL, Cornwall, Eng., April 5.—(AP.)—Rembrandt's priceless painting, "Pontius Pilate," was destroyed in a fire which wrecked the palatial country mansion "Carclew," owned by the noted polo player, Capt. Charles Tremayne, early today.

Rembrandt's painting was not the only old master to be destroyed. Two paintings by Murillo were burned.

No one was injured, but the occupants of the house escaped only narrowly.

Several members of the Tremayne family and their guests were trapped in various places in the mansion. Both the captain and Mrs. Tremayne were driven back by the flames when they tried to escape in their nightclothes over the roof. They finally got out down the back staircase.

Boschert, Golfer, Loses Fight to Recover Son

Boy Believes His Step-Grandfather Is Parent

Judge William H. McNaugher today refused a petition filed by Martin Boschert, well known amateur golfer, to reopen a habeas corpus action which gave the custody of his eight-year-old son, Henry, to the mother, Mrs. Ruth G. Boschert, when they separated in 1926.

Boschert, who lives at 1239 North Highland avenue, seeks to recover his son from the boy's step-grandfather, James M. Cook, Jr., of Westmont, a Johnstown suburb.

When the late Judge John D. Shafer awarded the mother custody "until further orders from this court," she sent the boy to live with her mother and stepfather.

Recently, when his grandmother died, the boy continued to live with Cook.

He goes by the name of James Cook and believes that his stepgrandfather is his father.

When the father sought to reopen the case here in January, Mrs. Boschert's attorneys questioned the jurisdiction of the Allegheny County courts, and Cook has tried to have the case transferred to Cambria County. This petition was refused by Judge McNaugher.

Cook is general superintendent and vice president of the Imperial Coal Corporation.

Making a deposition on the case in the offices of Morton Meyers, his Johnstown attorney, recently, he said the boy does not know that Martin Boschert is his father. Asked if the boy had ever questioned the matter, Cook said:

"He came into dinner about two weeks ago and said, 'Dad, did you ever marry my mother?' I said, 'No, I never did marry your mother, but I was married to your grandmother.' And the boy answered, 'Well, I just wondered.'"

Child, 4, Doomed By Dread Disease

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 5.—(Universal.)—Four-year-old Willie Mae Miller was taken to her home here today to die.

The child, doomed by dread leukenia for which doctors know no cure, was transferred from a hospital to the home of her parents, on advice of physicians who admitted their inability to save the girl.

NAB AUTO TEST DELINQUENTS

Fifty state highway patrolmen and city traffic police were scattered throughout Pittsburgh today to arrest motorists who have failed to undergo the state's semi-annual motor inspection.

Lieut. A. J. Oldham, of the highway patrol, said offenders would immediately be taken to the nearest garage for the inspection and that they would then be escorted to an alderman's office for prosecution. The fine is $10 and costs.

Final date set for the examinations was the last day of March, and four days grace have been allowed.

HOPE HELD OUT FOR 'STONE BOY'

International News Service.

WILKES-BARRE, April 5.—Little Benny Hendricks, the 7-year-old boy who is turning into stone, is responding to treatment at the Wilkes-Barre General Hospital, it was disclosed today for the first time.

News of medical science's first triumph in the battle to halt the strange malady that is petrifying the boy's body was given by Maj. Paul Kaiser, of the local Salvation Army.

He said Dr. H. Alexander Smith, head of the orthopedic ward, where Benny is confined, told him:

"The boy is definitely responding to our treatment and has as good a chance here as any place else."

Maj. Kaiser interviewed Dr. Smith on the offer of the Salvation Army in New York to pay all expenses incurred in bringing Benny and his widowed mother, Mrs. Theresa Hendricks, to New York City, where the boy could be given attention by famous physicians and scientists. Maj. Kaiser said he had decided to recommend that Benny be allowed to remain here.

Two Brothers Held In Brushton Raid

Two brothers seized in a raid on a home at 275 Willing street, Brushton, yesterday, were turned over to the state today to be prosecuted for violation of the liquor laws. They are John Mosco, 32, of that address, and Sam Mosco, 26, of 1090 Lawndale street.

Inspector Jerry Deasy, who led the raid, reported finding a 500-gallon still in operation, 75 gallons of moonshine, and a quantity of mash.

INSULL BUSY WITH STORY OF CAREER

Gets Added Funds for Final Struggle Against Return

ISTANBUL, April 5.—(AP.)—Samuel Insull spent today writing notes for his memoirs so the world will have his side of a spectacular story.

Sitting under guard in a hospital ward, he jotted memoranda of his desperate sea flight from American authorities.

The Turkish government, which stopped the flight unceremoniously, sought to sweep away the last legal cobwebs and have him ready for the United States when it comes to get him.

During the night, the travel-weary Chicagoan received word from his London agents that an additional $10,000 had been made available for his use in continuing the last-ditch struggle against extradition to the United States.

Cheered by the message, Insull spent yesterday evening writing letters and making notes for his memoirs.

As if his own troubles were not enough, Insull received several letters today from persons seeking monetary aid. Others wrote expressing sympathy for him in his fight to avoid trial in Illinois on larceny and fraud charges in connection with the failure of his holdings.

Reports from Athens said today that Mrs. Insull, about whom Insull expressed concern yesterday, has given no indication of when she plans to leave. In London, friends of the fugitive's wife said they understood she plans to remain in Athens for the time being. They said her health is none too good.

Wales Unloaded Insull Stock Before Crash

CHICAGO, April 5.—(AP.)—The Daily Times today placed the Prince of Wales at the head of a list of eminent Britons who invested in Insull securities and were able to pull out before the crash.

Investigation has disclosed, the Times said, that the heir to the British throne bought Middle West Utilities and other Insull stocks during the boom and sold them at a profit. Investors who were not so lucky, the newspaper added, have laid plans to dig up the stock transfer records to show the dates when the Prince bought and sold.

Attorneys for Insull creditors here are investigating a rumor that some British investors were "tipped off" to sell at handsome profits.

The Times listed many other prominent British investors.

VALLEE'S WIFE LOSES PLEA

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.)—The complicated legal contest which Rudy and Fay Webb Vallee have been conducting for six months was renewed yesterday in the Supreme Court, with the orchestra leader winning the skirmish.

Justice Charles B. McLaughlin denied a motion sought by Mrs. Vallee which would strike out the latest counterclaim filed against her by her husband.

This counterclaim sought an injunction which would enjoin Mrs. Vallee from proceeding in California with her suit for separate maintenance at the rate of $7,400 a month.

Mrs. Vallee is suing in the New York court to void an agreement under which she is receiving $100 a week for her support, on the ground that she was coerced while ill into signing the document. Vallee applied for the injunction in an amended answer to this action.

Dogs in Pen, Court Trial For Mrs. Vanderbilt

BRYN MAWR, Pa., April 5.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt, former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., must appear in court tonight on a charge of harboring vicious dogs, although she insists that neither of her Scottish terriers ever bit anyone.

In an effort to satisfy the complainant, Miss Louise Norton Wright, 18, Mrs. Vanderbilt is having a kennel built for the dogs. She told the girl's father:

"I feel that in having the pen built I'm doing my part and going to some expense to protect you and your family."

The girl's mother says that Mrs. Vanderbilt told her one of the dogs was very old, blind, deaf and toothless. Justice of the Peace William Buckland, who will hear the case, says the owner told him the dogs were tied up when anyone passed and were muzzled.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is the daughter of Wilson R. Weir, of Iowa. She was divorced from her first husband, Waldo Hancock Logan, of Chicago, at Reno in 1928 and shortly afterward married Vanderbilt. Three years later she obtained another Reno divorce.

McNair Asks Post Card Poll on Time Change

Mayor McNair has announced he will hold a postcard referendum of daylight saving.

He wants to get an indication of public opinion, he says, before he signs the proclamation. The daylight saving arrangement is scheduled to take place at 2 a. m. April 29, when clocks in many large cities are to be turned forward one hour.

Yesterday a delegation stormed into the Mayor's conference room and loudly opposed daylight saving. The sponsor of the daylight plan, Council President Robert Garland, was called in and defended it.

The Mayor has been reported as willing to sign the daylight proclamation, but last night he took no definite stand. He said:

"I am going to ask for a postcard referendum first. I wonder if the people will write to me about it?"

Today a group of 20 representatives of amateur and semi-pro sports didn't write, but called around. His Honor told them of his postcard plans.

RALSTON LEASE PLAN FADES

Members of Mayor McNair's housing committee who have been urging that the city lease the Ralston School building as a dormitory for inhabitants of Shantytown have been asked by Council to confer with federal authorities.

Theodore L. Moritz, police magistrate and secretary to the Mayor, explained the Ralston idea before Council.

Moritz described a rapid cooling toward the proposal by the Board of Public Education.

He said he suspected the Helping Hand Society had something to do with the change. This was denied by J. Rogers Flannery, active in Helping Hand work.

Flannery explained the federal government has started work for transients, which will provide not only food and shelter, but also make efforts toward their rehabilitation.

SIX DIVORCES ASKED HERE

Six new divorce suits were on file today in Common Pleas Court and five decrees had been granted in other cases.

The suits were filed by Lawrence J. Costello against Ellen Costello, Frank P. McSteen against Gertrude McSteen, John E. Brisbin against Alice R. Brisbin, Edward A. Pinkhoff against Bernice O. Pinkhoff, Esther Luster against Clarence E. Luster and by Queen E. Calloway against Bennie Calloway.

Divorces were granted to Louis M. Stilley from Jesse C. Stilley, Andrew Mokucky from May Mokucky, Marie Bosacki from Edward Bosacki, Effrossini A. Moraitis from Alexander C. Moraitis and to Francesco Constantino from Annie P. Constantino.

JUROR OUSTED BY JUDGE EGAN

A new way to avoid jury duty had been discovered today by Jerome Schwer, of 149 Fourth avenue, Tarentum.

He was dismissed from further service by Judge John P. Egan in Common Pleas Court yesterday when he appeared in court apparently intoxicated. In calling Schwer before him to discharge him from further duty, Judge Egan said:

"Jurors called for duty in this court must give proper service to the state."

PARTY TO AID HOSPITAL

New equipment for St. Joseph's Hospital will be procured with funds derived from a benefit reception, card party and dance at Hotel Schenley, April 12. The affair is sponsored by the St. Joseph's Hospital Guild.

The hospital is now in its thirtieth year. It receives no state aid, but despite this fact carries on regularly free dispensary aid to patients throughout the South Side and neighboring districts.

Committees engaged in the work of the benefit will hold a tea Monday afternoon in the auditorium of the School of Nursing to make final arrangements.

'RACKET' CLAIM RETRACTED

The charge that state liquor enforcement agents have a "racket" in collecting fees made by Detective George Brubach before Magistrate J. W. McGowan has been retracted by Brubach, who calls his allegation a "grave error."

The detective made his accusation last week at the arraignment of Charles Sansbury, 33, and Mrs. Anna Impilliccieri on liquor charges.

He objected to turning over these two cases to the commonwealth agencies for prosecution, saying:

"The state men have a racket. They get the credit and the witness fees and we never hear of the cases."

W. H. Beachy, head of the state beverage tax division, who denounced the charges as "lies," received the apology in a letter from Brubach.

FINE IMPOSED IN LIQUOR CASE

William Harris, of Emmett street, first defendant in Federal Court to be sentenced for a liquor violation under the internal revenue law since repeal of prohibition, yesterday was fined $300 by Judge R. M. Gibson. In default of payment he was committed to jail.

Harris pleaded guilty to concealing and removing 25 gallons non-tax paid whisky February 5. He was arrested by agents of the federal alcoholic beverage unit while he was transporting the liquor in an automobile in Cival way.

Previous offenses of the kind were prosecuted under the national prohibition law.

DISTRICT ASKS MORE POLICE

Charges that police in Hazelwood and Glenwood district have lost control of the situation and are too few to cope with thieves who have committed 17 robberies in that locality in four months are being investigated by Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall.

Businessmen appearing before Council yesterday asked for more police and the reopening of Hazelwood Police Station.

Supt. Marshall, called before Council to defend the Police Department, said:

"You will find a very bad mix-up in the Police Department. We are working every minute for a redistribution of men throughout the city."

Bailey, of Pittsburgh, a former president of the American Dairy Federation and director of the National Dairy Council and the National Dairy Exposition, has been named Federal Market Administrator for the Detroit milk marketing agreement, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Industry's Fight On NRA Made to Gain Points

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Blue Eagle has sounded lately as if it was getting ready to bite someone. Industry also has been squawking in a tone indicating it might take a few bites out of the Blue Eagle.

There will be no biting.

Despite all the screeching you have heard, tempers on both sides appear to be well under control.

That code was imposed on the coal industry because it had to be done. That industry is unique. It is demoralized by cutthroat competition. There was not a chance of the operators ever getting together. The more sensible among them agreed that the only thing for the government to do was to step in and bite them.

There is no intention of imposing codes on other industries. You can accept that as a private promise from the old bird herself.

MILLERS

Another screech was let out when the millers tore up their proposed code and went home. That incident made it appear that the millers were starting out as an industry to fight the NRA.

That is another fight which will never occur.

The inside split came when the millers' representatives charged that the government operatives were putting some things into the code at the last minute that did not belong there. Before the millers packed their bags to go home, it was agreed that the government would draw up two or three different codes and send them around by mail.

The millers can vote their choice by return mail. All parties seem to believe there will be a code agreed on within the next 60 days.

At any rate, the millers cross their hearts and swear that a fight is the last thing in the world they want.

REASONS

Industry will never confess it openly, but as a general thing, collectively, it does not hate these codes nearly as much as it makes out. The steel industry, for instance, will flutter its feathers against letting the A. F. of L. organize its labor, but it would not want to surrender its code today.

These current incidents, which are being played up as major battles, are, largely, hagglings over terms.

Business is always for getting the best of the bargain for itself. So are the government operatives. Sometimes haggling comes down to the point where one side tears up the papers and walks off, as if angry. Negotiations are usually resumed when both sides cool off.

BITTER END

Certain government operatives in the NRA were talking that very matter over recently among themselves. An outsider sat in on their gabfest, listening to them argue about how they might jockey a certain industry into accepting the government's terms.

Finally the outsider suggested:

"Why don't you just offer the best terms possible, and if the industry does not accept, tell them to go to hell?"

A government agent replied:

"Yes, but after you tell them to go to hell, then what do you do?"

That is the fundamental situation. The government does not want a fight; it wants a code. It has the power to impose codes and to license industries, but everyone knows such action would bring on a national fight over the NRA to the bitter end.

Neither side wants to get near the bitter end just yet.

LICENSING

Despite all reports to the contrary, the government is going to ask Congress to renew the licensing provision of the NRA. It expires in June.

The licensing power has never been used. There is no intention that it shall be. Yet it has been a good weapon in the hands of the government for haggling purposes. The hagglers do not want to lose it.

Even those in the administration who opposed the provision in the first place are now convinced that the NRA should keep the weapon.

BOOT?

There is a lot of backstage talk about some of the Mugwumps, Brain Trusters or Anthony Advocates getting requests soon for their resignations, from government services.

That possibility was mentioned by an influential administration authority recently in a private conversation. He was talking more for effect than in seriousness. Nothing will be done about it.

The effect will be that the boys under fire will drop their cudgels and look innocent for a while until the fire dies down.

NOTES

The boys who keep an eye on such things whisper that Henry Ford is obeying the automobile code as much or better than if he was in it. The idea is he could not afford to take a chance on being caught violating it . . . Those who know say it costs close to $150,000 a year to run a yacht like Mr. Astor's Nourmahal. It is air-conditioned throughout, has a wood burning fireplace in the living room and carries a crew of forty. A double bottom makes it safe and a gyroscope stabilizing device keeps it from rolling . . . A banker once asked J. P. Morgan about the cost of keeping a steam yacht he intended to buy . . . Mr. Morgan replied: "More than you can afford." The banker drew back and asked: "How do you know I can't afford it?" Morgan replied: "Because if you have to worry about what it will cost you to run it, I know you can't afford it." . . . At the White House Easter egg rolling, there was a magician who took rabbits out of his hat. There is a movement afoot to get him in the brain trust.

HARVARD FRIEND OF HITLER 'OUT'

BOSTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Dr. Elliott C. Cutler, chief marshal to lead Harvard alumni in this year's commencement, today had announced that Ernst F. Hanfstaengl, intimate friend of Adolph Hitler and one of the aides selected by Dr. Cutler, would be unable to attend the exercises.

A protest against special honors to Hanfstaengl at the twenty-fifth annual reunion of his class at Harvard in June was registered last week by Benjamin Halpern, graduate student at the university and a Jew.

In a letter to the Harvard Crimson, undergraduate newspaper, Halpern said of Hanfstaengl's selection:

"There unfortunately will be a number of groups of thick-headed alumni too obtuse to appreciate the tender sentiment of this gesture."

Dr. Cutler said he had asked Hanfstaengl to be one of the 50 or more aides "who assist me at the alumni exercises on commencement afternoon, and in his communication to me he regrets being unable to fill the post."

Tom Mix Ordered Tried As Horse 'Embezzler'

NEWKIRK, Okla., April 5.—A venerable case against Tom Mix movie and circus performer, charging him with "embezzlement of a horse" from the 101-ranch near here on November 1, 1908, has been set for trial in District Court here on May 5 by Judge Claude Duval.

The complaint was filed in April, 1909, by the late George L. Miller and alleges the former 101-Ranch cowboy "embezzled" a spotted gelding named Bologny branded 101 on the left hip, and valued at $75.

Court records show that the movie cowboy waived preliminary hearing in the case on Oct. 31, 1910, before Judge Duval, who was county judge at the time. Mix was was released under a $1,000 bond posted by Clyde Sharp, Kaw City cattleman.

The case was revived today when Col. Zack Miller, of the 101-Ranch, called it to the attention of County Attorney O. B. Martin. Mix will be represented here by Neal Sullivan, Newkirk attorney whose father, Sam K. Sullivan, represented him when the case was originally filed.

MOTHER-TO-BE AT 10 'LUCKY,' SAYS AUTHOR

By DOROTHY DUCAS
International News Service.

BEDFORD HILLS, N. Y., April 5.—Ten-year-old Francisca Anles Perez, waiting in Oakland, Cal. for her baby to be born this month, is a lucky girl—in comparison with the 10 and eight and six-year old mothers of India, declared Katherine Mayo, author of "Mother India," today.

The white-haired woman, whose book called the world's attention to the evils of child marriage in India, expressed sympathy for the little girl, but thought there was hope for her. She explained:

"You see, the difference between her case and that of a little girl I knew in India is that Francisca's situation has the sympathy of society. We all disapprove of the crime that has been committed. In India it would be a crime if it were not committed."

MARRIAGE RUSHED

The reporter smiled, but Miss Mayo's classic countenance was solemn. She hastened on:

"No, literally! The man responsible for this little girl is already in prison. But in India, the parents of a girl who has not been married by the age of puberty are damned!

"I have seen girls with shattered nerves and torn bodies in hospitals, where they have been cured, only to be returned to their husbands again.

"It is against religious custom for a girl to reach puberty in her father's house.

"I knew one little girl whose marriage was consummated when she was 8. Her husband was a man of 50. When he had destroyed her body and she was whimpering in a corner, he threw her into a thicket because she was of no further use to him. An Englishwoman I knew took her home and nursed her to health. She was physically restored when I last saw her, although mentally, of course, scarred for life.

MIND SHOCK GRAVE

"It is hard to cure the mental shock of such things. The little girl in California has a chance if she is cared for by normal, decent people who will love her very much, and regard what has happened to her like a case of measles."

Francisca's plan to keep her baby with her brought a wistful smile to Miss Mayo's lips. The children of children in India are usually brought up by their mothers-in-law, which means that the infant, the 10-year-old, and the husband's mother all live together. Miss Mayo added:

"No one of them knows anything she did not know at 10."

The authoress whose expose of conditions brought an investigation by the Indian legislature which resulted in a law forbidding marriage below the age of 14. She pointed out that when Indians speak of 14 it is actually little more than 13, for they reckon age from the time of conception, not from the time of birth.

If parents are opposed to consummation of their daughters' marriages and try to withhold them, they are guilty, in India, of kidnaping, she revealed. Once married, they are their husband's property and nothing can prevent the men from doing as they please with their infant wives.

AUXILIARY HEAD URGES FIGHT ON LEAGUE

An appeal to the women of the Pittsburgh district to join in the campaign and drive being conducted by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and other Hearst newspapers to keep the United States out of the League of Nations, the World Court and other foreign entanglements, was voiced by Mrs. Julia Pitcock, national president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a radio address here yesterday.

Speaking with the Sun-Telegraph Globe Trotter over WCAE, Mrs. Pitcock asked every member of the auxiliary to co-operate with the various posts of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in circulating petitions and obtaining signatures for the monster petition which is to be presented to the Foreign Relations Committee of the United States Senate.

She said:

"I want to express my appreciation to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for this opportunity to speak to you, and I wish to say that the members of our auxiliary here in Pittsburgh are co-operating with the Veterans of Foreign Wars in their protest against the United States entering the League of Nations and the World Court. The entire organization is concentrating on recovery at home, and keeping up an adequate national defense.

"I am glad to know that the women of Allegheny County are co-operating in this effort to keep our nation free from such costly foreign entanglements as the late war. To no other group of women in America does adequate preparedness mean so much as to the women whose loved ones seen active service abroad."

Hundreds of additional petitions are being received daily at the Sun-Telegraph from veterans and other patriotic Americans in Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. Thomas W. Price, adjutant of the Guy Bryan Post, No. 576, of the American Legion, Robinson, Pa., sent in a petition as did a number of other officials of veterans organizations.

From Avella, Pa., comes a fine letter from Mrs. John Murzy, who states:

"It is with great pleasure that I am submitting to you the signatures of 72 loyal American citizens who have willingly signed this petition to keep our great nation out of foreign entanglements. I am glad that I have done my bit towards this great cause and wish you every success."

Jesse Murphy, of Vanderbilt, Pa., sends the following letter:

"Inclosed a few names of myself and comrades. I am a Spanish American War veteran. I think we have had enough of the European entanglements in the World War. I say more power to a paper that is trying to make this country of ours safe to live in."

PETITION AGAINST PARTICIPATION In the LEAGUE of NATIONS and World Court

If you want to save America from European entanglements and keep your country out of foreign wars, and foreign wars out of your country, sign this petition:

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED STATES SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:

We protest AGAINST the United States participating in the League of Nations or in the World Court of the League of Nations, with or without "reservations."

We petition our Federal Government to keep our United States "free from foreign entanglements," as the Father of Our Country wisely enjoined.

We urge our Congress at Washington to keep our government from meddling in foreign affairs, and to keep foreign nations from meddling in our American affairs.

As loyal American citizens, we ask our loyal representatives to keep our country out of foreign conflicts and complications and to keep foreign conflicts and complications out of our country.

NAME ADDRESS

Additional names may be added to this petition by pasting a sheet of paper hereto. PRESENTED through the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

Return to League Court Editor, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Telegraph Square, Pittsburgh, Pa.

SPRING BLOOMS 10 DAYS LATE

The flowers that bloom in the spring are at least 10 days late this year, Prof. O. E. Jennings, head of the University of Pittsburgh botany department, said today.

Botanists at Pitt, Prof. Jennings says, get what is usually the first tip that spring has arrived from a small group of volunteer observers, members of the Botanical Society, who watch for the earliest flowers.

He explains that the snow trillium, known to botanists as the "spring index flower," is blooming for the first time today. Records show that the 13-year all-time average for this flower is March 25, making this year's spring 10 days late.

He points out that a few days of warm weather will permit the flowers to "catch up" with the calendar.

Three Youths Nab Woman's Assailant

John Schweikert, 45, of 3100 Brentwood avenue, Brentwood, was to be arraigned in South Side police court today accused of having molested Miss Agnes Schremb, 22, of 2005 South Twenty-first street, last night, according to a police report. The woman's screams attracted three young men, who captured the defendant, according to police.

CATHOLIC PUPIL ROLL DROPS

Difficulties of transportation in country parishes and restricted finances in the industrial districts are given as accountable to a large extent for the decline in pupils enrolled in Catholic schools in the Pittsburgh diocese last year. Figures given out by the Rev. Paul E. Campbell, superintendent of parochial schools, revealed that enrollments last year were 1,700 under the previous year. Figures showed that in June, 1932, there were 85,052 enrolled, and in June, 1933, 83,297.

In September, 1932, one new school opened, while two failed to reopen, which brought the number of schools in operation to 230. St. Stephen's, in McKeesport, with an enrollment of 170, was the new building. The grade school at Eudes Institute, Lincoln avenue, and St. Thomas' parish school, Footedale, failed to open at the beginning of last year's term. This resulted in 230 pupils being dropped from the roster.

Dr. Campbell in his report said:

"Our present facilities care for only 26 per cent of high school entrants. I greatly regret that we can not do more for the Catholic high school population."

Of the 7,565 students finishing the eighth grade in June, 1933, only 1,974 were enrolled in the ninth grade the following September, the report shows.

During the 1932-33 term a total of 149,601 Catholic children of the diocese attended school, and 61,030 enrolled in public schools.

Impatience?
No. It's jangled nerves

Are you the kind of wide-awake, "on-your-toes" person who hates to be kept waiting?

Then you should be doubly careful about jangled nerves.

If you find yourself nervously crackling your newspaper—drumming your fingers on the table—jumping at unexpected noises—then watch your nerves.

Get enough sleep—fresh air—recreation. And make Camels your cigarette.

For you can smoke as many Camels as you want. Their costlier tobaccos never jangle your nerves.

COSTLIER TOBACCOS

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS than any other popular brand of cigarettes!

CAMELS—SMOKE AS MANY AS YOU WANT... THEY NEVER GET ON YOUR NERVES!

HARMONY FAILS IN TOWNSHIP BATTLE

Word that the Baldwin Township Commissioners again have failed to effect organization will be carried to Judge W. Heber Dithrich in Quarter Session Court today.

A representative of the new members of the board, elected last fall, was authorized to convey the news to the court at a meeting last night which saw the "holdover" members bolt a stormy two-hour session.

The township fight reached the courts last week when both sides petitioned the court for removal of the other. Judge Dithrich denied the motion but directed another attempt at organization under threat of removal from office of the entire board.

RENEW CLASH

The fireworks started last night when John S. Wheaton, one of the new members, urging election of officers in a group said:

"At the conference last night our cards were laid on the table and now we ask that you go along with us on a 50-50 proposition."

Albert F. Dryer, of the "holdover" faction, supported by the three other members, insisted upon election separately.

William E. Armstrong, "holdover" chairman who was presiding, asked Peter Kuenzig, a new member:

"Have you anything to offer?"

He repeated his question several times to which Kuenzig replied:

"We are waiting for you Mr. Armstrong."

QUIET MEETING

Armstrong and other members of their holdover board prepared to leave the meeting when Kuenzig made a motion to adjourn and notify the courts of the failure to organize. The motion was ruled "out of order" by Armstrong, who led his followers from the meeting.

Wheaton took the chair as temporary chairman, entertained a motion for adjournment and the resolution to the court that the group had failed to elect officers.

Meanwhile township employes, unpaid since January, still await their money.

MAN PAROLED IN SHOOTING

Ernest V. Miller, 58-year-old farmer of near McKeesport, today entered upon one year of parole following his conviction in Criminal Court on a charge of wounding 8-year-old James W. Ayres, a neighbor's boy.

It was testified Miller shot the boy August 24 while the lad was in one of Miller's pear trees.

The boy said he and two other boys were picking pears, but as there were not many on the ground, he climbed to shake the tree.

Miller said he shot in the air to frighten the two boys on the ground and did not know the Ayers boy was in the tree.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall granted the parole.

HOUSE ON FIRE, WOMAN FAINTS

Fainting after telling her husband that their house was on fire, Mrs. Esther Schuessler, of 1810 Wettach street, rear, was revived at Allegheny General Hospital.

Police took the woman to the hospital fearing that she had been overcome by smoke.

Schuessler aided their two children to safety.

The fire, its origin undetermined, caused $10 damage to the second floor.

Veterans' Auxiliary Ask Bonus Passage

Mrs. Julia L. Pitcock, of Cleveland, national president of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Pittsburgh yesterday to attend a meeting of the Allegheny County Council of the auxiliary in Memorial Hall, said the organization is doing all in its power to get speedy passage of the veterans' bonus bill.

Mrs. Pitcock with other visiting officers were entertained at a banquet in the Fort Pitt Hotel last night, and later attended the annual military ball of the Allegheny Council, V. F. W., in the William Penn Hotel.

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Who said there are no honest folk in the world? Some uninformed cynic, no doubt. Well, if that cynic is reading this here is his opportunity to get some information on the subject.

Mrs. William A. Smith, a Carnegie globe trotter, was shopping in one of the downtown department stores. Between purchases she sat down for a moment on one of the chairs provided by the store for shoppers' convenience. A moment later she left the store.

Down the avenue she entered another shop to make further purchases, and there it was she discovered that she had left her purse where she had rested in the department store. She hurried back to where she was sitting and inquired of two ladies who were near the chair she had previously occupied whether they had seen a stray purse. One of them answered:

"Here it is."

In her thankfulness and amazement she forget to ask the lady's name.

Whoever she is let her know that Mrs. Smith is amplifying her already given thanks to her.

Just when I was getting good at imitating Ed Wynn and Joe Penner, my cold and accompanying laryngitis are passing over. Talk about tough breaks.

* * *

Just received a note from the president of the Radio Servicemen's Association, Willard B. Thompson thanking me for announcing the meetings of his organization.

Careful about writing those notes.

I might call on you for a speech about care of radio sets.

Vonda Simpson — Some of the best tap dancing I've ever seen done on the radio was by a gentleman who slipped thimbles over his index and middle fingers and tapped on a board held in front of the microphone.

Jessel Has Another Quarrel

By AIRCASTER

George Jessel and CBS called it a day this morning—and Jessel will not return to the local CBS waves.

He complains that a sustaining fee isn't worth anything to him and that he should have been sold to a sponsor.

Columbia answers that nobody would buy and that Jessel stalled so long about returning from Florida that it amounted to a gag.

Morton Downey is being groomed to fill the gap by becoming a master of ceremonies as well as a warbler.

* * *

Superstition is a relic of the dark ages, and won't deter the inaugural of a new brewing company program on the CBS circuit, on the evening of Friday the 13th. That's what the patrons said this morning.

The show, slated for a 10 p. m. spot, will use Henry Busse's Orchestra and a new routine. Except for the orchestra all talent will be newcomers.

There'll be dramatizations of the news event of the week; the laugh of the week, the song of the week, the personality of the week, etc., but "nothing else will be weak, so help us," the showmen promise.

* * *

AYES HAVE IT

A meeting of the top comics of the air was held yesterday to go on record for or against studio audiences.

All the famous funny men of radio were present except Eddie Cantor, Ed Wynn, Joe Penner, Al Jolson, Stoopnagle and Budd, Fred Allen, Burns and Allen, Sisters of the Skillet, Tom Howard, George Jessel and several scores of others.

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

ABSTRACT OF WEIR REMARKS IN SENATE HEARING

Labor Bills Under Fire in Testimony Of Magnate

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Peace between industry and national labor unions is impossible, Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the National Steel Corporation, today told the Senate Education and Labor Committee in hearing on the Wagner bill.

In a lengthy prepared statement he asserted:

"I have had much experience with national labor unions, and, as constituted, officered and operated today peace in industry with them is impossible."

TELLS FIRM'S HISTORY

Mr. Weir's statement opened with a history of the Weirton Steel Company, which he helped to organize. He continued:

I have been in the steel business all my life. I began working in a mill at the age of 16, and I think I know the viewpoint of the steel workers about labor organizations and wages.

Many of our employes today have been with us since the organization of the company. We have at all times paid as high or higher wages than are being paid by any other mill, and I consistently opposed every reduction of wages during the depression, openly in newspaper interviews and as shown by editorial comment.

DENIES UNION INTEREST

I believe the working man is primarily interested in his wages. Eighty per cent of our employes have no interest in labor organizations. They want to be left alone, and provided with work and the opportunity to earn good wages under good working conditions.

What we have developed over a period of years in the way of a plant and organization has been done without the aid of labor unions, without any form of espionage and practically no labor trouble. There has never been a time that our employes could not confer with us about any matter of interest to them, and we have been free from the wasteful practices and uneconomic domination of union labor leaders. Now it is proposed to pass a law, the effect of which would be to drive a great many employes into national labor unions, whether they desire it or not.

CHARGES COERCION

The average employe joins a union only because he is told by union organizers that he will not have a job if the union wins, or that jobs will be allotted according to the numbers on the union membership cards. Many of them sign cards because of coercion and intimidation, and yet this present bill lays no restraint upon coercion or intimidation by labor unions.

They are to be free to carry on any kind of propaganda they see fit, but it is to be an offense if any employer even indicates his attitude toward labor union membership. I have had numbers of our employes come to me and ask me if it was going to be necessary in the future to join a labor union to hold their jobs, as they had been told this would be the case.

UNIONS ATTACKED

This bill would make it an illegal practice for an employer to express an opinion on that subject. If 51 per cent of the employes of a plant joined the union, that union would represent all of the employes, and the other 49 per cent, although not members of the union, would have no one to represent them in dealing with the company.

Their only right to be heard or to participate in the councils of the employes would be to join the union, and that is the purpose of this legislation, in my opinion.

Senator Wagner has been quoted as saying that the purpose of this bill is to make employe representation plans illegal.

CLAIMS BETTER METHOD

In my opinion, employe representation plans can accomplish far more for the workers than any national union can accomplish. The problems that affect the worker are not all wage problems.

An analysis of 505 matters arising through our employe representatives in the last half of 1933 indicates that 296 of them related to differences in wages, wage differentials, piecework or tonnage rates, and the remainder of them had to do with matters of safety, economy and waste, health and sanitation, housing and living conditions, education, athletics, public relations, etc.

One of the methods proposed in the bill of making employe representation plans illegal is to forbid the employer from paying for the time of an employe representative spent in his committee work.

The evident intention is to give the impression that the amount of money paid by the employer to help support the employe representation plan was a large as to make it a factor of great influence with the representatives in favoring the employer as against the men whom they represent.

FIGURES ARE CITED

The figures given below show that the amount of money actually spent in carrying on this work is insignificant and a small compensation for the time, energy, interest and thought that is devoted to the various problems involved in the interest of the employes by their elected representatives.

The Weirton Steel Company spent from July, 1933, to February, 1934, inclusive, a period of eight months, in the payment of employe representatives for time engaged in their work, approximately $12,600. During that time it had payrolls in those mills of approximately $12,000,000, so that the amount paid to these men for that time was a relatively insignificant figure.

CLAIMS COSTS LOWER

If our men had belonged to a national union during this period of eight months, there would have been paid in dues, without counting initiation fees, out of the pockets of the workmen instead of the company, approximately $150,000, none of which would have been subject to public accounting and a great part of which would have gone to national union offices.

If, in seeking to protect my men from the domination and control of national unions I am a "public enemy who ought to be pilloried," as Mr. Green referred to me, then I am proud to be so regarded.

WAGNER ASSAILED

I think it is a direct insult to the workers in our plants that it should be presumed by Senator Wagner or anybody else that their allegiance can be purchased not only by this insignificant sum but for any sum of money or other favors.

Let me say further that I believe the employer today is not interested in the coercion of his employes. He wants to deal with them on a fair and constructive basis and one that will be of mutual benefit to the employe and to the industry.

I have had much experience with national labor unions, and as constituted, officered and operated today peace in industry with them is impossible.

DENIES GREEN'S CHARGE

We have stated to our employes in writing that it will never be a requirement of any employe that he belong to any organization or that he not belong to any organization.

I note Mr. Green's remarks before your committee about starving families in Weirton, whom he alleged to be walking the streets because of my attitude toward labor. Inasmuch as I am not inclined to take much stock in general statements, and believe that it is always essential to get the facts, I just took the trouble to obtain some figures from the Federal Unemployment Agency and the CWA as to the unemployed in the district in which the town of Weirton is situated.

FIGURES PROVIDED

The two agencies together report 455 unemployed persons, 154 of these were employes of other companies, and 67 of them young men who never have been employed, so that there is left 234 who claim to have been former employes of the Weirton Steel Company.

Of these 123 left our employ before September 1, 1933; some of these as long ago as 1916, leaving 111 employes now unemployed who claim to have been employed by us prior to the strike.

Twenty-two of these 111 have been re-employed since the figures were obtained, leaving 89, of whom 43 had less than eight months' service with us, some of them as short a time as two days.

LABOR HEAD DEFIED

I would like to say further that all during the depression there has never been any starvation in Weirton, and that community made it a point to handle its own relief and take care of those who might be in want. I defy Mr. Green or anybody else to prove that there is or has been starvation in Weirton.

I also took the trouble to have the average daily earnings of Mr. Long, who appeared before you and referred to the Weirton case, computed. He averaged in 1933 for every day he worked over $10.00 a day and had an average as high as $14.00 a day during 1928.

FLAYS UNION TACTICS

Another of the union men who came down here to appear before you was paid for every day he worked this year an average of well over $17.00 a day.

These men are not down here protesting against any mistreatment of labor by the Weirton Steel Company. They are here because they are paid officers and organizers for the union, which is trying to take about $250,000 a year in dues out of our employes.

Senator Wagner claims a National Labor Board with sweeping authority is necessary to punish employers who refuse to comply with Section 7A. The present act has adequate remedies.

'UNHEARD OF SPECTACLE'

This legislation, in my opinion, presents an unheard of spectacle, in the guise of a court of justice. There will be two parties before the court, the employer and the employe, represented by the labor union.

The board may make orders operating upon the employer, it may assess penalties against him and order the reinstatement of employes, and yet it has no power to restrain the union, assess damages against it, or, in any manner, punish the union for its acts. What sort of justice would this be?

CALLS ACT 'TYRANNY'

The act makes it legal to agree that no one may be employed except members of a union, but makes it illegal to agree that no one may be employed except nonunion men. The obvious purpose of such a one-sided provision is to establish by law the closed shop and, after all, that is the issue in this legislation.

When the unions have power to dictate a closed shop, they have reached a point where they say:

"You must join our union or starve."

This is tyranny—it is un-American. To belong to a union is all right, but to say that the man who does not belong to a union shall not be allowed to labor, is all wrong.

POINTS OUT DANGER

Such a policy is uneconomic and dangerous to our industrial welfare. It will continually foment strife; for example, the provisions of this bill will permit the Labor Board to hold an election at any time that it finds a substantial number of employes who want an election.

In political or corporate matters we are accustomed to thinking of an election as something coming at a scheduled time, the results of which determine the persons in power for a definite length of time, yet the industrialist is to be left in a situation where an election can be called at any time.

"THREATENS STABILITY"

The efficiency and productivity of a mill inevitably goes down when there are periods of excitement, contention, or strife. The work accomplished in a week when elections are taking place is always noticeably less than when things are running smoothly.

Every discharged employe can claim that he was discharged on account of his union activities and every such complaint, no matter how trivial, can be filed with the Labor Board in Washington and require an answer and hearing.

PROVISIONS ATTACKED

One of the provisions of this bill enables not only every member of the board, but any agent of the board to call upon any employer for any records or papers that he deems necessary.

This bill would enable any clerk or agent of the board to demand any records that he thought he needed, irrespective of the cost or expense involved, and bring them to Washington or any other place where the agent desired them.

Not only is there no provision for the furnishing of any information by the union but they are not even required to make any accounting to any one under any circumstances of the very large sums of money which they will collect.

I believe this bill will destroy individual freedom and strongly recommend to this committee that this destructive bill be defeated.

WEIR ATTACKS WAGNER BILL ON STAND

...se to comply with Section 7A of the Recovery Act. He said:

The present act has adequate remedies. Even now, on the recommendation of his board, the Attorney General has started a suit in the Weirton Steel matter in Delaware and the matter will come on for hearing in court, where it belongs.

"We welcome the opportunity to have the matter laid before the court in a legal, orderly way, instead of being subjected to the newspaper tirades of Senator Wagner, founded upon unconfirmed reports from strike leaders and union agitators."

Weir declared the measure, if passed, would compel the abandonment of the "American concept of even-handed justice if such a tribunal is constituted by the act, charging:

"The board may make orders operating upon the employer, it may assess penalties against him and order the reinstatement of employes, and yet it has no power to restrain the union, assess damages against it, or, in any manner, punish the union for its acts.

"What sort of justice would this be?"

Rapping the union views of the legislation, Weir stated:

"The act makes it legal to agree that no one may be employed except members of a union, but makes it illegal to agree that no one may be employed except non-union men. The obvious purpose of such a one-sided provision is to establish by law the closed shop and, after all, that is the issue in this legislation."

This, he said, would give unions the power to dictate a closed shop. He added:

"This is tyranny—it is un-American."

Weir said he could not believe the American people are ready to put their "stamp of approval by legislation upon the closed shop." He predicted that if it is accomplished by law there would be unending industrial troubles.

Young, the first witness, declared:

"I find the bill in its entirety both vicious and undesirable because of its fundamental philosophy as to the certain and complete clash of interest as between employer and employe.

"This is in utter disregard of progress toward complete cooperation and the abolition of small remaining areas of conflict as between the worker and his boss that has distinctively and uniquely characterized industrial relations in the United States."

Young told the committee that of 32 witnesses appearing in behalf of the Wagner bill, 16 were labor union officials; ten were government officials "ranging from a Cabinet member and a United States Senator down to members of the NRA Regional Board," and six were college professors. He added:

"Labor Union officials, NRA officials — and particularly members of the regional boards —and many college professors are interested only in symptoms of class warfare, and of evidences of discord and coercion. Such evidence does exist but it is the exception and not the general rule."

Jack Larkin, chairman of the Weirton Company Union, took the stand and described the National Labor Board as a hotbed for "radical agitators."

He said that Senator Wagner had threatened to send him to jail when he refused to obey an order of the Labor Board.

Weirton Asks U. S. Explain NRA Charges

WILMINGTON, Del., April 5.—(INS.)—Counsel for the Weirton Steel Company, which is charged with violating provisions of the NRA by the government, today had filed a motion requesting the Federal Court to demand that the government outline its charges more specifically.

The motion asks that the government explain its charge that the Weirton Company union is wholly ineffective as a means for collective bargaining.

The steel company's attorneys also request the government to give more data on its claim that its workers were coerced with organizing for collective bargaining.

700 More Miners Return to Work

More than 700 coal miners were expected to return to work today at the Soudan and Enterprise mines near Rich Hill, Washington County. This will bring the number of men back at work in Central and Western Pennsylvania to more than 50,000, mine officials and union chiefs estimate, the return being the result of the new seven-hour day system, with a five-day week and basic daily wage of $5.

Empty Your Gall Bladder

And You'll Feel Like a Billion Dollars!

Sleepless nights, dog-tired days, headaches, pains in all parts of the body—indigestion—gas. Do you suffer from one or all?

And have you tried every medicine under the sun, only to find yourself back where you started?

No wonder, for you, like thousands of others have probably been treating yourself for everything but the right thing. Get at the unsuspected cause—your gall bladder. If sluggish, it won't pour into your small intestines the most important digestive juice necessary for neutralizing gastric acid, quickening digestion and disinfecting the intestinal tract. If this juice doesn't flow freely, then your food sours, putrifies, stomach becomes filled with gas and acidity.

From Germany's greatest chemists comes a simple, pleasant means to make this digestive juice flow freely, and put you on the sunny side of life. Magnesia Oxoids, little white tablets that release pure oxygen. This amazing oxygen—purer than the air you breathe—plus magnesia, gently stimulates the gall bladder, neutralizes burning acidity and sweeps that poison-packed bowel clean.

M'LEOD'S BILL HELD SOUND BY NYE

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Passage of the McLeod bill to pay off 1,815 million dollars in frozen deposits in closed banks would be one of the greatest moves Congress could make toward national recovery, Senator Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, said today.

Nye continued:

"The principle of the McLeod bill is absolutely sound. It simply is that the government should make it possible for the closed banks to be able to pay depositors the money that actually belongs to the depositors, but now is being kept from them."

Nye said he hoped there would be sufficient demand from all sections of the country to force Congress to act. The McLeod bill now is before the House. A companion measure identical in nature, is before the Senate Banking Committee. The Senate measure is sponsored by Thomas (Dem.), of Oklahoma.

Nye added:

"Release of nearly two billions in cash, spread through every state in the union, would be an overpowering impetus to recovery. That money would include thousands of small deposits belonging to working people unemployed and those on charity rolls. The money would be quickly turned over time and again. Much of it would go to the butcher, the baker, the landlord, the clothier, the doctor and dozens of others whose services figure in our every day life."

Nye said this would mean a repeated turnover with the released money actually benefiting thousands aside from depositors.

Nye added:

"Release of this money would be an absolutely sound policy financially. The money belongs to the depositors. In many cases the banks have ample collateral to back their obligations, but lack the cash. The government in time would get back virtually every cent it puts up."

M'Leod Plan Sponsor In Senate Lauds Move

By ELMER THOMAS

United States Senator from Oklahoma. Written Expressly for the Hearst Newspapers.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—I am supporting the McLeod bill proposing a method whereby deposits in restricted and closed banks may be paid in full.

Because I approve the bill I introduced a similar measure in the Senate.

The bill proposes to authorize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance funds to pay such deposits. And to secure such advances of funds all assets of such banks are to be delivered to RFC for collection over a 10-year period.

If the business of the country is revived and restored then value will return to all forms of collateral and within 10 years collections will be made to cover the amount of money now proposed to be advanced. In the end the government will not lose in the program proposed.

It is the announced policy of the administration to expand credit and to have such expansion widely distributed. The bill, if enacted, will thaw out the deposit money now frozen in some 2,000 banks and will enable many thousand depositors to receive some two billion dollars in money for that which now amounts to no more than claims against restricted or closed banks.

By the enactment of the bill thousands of depositors will be helped, business will be stimulated, credit will be revived and expanded and the amount of credit or deposit money will be increased and the public generally will be correspondingly benefitted.

State Delays Pay Of Relief Prober

The State Emergency Relief Board has requested a return of the requisition for salary and expenses of Douglas P. Falconer, of Brooklyn, who was engaged to investigate the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Administration, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin said Falconer failed to submit an itemized expense account.

New York Congressman Backs McLeod Bill to Pay Deposits in Full

Opinion in all parts of the country is concentrating in favor of the McLeod Bill which would authorize the payment of all depositors in closed Federal Reserve member banks in full. Payments would be made by the purchase of the banks' assets by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The RFC would then get its money back by liquidating the assets over a period of 10 years. It is expected that the value of assets would increase to such a point by that time that the government agency would suffer no loss.

Representative James M. Mead (Dem.), of New York, chairman of the House Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads, is an enthusiastic supporter of the measure to free bank deposits.

Pointing out that he already has asked the Comptroller General and the RFC to submit estimates to him on the effect of the passage of the McLeod bill on the general financial structure of the nation he said:

"I would readily favor passage of this bill providing the losses involved do not assume undue proportion, say above 10 or 15 per cent. It would be a very good venture, in my estimation for several reasons. In the first place it would strengthen the assets by reason of the government's assumption of responsibility.

"Then, too, it would have a healthy effect upon the economic situation by making available a large volume of purchasing power. It would also enable conservators and liquidating committees to expedite their work which in turn would reduce costs of liquidation now borne by depositors and stockholders."

Only one provision is made by Mr. Mead in indorsing the bill. He believes the government should not take over assets which cannot eventually be liquidated at least 85 per cent.

Attorney Expelled By Nazis to Speak

Leo Gallagher, California attorney, recently expelled from Germany after offering to defend four Communists charged with burning the Reichstag, will speak in Carnegie Hall, North Side, at 8 p. m. today. Ada Wright, mother of two of the Negro defendants in the Scottsboro case, also is on the program.

BILL TO FREE BANK FUNDS SPEEDED

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Sentiment for quick passage of the McLeod bill, which would release $1,875,000,000 now tied up in closed national banks and pay the depositors in full, wsa gaining today in both branches as the House Banking Committee prepared to report the measure.

The bill, which provides for the RFC to take over all the assets of the closed banks, pay the depositors in full and slowly liquidate the assets over a 10-year period, also would aid the closed state banks. The latter banks have large reserve funds tied up in the big closed national banks and the receipt of this money would enable most of the state banks to reopen, said Representative McLeod (Dem.), of Michigan.

Senators Thomas (Dem.) of Oklahoma, and Nye (Rep.) of North Dakota, issued public statements indorsing the measure and took their places among the large group working for its immediate enactment.

DOUG MAY MEET MARY SOON

LONDON, April 5.—(AP.)—Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., returning here yesterday from a trip to Italy and Spain, was believed to be nearer complete reconciliation with his wife, Mary Pickford.

There were reports that there remains to be settled only whether England, instead of the United States as first anticipated, would be selected as the scene for the actual reunion.

"Ask me about my work if you like, but don't ask me about my private life."

So said Doug as he bounded from a plane at Croyden Airdrome after a flight from Barcelona. He was greeted by a crowl of friends and curious persons.

Despite his refusal to discuss the expected reconciliation, it was learned he talked with Miss Pickford over the Trans-Atlantic telephone several times while he was in Barcelona, and it was thought he discussed with her the time and place of the reunion.

Patterson and Park On Colfax Program

Judge Frank P. Patterson and District Attorney Andrew T. Park will be speakers at a "fathers' night" celebration by the Parent-Teachers' Association of Colfax School in the school building Tuesday night. Refreshments will be served during a social hour that will follow the program.

Kidnapers Release Woman Held 4 Days

CHICAGO, April 5.—(INS.)—Thelma Millar, 26, reappeared today after being missing four days and told police she was kidnaped by a gang intent on obtaining information concerning her divorced husband, Al Bregar, missing gangster.

Her captors released her from an automobile early today, the woman told detectives, after threatening to take her for a gangland "ride" if she reported the abduction.

BIG HEARTED JIM

A SWELL fellow, Jim. Everybody liked him. Especially on pay day. You couldn't get within earshot of the big boy without his asking you to have a cigar, have a drink, have anything he had. And he treated his family royally. The children were always in shoes, mother always looked as if she had stepped out of a magazine page, and all the uncles and cousins and nephews on Jim's gift list laid end to end would have reached half way to Christmas. The only person that Jim forgot was himself. He looked—well, you know, sort of overworked, and his clothes were anything but new. Last week Jim lost his job. And if somebody only dared tell him why—namely, that you can't keep a salesman's job without keeping up appearances—he'd do big Jim a wonderful favor. Maybe he'll read this, and turn over a new leaf. We'd like to think so. Jim is a real character—we can give you his name and address, though we wouldn't. But there are many, many like him, and if you are reading this, whether man or woman, haven't given a thought to your looks for goodness knows when—BRACE UP and resolve to do so NOW,—in time. This paternal advice is given for what seems a very selfish reason. Naturally we are anxious to sell you your new spring clothes. But we're telling you facts—and whether you buy your clothes at Harris' or don't, they're facts nevertheless. LUCKIES ARE ALL-WAYS KIND TO YOUR THROAT

"I smoke Luckies because the finest tobaccos and only the clean center leaves give Luckies that better taste. But they don't stop there. For throat protection, 'It's toasted!' Long golden strands of only the center leaves . . . rolled round, and firm . . . no loose ends. That's why Luckies 'keep in condition'—do not dry out. Luckies are all-ways kind to my throat."

Only the Center Leaves—these are the Mildest Leaves

NOT the top leaves—they're under-developed—they are harsh!
The Cream of the Crop
They taste better
NOT the bottom leaves—they're inferior in quality—coarse and sandy!

SCHOOL GROUP ASKS TAX RELIEF

A demand that the next session of the Legislature bring about adequate relief from the heavy burden of taxation, was included in resolutions adopted at the last meeting of the Westmoreland County School Directors Association. The 400 members of the association have gone on record in no uncertain terms that relief must be brought about at the next meeting of the state lawmakers.

The resolution declares:

"We have arrived at the place where real estate can no longer bear the burden that has been thrust upon it, and that we who have taken pride in being a home-owning, liberty-loving people, fostering a free system of public education, view with alarm the inevitable conclusion—homes lost, schools closed and children sent home from class rooms."

The Westmoreland County group is but one of several hundred organizations in Pennsylvania that have demanded relief be furnished by the next session of the Legislature. To this end, many legislative programs are in the making. The programs include the state control and maintainance of schools, elimination of duplication of waste in govern...ental services and consolidation of local taxing bodies in the interests of economy.

Nine Rabbit Deaths Result of Thefts

Thieves who stole three mother rabbits Easter Sunday night also caused the deaths of their nine babies, W. H. Cook, of 20 East Woodford avenue, said today.

The little ones died Tuesday. They were all too young to live without their mothers, Cook explained. Hereafter he is going to lock up his breeding pens.

Pattern 1754

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

A burst of genius was responsible for this gracious "dual personality" frock. Its afternoon version is sketched on the large figure—and you'll adore it! The frill of contrast at the neckline, the smart vestee trimmed with chic buttons, pointed seamings to slenderly mould the waistline, and tucked sleeves joined to the new drop shoulder line will capture your fancy. A sheer, silk or crisp cotton would be perfect for it. For a more formal frock the small sketch shows the sleeves, vestee and collar omitted. Any one of the aforementioned fabrics are good for this version, too, or you might use lace or satin.

Pattern 1754 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 takes 3¼ yards 39-inch fabric and ½ yard contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Contract Bridge :-: How to Play How to Win :-: By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

A Squeeze for a Grand Slam

When a defending player is confronted with a situation in which he has all the suits except trumps safely stopped and therefore feels sure than an opponent who has undertaken a Grand Slam contract cannot make any part of his contract by the running of a long plain suit, a Double of seven cannot be criticized as unduly optimistic; and yet there is a player who found to his sorrow that his stoppers were not as effective as he had hoped they would be.

The hand and bidding were:
West, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ 75 ♡ 108632 ◇ 976 ♣ 953
♠ AKQ1082 ♡ J9 ◇ A85 ♣ 86	North West East South	♠ 9643 ♡ A4 ◇ KQ2 ♣ AK104
	♠ J ♡ KQ75 ◇ J1043 ♣ QJ72

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 NT	Pass
7 ♠	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

West's bid of seven spades after East's conventional bid of four no-trump was but a short cut to what he knew the ultimate goal to be. After East's Forcing Takeout and his latest showing of two Aces and the King of clubs by the four-no-trump bid, West, of course, could not consider playing the contract short of a Grand Slam. I have already commented on South's Double but it may be added that since he held four cards in each of the three plain suits he reasoned that at best, in addition to whatever trump length West might have, West could win only one heart, three diamonds and two clubs, and therefore that unless West had seven spade tricks, which he probably didn't, the Grand Slam contract must be defeated.

North's Opening lead was a heart, and, in view of South's Double, when the Dummy went down West saw that he had but one opportunity to make the contract. South obviously held heart honors and probably also at least the Queen and Knave of clubs, as the Double of the Grand Slam contract, with only 100 points to gain, would be a losing bet if South had but one string to his bow. West, of course, was not interested in South's control of the fourth round of the diamond suit as he held but three diamonds in each hand.

Realizing that the squeeze was his only chance, West won the first trick with the heart Ace, then followed with four rounds of trumps and three rounds of diamonds, winding up in his own hand. The last two trumps were now led, and South found, on the lead of the spade 2, that he was hopelessly squeezed. He could not retain a club stopper and also the heart King.

Tomorrow's Hand
North, Dealer.

North and South vulnerable.

	♠ K10 ♡ A3 ◇ 984 ♣ AJ10652
♠ Q853 ♡ 976 ◇ A10652 ♣ 8	North West East South	♠ J942 ♡ QJ105 ◇ Q7 ♣ K73
	♠ A76 ♡ K842 ◇ KJ3 ♣ Q94

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Pinchot Fire of Old Appears Lacking

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Aril 5.—Unless something approaching a miracle occurs within the next two weeks, the old Pinchot fire will be missing from the Republican Senatorial primary campaign.

Mr. Shields

The Governor yesterday returned to the capital from a vacation in Florida, where he had gone to recuperate from an attack of shingles which virtually incapacitated him for four months. He was bronzed by the Southern sun, but it was evident that he will need further advances toward normal condition—and within two weeks—if he is to be the Pinchot who swept through the state in fiery campaigns in 1922, 1926 and 1930.

The Governor says he has recovered from the illness which overtook him during the last special legislative session. He may be well, but he is not yet in the physical condition known to those who have seen him vigorously campaigning in the past.

* * *

Voice Weak, Pinchot Thin and Nervous

There was when he returned to his office for an hour a noticeable weakness in his voice. He appeared thin and a trifle nervous.

Some of this may have been due to the effort to make his bold will triumph over his body. Throughout his life perfect health, the outdoors and the active life have been fetishes of the Pinchot family. It is irritating to one so constituted as Mr. Pinchot to find himself unable to accomplish the physical efforts to which he has been accustomed.

Undoubtedly some of his fatigue could be attributed to his trip north. But this fatigue is nothing to the strain imposed by an active campaign. Therefore, the Governor will be compelled to conserve his physical resources, according to present indications.

* * *

May Still Put on Plenty of Fireworks

Of course, Mr. Pinchot can materially reduce the pace at which he has traveled in past campaigns, and still put on a show which would be pyrotechnics for another man. He always has been the master showman and the iron man of politics.

Indicated plans call for fewer public appearances than formerly. There will not be the protracted and speedy automobile tours, with a sound wagon a couple of miles in advance to notify the people at the crossroads that the main show is just a short way behind and soon will stop to permit the Governor to say a few words.

In these stops the Governor used to do some of his most effective campaigning. His handshake was a vote getter, his smile infectious, and he had an uncanny faculty for remembering names, especially first names, learned on previous visits. There will be little or none of this.

He was a trial to some of those who campaigned with him, as he insisted on traveling in an open car, to be seen by all and to see all; some of the more timorous and less hardy souls suffered on frosty spring mornings. All did not possess a huge muskrat or bearskin coat, as did the Governor.

* * *

Use of Radio Planned for Race

Now and then at the stops there was a welcome oasis—of which the Governor, of course knew nothing—and at which some of those who traveled with him could procure restoratives.

The radio will play a major part in the Pinchot champaign. It will restrict his appeal, for his personal magnetism always was of more value in votes than what he had to say. However, he will be merely doing what so many other candidates have done, though it will be with reluctance that he abandons the old style stumping.

The Governor is not yet ready to discuss politics openly, but it is evident from the attitude of his immediate circle that he will completely divorce himself from the gubernatorial scramble in the Republican party. Many of his friends will be for Attorney General William A. Schnader, but not through any public appeal from Mr. Pinchot.

* * *

Expects Votes From All Quarters

Like Senator Reed, his chief adversary, he figures that he will receive votes from groups surrounding the gubernatorial candidates.

Mr. Pinchot faces—before even beginning a campaign—administrative tasks which would tax a man of the most robust health. The relief problem, with the state dependent on the federal government for almost all required funds; decision as to a special session of the Legislature, and the numberless matters which have piled up in his absence, must be dealt with.

In addition, he will have matters of political strategy to discuss with his associates.

For a man not possessed of full vigor, he has some busy weeks ahead.

CIVIC BUSINESS INQUIRY BEGUN BY LEADERS

Baltimore Chairman To Head Economy League Survey

The initial step toward an inquiry into the business affairs of the city had been taken today by a group of civic, business and industrial leaders.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, men prominent in the city's civic and business affairs approved formation of an Efficiency and Economy Commission, patterned after one which functioned in Baltimore.

Maj. Ezra B. Whitman, who was chairman of the Baltimore Commission, was elected head of the organization.

The group decided to follow the Baltimore plan in carrying out a survey of the city government. In Baltimore, every branch of the city government was investigated with the purpose of achieving efficiency and economy.

Accountants, engineers and administrative specialists functioned in Baltimore under Whitman and others without cost to the city, the staff being supplied by employers without charge.

A. Rex Flinn, president of Booth & Flinn Company, presided at the opening of the meeting yesterday, and later turned the chair over to Arthur E. Braun, president of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, who explained the purposes of the proposed commission.

The meeting was arranged by the National Economy League. The League was authorized by City Council and the Mayor to organize a survey of city activities.

SLUM WRECKING WORK STARTS

Wrecking crews will start on the city's slum clearance program Saturday when four dwellings at 1214 Hazel street, Hill district, and three houses at 120-24 Dahlem street, Twelfth Ward, will be turned over to contractors by the Department of Public Health.

Consents have been received from the owners of 50 buildings for their removal. The goal of the campaign at present is 100 buildings.

Private contractors will demolish the first lot of houses, but assistance will be required from the Federal Relief Works Division to complete the program, according to Health Director Ray P. Moyer.

Waivers from property owners are now being collected by Lee T. Sellars, formerly with the Pittsburgh Housing Association, who has been working as a laborer in the Bureau of Sanitation until Council acts to create a new job for him. Council has appropriated $3,000 for tools and trucks for the campaign.

Penn Avenue Police Station Reopened

The Penn Avenue Police Station, No. 3, at 2600 Penn avenue, was formally reopened today. It replaces No. 5 at Forty-third street, which has been closed. The Penn avenue station is one of the five closed two years ago as an economy measure. One other, No. 13, at Woods Run, also has been reopened.

Three Injured When Auto Strikes Pole

Phillip Remlinger, 53, of Ormond street, and two passengers in his automobile, Mr. and Mrs. James Gallagher, 4721 Langhorn street, were injured last night when the machine struck a pole in Second avenue, near the Tenth Street Bridge, according to a police report.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., April 5.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Well, they had a big moving picture opening in Hollywood last night, Dillinger was there, I suppose he was, he is everywhere else where anything of importance takes place. Looks like the only way we ever going to catch him, is to wait till he hires a yacht and starts through Turkey.

Will Rogers.

If I was Insull I wouldn't mind coming back here and facing an investigation, if nothing more happens than at all the other investigations that start out so sensationally, and peter out so quietly. Investigations are held just for photographers. Yours, WILL.

Trout Season Near, 1,200 Get Licenses

With the brook trout season opening April 15, S. F. Molinary, license clerk in the County Treasurer's office, today announced more than 1,200 fishermen in the Pittsburgh district already have purchased their licenses.

The rush, however, has not started yet, the clerk said. He expects a big increase late in the month, reaching its climax before the Memorial Day holidays next month. The trout season ends July 31. The limit is 20 a day.

Held for Court On Lottery Charge

On charges of operating a numbers lottery, Sidney Lacone, of Colwell street, was held for court when given a hearing today before Police Magistrate J. V. McGowan. Six men taken in a raid at 1541 Center avenue yesterday were fined $25 or 30 days in jail.

Lacone denied he was the owner of the establishment.

Temperance Leader Speaks Here Sunday

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Board of Temperance and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will speak at the Mt. Washington Methodist Episcopal Church next Sunday.

MISSIONARIES RETURN HOME

Another chapter was added to the romantic story of a youthful pair of Pittsburgh missionaries today as the Rev. Hugh Stouppe and his wife, Olive, were reunited with their friends and relatives after a seven-year stay in the Orient.

Graduating from the Pittsburgh Bible Institute in 1926, Rev. Stouppe and Miss Olive Smith set out for China. While en route up the Yangtze River, the American steamer in which they were traveling was raked by gunfire.

After two years in China the friendship that began in Pittsburgh had turned to romance and the young couple were married in the town of Wanhsien, 1,200 miles inland from Shanghai.

Boy's 'Pen' Find Pistol, Finger Blown Off

Right in the midst of the physical science lesson at Latimer Junior High School today there was excitement no end.

Howard Blackburn, 13, a Negro, found a fountain pen in a desk. As he toyed with it, the "pen" exploded, tore off a finger, the bullet ricocheting from the ceiling to a wall and then clattered onto the floor.

The pen pistol contained a .32-caliber bullet. The youth's hand was badly burned and a little finger blown off. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

EPSTEIN THIRD IN SPELLING CONTEST

State Championship Goes to Lebanon County Entrant

By J. JAMES MOORE
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, April 5.—Ted Epstein, 27-year-old Pittsburgh attorney, took third place in the old-fashioned Pennsylvania spelling bee held in the State Forum yesterday, while first honors went to William T. Baldwin, Jr., of Lebanon County.

Epstein was representing Allegheny County, whose contest was sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. He missed the word "crustacean," spelling it with an "i" instead of an "e".

Enthusiastic applause was given him by an audience of more than 1,000 persons as he left the stage.

MEN FARE BEST

Men fared better than the women entrants in the "spelldown." The three-hour barrage of hundreds of words ended when J. R. Brotherton, retired Luzerne County lawyer, went down on "dietetics" and left Baldwin standing alone.

Mrs. Edna Bell, housewife, of Hopwood, Fayette County, the last of 22 women, spelled "electrolytic" with an "i" instead of a "y." She won fourth place.

Forty-nine county winners were represented in the final match. The contest was held by the Department of Public Instruction as part of its program commemorating the one-hundredth anniversary of free schools in Pennsylvania.

TOUGH ONES GIVEN

Some of the words mastered by the last four participants were asphyxiate, cenotaph, paradigm, gullibility, chenille and irascible.

After Mrs. Bell dropped out the three remaining spellers succeeded with raucous, libel, irate, pageant, revoked, incredulity and anniversary.

Then Epstein lost and the two remaining contestants went through recurrence, fascism, picnicking, calisthenics, conceded and delicatessen before Baldwin, a 25-year-old telephone company employe, was crowned state champion.

Mrs. C. L. Moore, of Slippery Rock, who was Butler's representative, placed ninth. Greene County's champ speller, Sol Levine, of Rice's Landing, was seventeenth. He went out on the word "bailiwick."

ENTRANTS GET MEDALS

Other contestants from the western end of the state were William P. Ice, a New Castle mail carrier; Mrs. A. J. Moore, a housewife, from Baden; Mrs. E. N. Bailey, from Warren County; Mrs. F. Huber, from Washington County, and Mrs. Mary Burke, from Westmoreland County.

Thaddeus Stevens medals, struck off at the Philadelphia mint, were presented each contestant.

DINERS IN THE "ELEVATOR GRILL," SMALLEST IN TOWN

Tiny Cafe Operated In Stalled Elevator

Table, Four Chairs Fill Downtown Restaurant

The title of the smallest and most novel lunch room in the city goes to the "grill" of the Keystone Building in Fourth avenue.

Set up inside a stalled elevator, the miniature restaurant is equipped with four camp stools and a table that is hardly large enough for a game of solitaire.

But, as the proprietress, Miss Mary Jamison, says:

"When you serve good food, you don't need a floor show and an orchestra to take the customers' minds off what they're eating."

Miss Jamison has been operating her cafe for about a year. She asserts she has no intention of expanding—but if another elevator should get stalled, she may change her mind.

ELIZABETH TO CELEBRATE

The one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the borough of Elizabeth will open in that borough tonight. Special programs for the celebration, which will last several days, have been arranged. They will be featured by historical pageants depicting the development of the town from the time it was settled by the French.

The act incorporating Elizabeth as a town was signed April 5, 1834, by Gov. George Wolf.

The oldest resident of the borough is Samuel McClure, 93, of 310 Fifth street, a veteran of the Civil War. Due to illness he will not be able to attend the festivities.

Council Affirms Anti-Parrot Law

The ordinance providing for the destruction of parrots which have been imported to Pittsburgh since 1932, or which have been in contact with birds infected with parrot fever, was affirmed at a special meeting of Council's Finance Committee yesterday, and will be up for final passage Monday.

REGISTRATION SHOWS GAINS

Republicans held part of their ground in the Sixth, Seventh and Eighth wards as the registration commissioners today revealed figures for the first registration day in the districts.

So far, 82 districts in the first eight wards show totals of Republican 3,919 and Democrats, 3,322.

The first five wards, however, indicated a strong trend towards the Democrats, the Forty-seventh District count being only a little more than 50 apart. These wards have always been considered Republican.

Many districts in the Seventh and Eighth wards ignored the Democrat trend and remained Republican by strong majorities. In the Second Ward, districts attributed to Pat O'Malley, local leader, showed 10 to 1 Republican, while those favoring Alderman Thomas Geary switched to the Democratic column.

DOWLER, TREES, REED NAMED BY BOARD

'Politics' Bars Herron From Obtaining Appointment

The new directors of the Allegheny County Authority today awaited word from Washington as to when and where they will formally organize and prepare to take over the problem of getting and spending nearly $30,000,000 Public Works Administration funds.

The directors, Joseph C. Trees, prominent oil man and PWA head in the state; William McK. Reed, banker, and Press C. Dowler, architect, were appointed yesterday by the Board of County Commissioners to serve on the authority.

Meanwhile, members of the legal department of the county are in Washington, conferring with PWA officials concerning details of the loan, which is expected to be granted if the money is appropriated by Congress.

APPROVAL AWAITED

So far, however, Administrator Harold L. Ickes has not publicly given approval to the project.

The appointment of the three came after Commissioners C. C. McGovern and C. M. Barr failed to second the name of former Mayor John S. Herron and asked Commissioner William D. Mansfield, who sponsored Herron, to suggest an alternative candidate.

Mansfield refused. The majority then named Trees.

M'GOVERN GIVES REASON

McGovern pointed out that he had supported Herron in politics, but that for the very reason that the former Mayor was in politics, he should not be included in the group.

The chairman thought that the appointees should be non-political.

In a resolution passed appointing the members, the commissioners specified that hereafter the Board of County Commissioners relinquished all authority on the PWA loan and projects to the authority.

The appointments are from "April 4, 1934, until a successor is appointed."

PROJECTS LISTED

Included in the projects planned are the construction on 10 bridges, a system of main roads, improvement of the city wharf and allied improvements. The federal government is to be repaid from tolls collected from the projects over a period of 30 years.

No setup has been made as to salaries for the directors or future employes, speculation in some quarters setting the directors' salaries at $10,000 and in others, $5,000.

City Pay Offices Open to Dismissal

The Civil Service Commission has transferred the positions of city paymaster and paymaster's clerk to the exempt class, thus giving Mayor McNair a free hand to dismiss Louis Glesenkamp, the paymaster, and Harry Sikov. The Mayor at one time sent them letters of dismissal, which he was forced to withdraw because of civil service protection.

Johnson Losing Teeth, Must Now Depend on Claws

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Gen. Johnson will not ask for teeth in the new NRA. He will hang on by his claws.

That's to sidetrack progressive improvements. The General figures if he doesn't ask for strawberries the progressives can't ask for cream.

The General's licensing power folds up in June. It was this power that was the walrus tusks of the NRA. It was also the tiger's snappers and the hornet's bit and drill.

We didn't figure the General would forget his cavalry training so quickly. Progress in the Army depends less on reins than it did on spurs. And no careful driver needed brakes if he had a whip.

SOCIETY MAN DINED IN TEN-CENT STORE

Office Girls 'Guests' At Groom-to-Be's 'Bachelor' Lunch

Office girls and grinning shoppers attended the "bachelor" luncheon of the bridegroom-to-be in one of Pittsburgh's smartest society weddings at the lunch counter of the F. W. Woolworth Company, Sixth avenue and Smithfield street.

Henry P. Wright, who will marry Miss Ruth Willock, of Sewickley, Saturday, was tendered a 30-cent luncheon yesterday by a couple of pals, William M. Scaife, Jr., and Wilson M. Book.

He thought he was going to the Duquesne Club, but they had different plans.

Newspaper photographers and reporters were on hand when Wright was ushered into the restaurant at the noon-day rush hour and placed in a reserved seat bedecked with pink and blue baby ribbon, and with a background of lingerie.

Mr. Scaife, son of Mrs. William Scaife, of Sewickley, said:

"There's been a depression, so we brought Bill here."

Said the bewildered Mr. Wright:

"I might have known something was up when these two asked me to lunch."

Wright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Merrill Wright, of Beechwood boulevard. Miss Willock is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott Willock, of Sewickley.

The wedding will be at 5 p. m. Saturday at the Willock home.

County RWD Projects Supplant CWA Work

Projects halted by the termination of the Civil Works program last week were starting up in various parts of the county today as the new Relief Work Division campaign got under way.

Job assignments sent out by the State-Federal Employment Agency have passed the 5,000 mark, and Ralph W. Gibbs, bureau director, said he is speeding work notices through the mails as soon as requisitions are made by the RWD office.

Philip H. Lantz, assistant RWD administrator, announced that about 360 projects in the county have already been sanctioned. This number, according to Lantz, will absorb all former CWA employes eligible under RWD regulations.

The local office, Lantz said, is pressing Harrisburg for a complete approval of the 420 projects that were under way when the CWA ended. They will provide work for about 25,000 drawn from families on the welfare list.

With the system of paying employes as yet unsettled, James L. Cleary, county RWD paymaster, said he cannot issue checks for work done today until it is decided whether salaries will be paid by the state or federal government.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh's Society Happenings

Practically closed since its New Year's party, Fox Chapel Golf Club, responding to the renewed interest in gaiety, is getting ready for what one might call its spring opening.

On Saturday night April 21, the club will have its opening spring dinner-dance. And it's to be ever so gala an affair, I'm told, with special entertainment and all that sort of thing.

There'll be Dutch treat tables at the dinner-dance, and tables, of course, for those who will entertain parties of friends on the night of the big spring dance.

Planning this dance are the women of the special entertainment committee for this year—Mrs. John Berdan, Mrs. J. Crossan Hays, Mrs. Howard Heinz, Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys, Mrs. Graham McCargo, Mrs. Grant McCargo, Mrs. H. H. McClintic, Jr., Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, Mrs. J. Henry O'Neill, Mrs. William B. Salsbury, Mrs. Clarence Stanley, Mrs. Albert G. Wells and Virginia Frew Wright.

Benefit Dance For Hospital

Still another dance being plotted to entertain folks in these gay post-Lenten days is one on Friday night, April 20, at the Hotel Schenley. Arranging this affair is a committee representing young people's organizations in the different Episcopalian churches of Pittsburgh.

And the dance is to be a benefit—for the free bed fund of St. Margaret Memorial Hospital. There was a meeting of leaders last night at the hospital.

Now, just before the spring sports and gardening gain the attention of the fashionables, we're having a season of "last" concerts for the year. For in a few more weeks golf will win all the attention of the sports-minded, and very shortly Pittsburgh and Sewickley's many proud garden owners will be engrossed in planning for their summer flowers.

Among those supporting this concert will be such leaders as Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. Charles S. Shoemaker, Mrs. George P. Bassett, Mrs. David W. Kuhn, Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., Dr. Thomas Arbuthnot, Mrs. Taylor Allderdice and Mrs. William Knox.

Margaret was presented to society in the fall at a tea in the family home. Her betrothal was announced at a New Year's night buffet at Phillips Hall.

College Club Pageant Given

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

The pageant written for the College Club's twenty-fifth anniversary by Mrs. Kirkland Wiley Todd, was the chief feature yesterday in the week of celebration. "Through the Years" is no dull repititious history, such as club chroniclers are apt to fall into. Quite the opposite; it has life, humor, wit and action and was effectively staged and efficiently directed by Miss Mary Margaret Robb.

Mrs. Todd wrote her lines in clever verse and the records of the presidents, done by various members, while they emphasized the achievements of each regime, also furnished many a laugh. The setting was a pillared, curtained background with a bridge across the River Styx in the foreground. To the bridge came the past presidents, asking of the guardian goddesses entrance to Happyland. In chorus effect, a group of Chronic Objectors came and were consigned to hell, later to be given another opportunity through the intercession of Minerva. The pageant was brought to a close with a prophecy by Mrs. George M. Swan, present president.

Between the afternoon and evening performances there was a dinner of which Mrs. Swan had charge. Telling the assembled guests that no preparation was necessary for a College Club program, so gifted are its members, she drew, as if without prearrangement, certain names from a silver basket.

Those so elected gave the program, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer doing an appropriate poem, Mrs. Elias Sunstine speaking facetiously on progressive education, Miss Louisa Knox recalling some humorous moments in the club history, Mrs. H. Lloyd Cleland, former president of the Mt. Holyoke College Club, telling "How I Brung 'Em In" (meaning the 350 new members) and Miss Eleanor Grier and Mrs. Walter S. Church completing the entertainment with some original touches.

Through the Spyglass

Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answered promptly!

These are the days when we are apt to surprise our friends with that fatuous look on their assorted faces . . .

the look of the gardner who smells spring!

Just starting off on the business of growing grass. (More of a job than we'd have thought!) For first the low'ly dandelion must be routed . . . and for this, there is nothing better than the new dandelion weeders which come at 19c. Sturdy, tenacious jiggers with wooden handles to grip, and metal prongs to throw fear into the heart of any weed. In long-handled varities, too, 69c.

* * *

Then . . . for the triumphant moment when you proclaim your erstwhile lawn free of such marauders . . . grasp one of the spading forks that are to be had for 95c and mulch the ground thoroughly. Adding peat moss when necessary . . . and thanking your stars that one of the stores has seen fit to continue it at a former sale price of $2.95 a bale (a bale oh city-ites is a matter of some 180 or 190 pounds!). This can be kept stored away for future reference and is a grand buy now at this price.

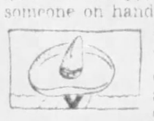
* * *

When you are ready to do the first act of the Sower . . . get yourself some GOOD lawn seed. Remembering all the time that there is lawn seed . . . and LAWN seed. After having seen the rag, tag-and-bobtail that comes up when indifferent grass is sown . . . we heartily endorse the new lawn seed that one of the stores is offering now at 45c the pound . . . with a special type for shady spots at 49c the pound . . . and white clover seed at 35c the half-pound package.

* * *

We think that there is nothing quite so unhappy as the sight of someone on hands and knees trying to figure out what's going to come up . . . if any! Hence the choice of these new markers, 25c each, with galvanized shank to stick into the ground . . . magnifying glass bulls-eye on top under which the name of what you've planted keeps dry and clear. (Top something like the glass in a flashlight . . . and unscrews the same way.)



* * *

Roses . . . growing in your own yard! Plant these monthly bloomers right now and have posies before you every month from now on. They're 35c each . . . 3 for $1.

* * *

Then . . . after you've laid the best plans of "mice and men" . . . insure them against going astray by setting a bird bath and a bench in a corner of your lawn.

You can get a bird bath as low as $1.75 now . . . a decorative stone flower pot to set somewhere with telling effect for $2.95 . . . and benches for less than you'd imagine.

Stowe Township Schools Aid Students in Rushmore History Competition

Instructors Supervise Writing

Stowe Township today added its name to the long list of schools actively participating in the Mount Rushmore National Memorial inscription competition, as inquiries from organizations and individuals further emphasized the growing interest in the nationwide patriotic project.

Supervising Principal G. F. Stroup appointed Miss Florence McLaughlin, Stowe High School principal, as chairman of the special group which will assist students in their preparation of the 600-word history of the nation. Students' interest was so keen that editors of the high school's monthly publication, the Stow-Away, prepared special news for their fellow pupils.

Added service to assist many individuals planning to enter the competition was inaugurated today by the Sun-Telegraph, which with associated Hearst newspapers are conducting the competition. A special folder, detailing complete information and rules, is available free at the paper's downtown office, Fifth avenue and Market street, and main publication building lobby, Telegraph square.

There is plenty of time remaining for everyone to submit his text depicting America's epic for inscription in the South Dakota Black Hills that will become a national monument. No fanciful writing is wanted, but merely the pride from the heart that the entrant has in his country's achievements. However, be certain to write on the nine specified points in history, as published repeatedly in the Sun-Telegraph. Read the rules, too, and do not exceed 600 words.

U. S. ENTERPRISE MARKED BY ALASKA PURCHASE

Landing of Norge Emphasized Value Of Territory

(Editor's Note: This is the eighth of a series of articles by Mr. Woodhouse on the nine episodes in American history that are to be recounted in the Mt. Rushmore Memorial.)

By HENRY WOODHOUSE

Again and again during the past decade the world's attention was called to the Arctic regions by daring feats of hardy explorers who sought to complete the conquest of the Arctic by means of aircraft and radio.

They began to realize the importance of Arctic and sub-Arctic lands when they read and heard the prophecies that by using the Arctic airways aircraft engaged in transporting passengers and goods from England to Japan would reduce the distance from 9,900 miles to 6,500 miles, and that the distance between the United States and other parts of the world would be shortened thereby.

Then came the epochal event that made Americans justly proud, for many reasons.

NORGE LANDS AT TELLER

On May 11-13, 1926, the airship "Norge," of the Amundsen-Ellsworth-Nobile expedition, (made possible largely by the American, Lincoln Ellsworth), made the first crossing of the Polar Sea, opening the "north passage" from Europe to America, across the Polar Sea!

During the 71 hours that the "Norge" was in the air millions of men, women and children of the world looked over maps and wondered where the Norge would land.

At last at 8 a. m., Greenwich time, May 14, 1926, the Norge landed at Teller, Alaska.

THE U. S. ALASKA TERRITORY . . . . BOUGHT FROM RUSSIA

For the first time then the world realized that Alaska was to be an important factor in the future greatness of the United States, entirely aside from its wealth in gold and other minerals, and its flora, fauna, natural beauty, fishing, furs and forestry.

BOUGHT FOR SEVEN MILLION

The United States bought Alaska from Russia in the year 1867, for the sum of $7,200,000 in gold.

The Treaty of Purchase was ratified on June 20, 1867.

The Alska purchase had been negotiated by William H. Seward, who was Governor of New York in the years 1838-1842 and Secretary of State of the United States from March 5, 1861, to March 3, 1869.

As Secretary of State under Presidents Abraham Lincoln and Andrew Johnson during the periods of the Civil War and the reconstruction that followed the war, Secretary Seward had hundreds of problems of state to attend to.

To purchase a piece of waste land in the remote sub-Arctic regions and pay $7,200,000 in gold appeared sheer folly.

TREATY RATIFIED

President Andrew Johnson favored the plan and was willing to face the wrath of a hostile Congress which had defeated his measures and passed over his veto the measures which he opposed.

On March 30, 1867, President Johnson announced to the Senate the treaty for the purchase of Alaska in a letter reading as follows:

"Washington, March 30, 1867.
"To the Senate of the United States:

"I transmit to the Senate, for its consideration with a view to ratification, a treaty between the United States and His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias upon the subject of a cession of territory by the latter to the former, which treaty was this day signed in this city by the plenipotentiaries of the parties.

"ANDREW JOHNSON."

Fortunately the treaty was ratified, on June 30, 1867. On July 6, 1867, President Johnson wrote to Congress to arrange for the appropriation of the sum of $7,200,000 in gold, to pay for Alaska, as follows:

"Washington, July 6, 1867.
"To the Senate and House of Representatives:

"I transmit to Congress a copy of a treaty between the United States and His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, the ratifications of which were exchanged in this city on the twentieth day of June last.

"This instrument provides for a cession of territory to the United States in consideration of the payment of $7,200,000 in gold. The attention of Congress is invited to the subject of an appropriation for this payment, and also to that of proper legislation for the occupation and government of the territory as a part of the dominion of the United States.

"ANDREW JOHNSON."

On October 9-18, 1867, at Sitka, Alaska, Prince Maksutof, acting for the Russian government, transferred Alaska to the United States government which was represented by Gen. Lowell H. Rousseau, who became military governor.

KINHEAD FIRST GOVERNOR

The act creating the civil government of Alaska was signed by President Chester Alan Arthur May 17, 1884, and John H. Kinhead was appointed first civil governor.

Covering an area of 590,884 square miles, the territory of Alaska is larger than England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Belgium, Norway, and Sweden combined.

There are over 26,000 miles of coastline on the North Pacific Ocean, Bering Sea and Arctic Ocean, and hundreds of islands, lakes, rivers and streams.

The purchase and development of Alaska is another evidence of that American quality which President Roosevelt characterized as "the pioneer spirit the creative urge which led our people to populate the various areas which from time to time came into their nation."

JUNIOR PATROL

Don't play with fire, fellows! The last few days there have been a good many fires—many of them grass fires. The grass is dry this time of year, and it does the grass good sometimes to burn off the dead leaves. But no one should set fire to a grass field unless he is sure he can control the fire.

A grass fire can set a garage or house on fire, and cause much damage. And it's the same way out in the woods. We saw some fellows going up our hill the other day with packs and lunch, ready to picnic in the woods at the end of their hike out the road. You bet that is good fun, and a fire to cook weiners, fry eggs, or broil a steak helps the lunch to taste much better.

But fires can start in the woods too. There is always a lot of dead wood, grass, and brush around the trees in a wood, and if this undergrowth catches on fire, many of the big trees may be burned so badly that they will die.

So always be careful, fellows. Be sure your fires are under control. Don't throw matches away until you have broken them in half.

We wonder if any of our Junior Patrol clubs have been presenting plays lately. There's one of the best ways we know of to have some good fun and to help others, too.

You can get books with plays in them, complete with all the directions, at the library. Then try to find a part in the play to fit most of your members, make the scenery, and have your play. Play each of the parts just as if you were the person described in the play. This kind of fun gives the girls a good chance to show what they can do, too. Maybe some of your members who have talent would sing or dance between the acts.

Lots of the fun of holding a play is getting the stage and scenery ready. You don't have to go to much trouble. Keep things simple. A chair, a desk, and a table can furnish a room if you know how to make them do.

How about those new members, fellows? This is a swell time of year to get things going.

The Retort Swelegant

Take it from Wm. Wilkerson, which is how I got it. When Tullio Carminati, the actor, first reached Broadway a few years ago, he was approached to accept a part in a show with Ethel Barrymore. Carminati didn't like the role and refused it.

"But," said the producer, "don't you realize what it means to play with Barrymore? Why, in this country she is a tremendous star. It's like playing with Duse. Do you realize what it means to play with Duse?"

"Yes," replied Tullio, "I played with Duse for three years!"

Merciless Truth

A new movie which dealt with a renowned showman's stage efforts was on.

"It just goes to show," said one Broadwayite, "that you can ruin a great reputation by turning a camera on it."

Anything to Oblige

"Mr. Peeps," in the London Bystander, reports among other things:

"I met a charming American girl, who asked me if I had heard the story of Walter Winchell and Cecil Beaton. Can the Beatonian fans, if any, enlighten us?"

Not that we are a beatonian fan, but it goes like this. Beaton was heralded here as a noted photographer, "who used an ordinary camera." And we said that you'd never suspect it was ordinary—unless you saw the pictures.

I Don't Believe It

If you heard this one before, then skip it. Anyhow, it's about the New Yorker and the Glasgow Scotsman who shared a cabin crossing the Atlantic. The first morning out the local was amazed to see the Scot using his toothbrush.

"Say!" he yelled, "that's my toothbrush you're using!"

"So sorry," said the Scot, "I didn't know. I thought it belonged to the ship!"

Newspaperman Stuff

Several seasons ago Heywood Broun was denounced as a stampkeeper. The denouncer was a reader of his column, who argued that he had sent Broun a letter earlier in the month inclosing a stamp for a reply. He still waits.

In his denunciation, the complainant said he suspected all along that Broun was that sort of guy. In his answer via the column Broun rebuttled that two cents was not much to pay for having one's judgment confirmed.

No one has greater admiration for Ernest Hemingway than this observer. But the next time some nincompoop chides us for poor rhetoric or composition, please quote the following sentence from Hemingway's page 5 of "Death in the Afternoon:"

The Morning Mail

To combat the many who seek autographs (and to stop some of the "racketeers" who sell them) we recently remarked that henceforth two-bits would be the price for ours. The monies to go to the unemployed in the newspaper game here. The first response follows:

"Dear Mr. Winchell: Inclosed please find 50 cents for your autograph. I read that you will give the money to the unemployed. I am 13 years old and this is my weekly allowance.

"I sincerely hope that my little share will help some poor child whose father is not as fortunate as we are. Sincerely—Betty Klauber, 325 West End Ave., N. Y."

Thank you, Betty. Because of your generosity you will receive an autographed photo — which I'm selling for $1. You get a big rakeoff because you were the first to want to help others.

Seeing Teddy in Vienna Thrill for Jeritza

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Anybody who has visited Vienna knows what lovely speaking voices the Viennese girls have. Their talk reminds you of Byron's line about Italian—in his "Beppo"—when he says "it sounds as if it should be writ on satin." Maria Jeritza, singing "Annina" in the Nixon, is not exactly a Viennese, for she was born at Bruenn, but even a few years in Vienna do something to the voice and smile. But she became an American as quite a young girl by seeing Theodore Roosevelt in the streets of Vienna. Teddy was returning from his African hunting trip and visiting Franz Josef. He was riding in the imperial carriage; little Jeritza was standing at the curb. Their eyes met and he smiled. So that was her certificate of American citizenship.

Mr. Seibel

Jeritza does not appear to be temperamental—and has many stories about temperamental artists which are hugely amusing. None is more so than the one about the athlete who played Ursus in the opera based on "Quo Vadis." A real athlete was required, because he has to hold Lygia on his outstretched arms before Nero for about 10 minutes. The athlete's first question to the director was, "What will you pay me?"

"Well, your work is not so hard, for an athlete," said the director. "And you do not have to sing or even speak a single line. I'll give you 10 kronen (then about $2) a night."

The athlete was unimpressed. Throwing out his stupendous chest, he said with the supremest confidence:

"I'd like to have you know that I am the Caruso among the athletes. I would not think of appearing in your opera under 20 kronen a night."

He got his $4.

ONLY A POOR SINNER

As a singer at the royal opera, Jeritza came to know nearly all the Hapsburgs. She has many interesting anecdotes and stories, none more dramatic than the one about the funeral of the old Emperor.

He was buried in the vault of the ancient church of the Capuchin Fathers. According to the ritual, the pallbearers carried the coffin to the gate of the vault, and a dignitary knocked at the iron door.

One of the monks put his head through a little window and asked:

"Who knocks?"

"His Majesty Francis Josef, Emperor of Austria and Apostolic King of Hungary, demands admittance and the rest of the grave," said the official.

"No one by that name is known to us," answered the monk.

Once more they knocked at the gate, and this time when the question was asked, "Who knocks?" the answer was given, modestly and humbly, "A poor sinner named Franz Josef seeks eternal rest." Then the monk opened the gate and cried, "Let him enter."

They are poor sinners now, those once mighty Hapsburgs, and Jeritza tells how little Crown Prince Otto once tore his trousers and had to stay in his room until his mother could repair the damage.

AT HOME IN PITTSBURGH

Since Jeritza is in Pittsburgh, singing "Annina" in the new Friml operetta, it is fitting to know what she wrote about Pittsburgh after her first visit here:

"Pittsburgh was the city in which I felt especially at home, more so, perhaps, than in any of the others I visited on the tour. It is a big factory town, like Bruenn in Austria, where I spent my childhood, and has something of the same general atmosphere. Like Bruenn, Pittsburgh is a city of tall smoking chimneys, and for all that Washington was so stately and beautiful, it did not make the same appeal to me that Pittsburgh did. It is hard to forget one's childhood impressions. All I had to do in Pittsburgh in order to feel that I was a little girl again, in the old Moravian home town, was to half close my eyes. And the audience which came to hear me sing did nothing to destroy the illusion. It could not have been kinder or more appreciative if I had been a native-born Pittsburgh girl, and my one regret is that I did not have time to take advantage of some of the social invitations extended to me, and also had to miss an opportunity to go down into one of the iron mines near the city."

We Pittsburghers ought to feel truly flattered by her appreciation, and ought to take her down into an iron mine if she still has the craving. We did not pay her any such tribute as Toledo did, where the papers spoke of her concert as "the greatest event in the history of the city since the Dempsey-Willard prizefight."

Beatrice De Neergard, who will be seen in a principal role in support of Dennis King in "Richard of Bordeaux," coming to the Nixon next week, was born of Danish parents in Baltimore, and was taken to Denmark when she was six months old. Her mother, who is an aunt of Eva Le Gallienne, is the source of her dramatic ambition. She received her stage training, and perfected her English, in a London dramatic school. She returned to America seven years ago and became a member of Miss Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater in New York. She has appeared in two plays with Nazimova, "The Cherry Orchard" and "Dr. Monica."

Odds and Ends

WHEN Clark Gable was in town recently, he took time out one night to attend a party at the home of one of the best-liked newspaper executives in the business. And the proudest youngster in the entire vicinity that night was a young son of the executive in question.

Practically all the kids in the neighborhood—ranging in age from 12 to 14—dropped around to catch a glimpse of the movie star. Gable, accustomed to the racket by this time, took it all good-naturedly and made a distinct impression on the boys and girls.

After the executive's son had dismissed his compauions, the lad dropped into a chair beside Clark and went in for a personal interview of his own. It is doubtful if the kid ever saw a Gable picture, but that didn't stop him from doing a rave.

"I wanna tell you, Mr. Gable," he enthused, "that I think you're just about the swellest actor on the screen. You're what I call a real actor."

The movie star smiled.

"Thanks, son," he returned. "You're probably kidding me, but thanks just the same."

"But I'm not kidding," cried the boy. "I wouldn't miss your pictures for anything. They're all great. I've seen all of them. Yes, sir. All of them."

Gable looked at the lad.

"If you've seen them all," he said, "then you certainly are quite a fan of mine. Tell me, in which picture did you like me best?"

The boy's jaw dropped. He hadn't expected a question like that. He thought rapidly and he tossed his reply off nonchalantly.

"Of all your work, Mr. Gable," he said, "I think you're best in 'Coming Attractions!'" . . .

SPEAKING of movie stars, I see that George Raft is being sued for separation by a wife who suddenly popped up from nowhere. The lady is asking the insignificant sum of $1,200 weekly as alimony.

Some day, when our courts get around to it, Justice will actually be dealt out in such cases as these. Raft has worked desperately hard to get somewhere in pictures, and the success he has achieved is due entirely to his own efforts.

Nobody will deny that Mrs. Raft is entitled to support in spite of the fact that she has been Mrs. Raft in name only for some years. But by what stretch of the imagination she should be permitted to cut in for huge alimony claims on a man who struggled upward alone, is more than I can figure out.

Some day, a judge in one of these cases is going to set a precedent. He is going to lean forward and say:

"Young woman, you have been badly advised. Had you asked for a sensible alimony, the court would not have objected. But I am tired of women who stand aside until their husbands have met with success—and who then leap forward to reap the benefits. Your request for alimony is denied."

And when the day comes, that judge will be cheered to the echo by the men and women the world over who believe in fair play . . .

Garbo's Love Revealed in Article

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, April 5.—Hello! There were days, believe it or not, when the sphinx-like Greta Garbo was in love, when she carried violets to a matinee idol between jobs of dressing hair in a Swedish barber shop. That was some 15 years ago, when the then unknown Greta Gustaffsen wasn't playing solitaire against the world, or burying her true emotions under a mantle of somber inscrutability and aloofness.

The Garbo who was in love—and whose love was spurned—had no aversions then to romance or marriage. She had a "crush" on a good-looking leading man and she did what any other normal girl might have done for her first love—she carried him violets.

This hitherto unrevealed phase of Garbo's carefully concealed early life came to light with the arrival of at the Paramount Studios of Carl Brisson, the man no less, whom the great Swede loved so futilely.

Brisson unknowingly left his scrap-book where this reporter could peruse it, and there is a clipping from an English newspaper, written some three years ago, in which Garbo admits "ALL."

"I well remember falling violently in love with Carl Brisson, and taking him bunches of violets, which he accepted with kindly interest. He was my first 'crush'."

Brisson won't tell whether or not he has seen the little former hairdresser since his arrival in Hollywood. Neither will he say that he has tried to communicate with her. After all, their romance was long ago.

Glances Into the Realms of Domesticity and Romance

By MARION BRUNOT

Husband Objects to Bills, Bride Disillusioned

Your husband won't foot your bills.

He says it will be quits where he comes in, if you don't let up in your extravagant spending.

You are weeping, for you say he mustn't love you any more. And you are scarcely anything but a bride.

Just a few months ago since that big flareup of a wedding. You can still hear the music and vision you and your dad in the church aisle, and the girls behind you with whom you had had cocktail parties and shopping flings and among whom you always were the very best dressed, and ahead at the altar this young man who now lays down the law to you.

And now this wearing of fine and continually new raiment is not going the keep up. That is what your young husband says. Dear Miss Brunot:

I am certainly up against it, and for the first time in my 24 years. I am weeping my eyes out, but it isn't doing any good. I am a blonde and everyone has always said. I have the sort of eyes that when they look up at a fellow, can make him do just anything.

But even though I turn on my lamps to all their capacity, I have come up against a stone wall. And that wall is my young husband.

Scarcely is our wedding trip over and are we settled in our new house until all those things I bought when I was shopping recently came in on my husband's bill. And did he rant! "If you think I'm an easy mark, and am paying those kind of accounts, you're good and mistaken. I'll walk right out on you."

And he has been as cool as ice-squares ever since, although I've been as beguiling as I know how.

He's the first man I've ever been crazy about.

You see, I'm the only child of quite wealthy parents. And to get what I wanted all my life, I simply set up a scream. And in came my desire.

DAD SORE AT BILLS

I had a car of my own and trips and all the clothes I could wear, and more, too. When the bills came in, Mom and I usually avoided dad the first few days of the month, for he was good and sore. But his ire soon disappeared, and he would laugh along with us at our extravagance.

Well, anyway, before I married I had oodles of boy friends who ate right out of the bird dish in my cage. But when along came this fellow I have married, he was different. He used to say: "If you're so set on marrying me, let me tell you, it won't be so smooth sailing. For I won't allow your old man to set us up. I'm on my own feet, and in time I'll have plenty of money. But it 'ain't came yet.

And loving him because he was so strong, I married him.

And now he thinks he'll walk out on me. I can't live without new clothes. And yet, Miss Brunot, I can't live without him. I do love him.

I do think he might have waited awhile to break the sad news of his "tightness" to me. Don't you?

UNHAPPY SIREN.

I think, Unhappy Siren, your husband a wise young man to have come right out in the open when the first bills came in. He decided that if he allowed things to slide, he might fall under the mesmerism of your eyes. And he didn't intend to do so.

He intends to be head of your house, and to support his wife. Or he will not play. But he also intends to quit playing unless you play with him. And not against him.

And in that again he is Solomon.

WISE HUSBAND

He knows very well that unless he stays within what he is making, there will be debts accumulating. And he knows that debts drive out happiness and contentment, and that where there is no happiness and no contentment, love will not stay.

So he is beginning in time to remake you and your extravagant ways.

You had better fall in line, too, if you want him to remain your husband. He will not be sticking around merely to learn the art of eating out of your pretty hands. He isn't that sort. And he told you so very plainly in those courting days. But the trouble was, your little world where you had been the queen, blinded you to the truth of his words. You didn't know there were men who didn't do as you said. Your father was MAN to you.

Don't think, my dear little bride, you can play a double game, here. That you can slip over to "father" and get him to foot extra finery accounts. And then that you can put it over on your husband.

He'll be watching for this. And it will not work.

So for your own contentment, buckle down. Do without so many shopping flings. Learn a few extra chores about the house. Take up "interior decorating," or making your own hats, or crochetting bedspreads.

Plan a course of reading. Even if but detective stories and light weight novels.

Do without a few of your frivolous friends, if they but lead you into trouble.

But don't . . . don't give up your man.

In the end, you'll have your "pretties" and your love, too. For he isn't the sort to stay put where poverty is.

Miss Brunot will be glad to answer letters submitted to her by readers.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Tough Manners

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—There was a young married woman dining with her sister-in-law. She took a piece of meat on her plate, then she placed it back on the platter, explaining, "That meat is too tough for her to eat." Her teeth aren't any too good, but even so does that excuse this gesture, even in the family?

2—Is it pardonable for a man to tell his hostess that he doesn't eat certain items when they are served for refreshments? Isn't this a bit frank while being entertained in the friend's home? D.

1—Nothing excuses this terrible taste, this unspeakable rudeness. If this woman's teeth are such a social trial to her, she should make a point of staying at home and eating milk toast!

2—There isn't any excuse for talking about one's likes and dislikes in foods when those foods are being served. It's a very simple and easy matter either not to serve oneself to the foods, if it is going to be such a hardship, or to serve oneself to a small amount and pretend to eat some of it. It's a question of tact.

Sympathy Note

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I take care of the correspondence for an auxiliary which is composed of wives of men who are in the same business. I have had to write quite a few letters of condolence of late, and I have been writing practically the same letter to all. One of our members just lost her mother and brother, and I have to send her a note of condolence. I don't seem to be able to word this to suit me, so I am coming to you for help. Please help me. MARY.

Your letter might be worded something like this:

Dear Mrs. Peters:

The members of our Auxiliary are devastated by the terrible news of the loss of your mother and brother, and they have asked me to write you and tell you of our deep and understanding sympathy and friendship. Your sorrow has touched us all very, very much, and we pray that the sad significance of these shadowed days will not be too heavy.

We would so much like to be of service to you, dear [illegible], and will you please be so kind as to let us know if we can help in any way possible?

Our love to you, and again our deepest sympathy.

Faithfully,

Martha Smith, Secretary.

(I have taken the liberty of indicating, too, the correct form of the signature of your letter.)

Painted Girl Not Choice of All Men, Observes Fay King

NOT EVERY MAN IS ATTRACTED BY ARTIFICIAL BEAUTY
I LIKE YOU BECAUSE YOURE NATURAL AND UNAFFECTED!
THE GIRL WHO PAYS THE LEAST ATTENTION TO HIM IS LIKELY TO INTEREST HIM MOST FAY KING

By FAY KING

Not all men admire girls caked with cosmetics, bleached hair, and scarlet finger nails.

If a man does not like these artificial enhancements to beauty, so widely used these days, the girl who applies them will get nowhere with him.

Nor are such men "old-fashioned foggies." Many young, single and handsome men resent cosmetics. The natural girl will appeal to them much more.

Some of the most "gorgeous vamps" have found their most engaging wiles resisted. They have been amazed to see such a young man fall for some "plain Jane."

The girl who goes about her business and pays the least attention to him is likely to interest him most.

He likes to do his own choosing and courting. The natural, unaffected girl pleases him most.

Boys Return Safely From Midnight Ride

The little group of young people surrounding my couch hammock upon the front veranda started apart as if they had been conspirators, at Carolyn's warning to hush their comments upon Avis Arlen because cars were coming in the driveway. From the little hushed exclamations of disgust which escaped them, I knew that they would have liked to continue the discussion longer, in the hope that they might find out just what methods Avis Arlen had used in inducing Hugh Grantland to take her in his car for the moonlight drive to the beach.

To me, however, the interruption was most welcome, not only because I could now be assured of the safety of Junior and Roderick, but because this discussion of Avis and Hugh and Edith Fairfax was most embarrassing to me, in the light of Marion's patent knowledge of the real reasons why Hugh had first asked Edith Fairfax to accompany him to the beach, and why Edith had refused the invitation.

I did not wait to indulge my relief at the interruption of the comments, however. Flinging back the covers, I sprang up from the couch and rushed to the door. But my father was at my side before I opened it.

CHILDREN RETURN

"Steady, darling!" he counselled. "You're very likely to do that foot a severe injury if you rush around like that. Lean on me, and we shall see the children as soon as they arrive. Listen! We're hearing them before we see them."

The big car of the Underwoods had just driven in, and from its depths I heard the excited voices of both my small son and his cousin. There was no hint of injury in those young, strong voices, and, relief from my fears, I swayed heavily against my father.

"They are safe—all right——" I heard myself saying through stiff lips, as if my voice were that of another woman.

My father slipped his arm from my elbow to my waist and held me up bodily.

"Of course they're safe, you foolish child!" he said tenderly. "Don't you think you would better come back into the house and wait for them there? The grass is damp."

But caution was not in me. With the certainty of the children's safety warming my veins, my strength came back, and I straightened my body and clutched my father's arm.

"Please don't ask me to go inside, father," I said, and drew him with me down the steps.

I only took a step or two along the grass, however, before two small figures burst from the Underwood car and, running across the grass, flung themselves upon me.

"Oh, Mums!" and "Oh, Auntie Madge!" they exclaimed. "We had the most splendiferous time! Uncle Harry let us each drive, sitting on his lap, and he said we were regular—What did you call us, Uncle Harry?"

"Regular Barney Oldfields, I said," boomed Mr. Underwood, "and I'll maintain it against anybody in the world, with my body and to the death. Any challengers?"

The small boys giggled, and wound their arms closer around me.

RELATE ADVENTURES

"And when we got down there we threw stones in the water. Uncle Harry let us—" they began again the chanting of their story—"and he let us take off our shoes and stockings and wade!"

"The water really was very warm, Madge," Lillian's apologetic voice struck in, "and we thought you wouldn't mind. Harry was right beside them every minute."

"Ready to fight the undertow, or man-eating sharks, whichever should appear first," her husband interpolated. So if you have any censure, please take into consideration the risks I was willing to run."

"Don't talk nonsense!" I said a bit sharply. "You know I trust them absolutely to your judgment, whenever I leave them with you."

"Mums!" Junior's voice sounded shrilly. "Where is dad? I thought he was going to the beach, too; but we didn't see him there at all."

Household Hints

A few grains of rice put into a box of matches that have become damp will absorb all the moisture.

Pepper, unlike salt, gives a more piquant flavor if added to a dish just before serving instead of before cooking.

To prevent sausages from bursting boil the sausages for a minute or two before frying. Put them in the frying pan with just enough water to cover them, bring to the boil and drain the water off. Then put dripping in the pan and fry as usual.

Really fresh eggs often have a kind of "bloom" on them, something like that on fresh fruit, and when held up against the light they show a perfectly translucent white. The yolk is also translucent, but it may be faintly visible as a dark mass with no definite outline.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Colitis Is Not a Nervous Disorder

For many years there has been confusion over a rather common disease known to the doctor as "mucous colitis." It used to be regarded as a nervous disorder and incurable. Fortunately, medical science has progressed. While many of its victims are nervous persons, yet the disease is no longer treated as a nervous disorder or looked upon as incurable.

Dr. Copeland

Many persons continue to confuse the disease with other afflictions of the intestine with similar symptoms. Mucous colitis, as its name indicates, is a catarrhal inflammation of the colon or large intestine. It usually follows chronic constipation. This is believed by many physicians to be the underlying cause. Some patients have persistent diarrhea. As a rule, it is the latter symptom that drives the patient to the doctor.

The sufferer of mucous colitis often complains of severe, persistent and colicky abdominal pain. This pain is not relieved by ordinary remedies, and the sufferer soon becomes weakened, extremely nervous, irritable and restless.

Once the diagnosis has been made, relief can be offered by special diet and treatments. It is wise to avoid laxatives and mineral waters, fried and greasy foods, salt, peppers, spices and condiments. The diet should be simple, nutritious and easily digested.

Since each case presents its own problem, it is advisable to follow strictly the special diet prescribed by your doctor. For example, milk is harmful to certain sufferers from colitis but may be taken by others. In many cases eggs should not be eaten.

In the treatment of colitis, it is essential to keep the colon emptied and clean. This should not be accomplished by cathartics or other drastic drugs. Instead, use every day hot or very warm irrigation. This treatment is best when done just before retiring.

In severe cases, irrigation of the bowel with oil has been found useful in lessening irritation. The oil is retained for at least 10 hours. During the period of treatment, the patient should be confined to bed and every effort made to build up the general health.

If after continued treatment no change or permanent relief is obtained, it is possible that the colitis is due to a more serious cause than simple catarrh of the intestines. In that event examination by means of a special instrument may be important. By its use the interior of the intestine and the condition of the lining of the walls can be visualized. In this way, deformities can be detected and the form of treatment will be suggested.

66 NONSENSE, IDA! I'LL TELL YOU HOW TO FIX THOSE 'REGULAR' PAINS 99

Are you suffering unnecessarily each month? There is relief for such pain, and it's just too bad for the girl who hasn't learned how she can keep her dates, and keep comfortable. Simply do this:

Watch the calendar. Just before your time, take a Midol tablet and drink a glass of water, and you may escape the expected pain entirely. If not, a second tablet should relieve it in seven to ten minutes. That is how rapidly Midol works! Moreover, it helps women who have always had a very hard time. The relief from two tablets should see you through your worst day. They contain no narcotic, nothing injurious. They're as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. But don't be deceived by ordinary pain tablets offered as a specific for "regular" pain. Midol is a special medicine, for this special purpose. Your druggist has it on the counter—or just ask for Midol.

TRAYNOR'S AILING ARM CAUSES PIRATES WORRY

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Square Dealing by Bucs. Could Reject Swetonic. Many Careers Shortened.

Far-Flung Spring Camps. Jinx Pursues Puckman. Tomboy Basketball Hit.

In a spring of bad breaks for Manager Bill McKechnie and his Boston Braves it was an added bit of misfortune to have Pitcher Steve Swetonic prove unserviceable after his purchase from the Pittsburgh club. But at least the Hub management must give the Pirate owners credit for sportsmanship and square dealing in the matter. That the Buccaneer bosses were unaware of the condition of Swetonic's pitching hand is evidenced by the fact that they waited until spring training time to make a deal for him. If they were of the unscrupulous type that would stoop to palming off a crippled pitcher on a rival club they could have disposed of Steve by the waiver route months earlier without a comeback.

Steve Swetonic

Even now, the Pittsburgh club could, entirely within its legal baseball rights, insist that the sale of Swetonic to Boston be allowed to stand. The Brave owners would have no redress, but would have to keep the pitcher and suffer the loss of the purchase price. But in consenting readily to let Boston return Swetonic, President Bill Benswanger made it clear that he will not do business that way and would rather shoulder the loss himself than let another club be the loser.

Swetonic's reported plan, in connection with his refusal to report to the Albany club, to ask Commissioner Landis to place him on the voluntary retired list, is not quite in line with the requirements of baseball law. Voluntary retirement applications must be made on or before February 1 of the year in which such a listing is desired, and not to the Commissioner, but to the president of the club to which the player belongs. The Albany transfer probably was only a stop-gap anyhow, to keep Steve placed until President Benswanger returns to Pittsburgh and has a chance to talk with the pitcher.

RABBIT SEES MANY CAREERS CUT SHORT

While Rabbit Maranville got a tough break in being cut down by a severe injury at the age of 42 before he could carry the longest playing career in the major leagues to a natural conclusion, he must consider himself fortunate to have played as long as he did when he recalls the many younger stars he has seen halted prematurely, some of them when they were in only the early years of their baseball lives. Charley Gelbert, Cardinal shortstop, should have been good for many more seasons, but it is doubtful if the injury suffered on a hunting trip will ever permit him to play again. Another great shortstop, Charley Hollocher, of the Cubs, passed out years ahead of his time because of an illness which some said was largely imaginary.

Edide Grant was killed in the World War. Marvin Goodwin met death in an airplane crash. A fatal illness ended the career of Urban Shocker. Ray Chapman died from the effects of a bean ball. Others taken by death during their playing days included Walter Lerian, Hal Carlson, Frank Ulrich, Ross Young, Ed Morris and Mickey Finn. Sinus trouble put George Sisler out of stardom. A basketball mishap shortened the major league days of Jimmy Kane. Injuries ruined Glenn Wright. Trouble in two fingers of his pitching hand renders Steve Swetonic's future uncertain. All of those in Maranville's time.

DISTANT TRAINING CAMP IDEA SPREADS

Bill Terry continues to talk so earnestly about taking the Giants to Panama for training next spring that the idea of pitching major league practice camps at distance sites is beginning to spread. The Reds are reported to be planning to abandon Tampa and go to Havana, and the Senators have under consideration a proposal to quit Biloxi and train in Porto Rico. Terry says he would like to start work in Panama as early as February 15 and remain there one month. Then he would take his squad to New Orleans for one week, and thence to Memphis, where the Giants would polish up for still another week before starting toward New York.

Bill Terry

Since 1886, when the Chicago Nationals went to Hot Springs and introduced the practice of going away for spring practice, only two clubs have left the United States for conditioning work. The Yankees were the first, when they went to Bermuda in 1913 under Frank Chance, and the White Sox were the second, when they made a trip to Mexico City in 1915. The A's did some of their training on the other side of the Mexican border in 1922, but they made their base at Eagle Pass, Tex.

ILL LUCK TRAILS CONACHER IN HOCKEY

That Charley Conacher, brother of Lionel, of Pittsburgh memory, still ranks as the hardest shooter in hockey, and succeeded in leading the National League in scoring for the season of 1933-34, is all the more remarkable in view of the physical handicaps under which he has been placed.

During the season of 1929-30, Conacher lost one kidney and went out again on account of blood poisoning in one of his hands. The following season, one of his wrists was broken, and after that came two broken bones in his right hand. In the 1932-33 campaign he was out for a month with a broken collar bone, and last season he suffered from an attack of boils.

NAISMITH OPPOSES TOMBOY BASKETBALL

The controversy as to the relative merits of 'tomboy" and "softie" basketball for girls leads Dr. James Naismith, the father of the court game, to express the opinion that feminine passers should not play the "tomboy" game, and that the present rules for women need less revision than do the regulations for men. The "tomboy" proponents' advocacy of a universal roving game for women, to permit guards to participate in the scoring, is countered by Dr. Naismith with the proposal that the three guards and three forwards, segregated by the center line, should remain at their stations when goals are exchanged at the end of each quarter, the guards to play forward and vice versa for half of each game.

Dr. James Naismith

The man who invented basketball 43 years ago suggests further that girls' rules be changed so that the fouled player would have the free throw in order to eliminate dual competition between a pair of sharpshooters; that the defense might take the ball by force, and that congestion at the center tip would be relieved by marking out a large neutral zone in which only the centers would be permitted at the jump. As for the men's game, Dr. Naismith would award four points for a field goal if made over all five members of the defense team massed under the basket. By that means, he thinks, the defense would be spread, relieving congestion under the basket.

PITCHING ARM 'DEAD,' LEFTY GROVE FEARS

BOSTON, April 5.—(AP.)—Eddie Collins, Boston Rer Sox general manager, today refused to become alarmed about the reported flare-up of Bob (Lefty) Grove over his $100,000 southpaw pitching arm. Collins said:

"When two such capable trainers as our Doc Woods and the Athletics' Doc Ebling, without having talked to each other, coincided in their diagnosis of Grove's sore arm, I am confident it will right itself in time.

"I really am not surprised. You know this is the first sore arm Lefty has ever experienced and you may well imagine his state of mind when it refused to respond to treatment at once.

"We have no intention of trying to call off our deal with Connie Mack. It was made in good faith and it is merely one of the breaks of the game that Grove should have contracted a cold or injured his shoulder muscles in some way."

Grove, according to reports from Orlando, Fla., suddenly threw down his glove yesterday while warming up with Coach Tom Daly. He had been cutting loose, and became so excited when his arm twinged that he cried out:

"To hell with it. I guess I can't do the club any good. I might as well hang up my spikes.

"My arm is terrible I don't know what to make of it. Maybe it will come around when we hit the cold weather. If it doesn't—well, I don't know."

Collins has been informed by what he regards as competent authorities that Lefty has a sore muscle in his upper arm and that the pain gradually will disappear under hard work.

BUCCOS DROP ANOTHER TO CHISOX, 11-3

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

TUCSON, Ariz., April 5.—Pie Traynor's lame throwing arm, the same arm that rifled overhand throws across the diamond through many seasons, stands out as an ominous portent as the classy Buccaneers near the National League starting tape. Pie had several treatments from a Los Angeles specialist, but now with the club basking in the strong sun of Arizona, the Pirate captain offers a pathetic spectacle as he tries to whip the ball to first base.

Traynor is convinced he was helped by the Los Angeles healer, but he contacted the gentleman rather late during the stay of the Freebooters in Southern California. He feels that if he could have spent several weeks in taking daily treatment he would be O. K.

THROWING SPOTTY

Traynor's arm has bothered him for several seasons to such an extent that most of his misplays are the result of the fact that he cannot "come overhand" with his shots. He has enough power to "slingshot" out most of the batters, but frequently he is called upon for long throws, and when he lets loose of the ball in this kind of play, Gus Suhr generally has to leave the bag for a wide heave or he has to steam shovel the ball out of the dirt.

Traynor has been getting relief from Tommy Thevenow in the late innings of the daily barnstorming fight, and there is a likelihood that he will be able to cut the ball with greater force at the end of 10 days.

The Buccos and White Sox are in this Arizona town for a two-day stand. The American Leaguers made the Pittsburghers appear somewhat ridiculous yesterday in Phoenix as they lambasted the Buccos, 11 to 3, in the fifth game of the series. The set now stands three to two in favor of the Buccos.

Betting Measures Pass N. Y. Senate

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—(AP)—Legalized betting at New York state's race tracks and revision of control of the entire industry is a step nearer realization today.

The Senate, by an overwhelming vote, yesterday passed and sent to the lower house for concurrence the three-point program agreed upon by legislative and turf leaders as essential to save the state's five tracks from a slow death.

The measures approved were the Dunnigan bill to create a new State Racing Commission to cooperate with the Jockey Club in governing the sport; the Crawford-Brietenhach proposal to repeal the Hughes anti-betting laws of 1908, and the Twomey resolution for a constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel wagering.

FIVE CHAMPIONS TO BATTLE IN A. M. A. BOXING TOURNEY

SENIOR BOXERS OPEN ANNUAL TITLE QUEST

By JESS CARVER

One hundred and seventy pairs of leather-encased fists, representing the cream of the district amateur boxers are poised and ready for socking in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association senior boxing championships, which get under way in the Keystone A. C. gymnasium tonight. The tournament will run through Monday night, the finals being carded for that evening.

The 85 entries (there being no one-armed boxers in the lists) are divided into eight weight divisions as follows:

Nine in the 112-pound class, 10 in the 118-pound division, 16 in te 126, 13 in the 135, 16 in the 147, 13 in the 160, five in the 175 and three in the heavyweight.

FIVE CHAMPS BACK

Topping the list of entries, which, by the way, is one of the most pretentious in as far as ability goes that the tournament has exhibited in years, are no fewer than five champions from last year. In fact, all of the 1933 champs are back save the three who have turned professional since. Oddly enough, three of the '33 rulers are competing this year in one class, the 126-pound Division. Snooky Brill, of Erie, who won the 112-pound crown a year back and Sammy Angott, the 118-pound champion, have taken on sufficient weight to qualify 'em as featherweights, in which class they'll seek to knock the diadem from the brow of Leo Sweeney. Leo, however, rules a strong favorite to set Snooky and Sammy right back on their respective heels, if not even further.

Defending his title as a lightweight will be clever, hard-hitting William Eley, the crack Negro champion. A year ago, Eley was the class of the amateurs. He's not gone back a step, either, and the man who takes him over can have the 135-pound title and welcome.

George Bittner, a clubmate of Ely, is back to defend his light-heavyweight laurels and figures to do same.

LYCEUM ENTRY HEAVY

With 20 entries in the fold, the Pittsburgh Lyceum is a prime favorite to carry off the team trophy. Danny Ryan has three men in the 112-pound class; three in the 118; one in the 126; four in the 135; four in the 147 and as many in the 160, besides Eddie Cahill in the light-heavyweight.

MANOS FACES TEST TODAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Quarter-final frays, interspersed with third round contests, comprise today's bill of action in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., senior singles handball tourney, in progress since Monday on the courts of the Keystone Athletic Club. Five tussles feature the card.

Theos Manos, home club hope and defending champion, opens the program at 12:30 p. m. by taking on his hard-hitting Downtown Y. M. C. A. rival, Steve Myers. Al Bialas, P. A. A. contender, engages Parker Smith, youthful Keystoner, at 4 o'clock, at which hour, too, the K. A. C. veteran, Curtis Clark, battles powerful Dave Olbum from the Y. M. H. A. Mike Hrycko, ever-dangerous Y glovester, opposes his teammate, Ulrich Schoenberger with Frank Koubek, clever Keystone aspirant, running afoul of M. Y. Poling, another accomplished Y. M. C. A. performer at 8:15.

Bob Clark, promising Keystone entrant, provided yesterday's major thrill by leading Myers just about all the way to the wire ere Steve could pull out at 18-21, 21-5, 21-20.

Remaining scrimmages saw Manos, Poling and Olbum prevail according to the dope, while Hrycko advanced by the sudden and unexpected default of Lou Alman, Y. M. H. A. southpaw luminary and runner-up.

Chairman Dick Koubek announces that Manos and Curtis Clark, '33 victors head the list of seekers after senior doubles laurels, the tilting to begin at the K. A. C. next Monday. The summary:

SECOND ROUND

M. Y. Poling defeated H. J. Richards, Jr., 21-6, 21-17. Dave Olbum defeated Joe Heving, 21-15, 21-5. Carl Dehler defeated E. B. Ashcraft, 16-21, 21-8, 21-19.

THIRD ROUND

Theos E. Manos defeated William Rohland, 21-16, 21-7. Steve Myers defeated Bob Hunter, 18-21, 21-5, 21-20. Mike Hrycko won by default from Lou Alman, by default. Carl Schoenberger defeated E. S. Reno, 21-18, 17-21, 21-14.

Ben Roseto, 155-pound star, has been elected captain of the Duquesne University boxing team for next season. Roseto succeeds Fred Moore, thrice champion of the 145-pound class in the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Conference.

Sport Shorts

CHICAGO and DETROIT are to clash at Detroit tonight in the second game of their series for the Stars and Stripes championship of the world baseball championship. CHICAGO won the first game.

ZULU LAD, WILLIAM WOODWARD'S Kentucky Derby eligible was among the also rans at BOWIE yesterday. The best workout of Derby eligibles at Churchill Downs was turned in by the PEGONIC stable's LIGHT UP, which stepped three-quarters in 1:15 4-5.

BERKELEY UNIVERSITY officials today announced the appointment of HERBERT SAN HIBBERT, former PENN State football coach and director of physical education.

Deadlocked both in the number of games won and goals scored, TULSA and ST. LOUIS clash at Tulsa tonight in the deciding game of the semi-final playoffs in the American Hockey Association.

WILLIAM M. FISCHER of New York, Cuba, was elected chairman of the United States Lawn Tennis Association's 1934 national ranking committee.

CHILLYSAUCE

The White Sox seem to have struck pay dirt in hooking First Baseman Zeke Bonura. The Dallas giant is a better fielder than one would expect in one his size, but it is his spirit that makes him so valuable. Bonura batted almost .360 in a circuit that puts a premium on .300 hitters. When Zeke doubled in the first inning of yesterday's clash, it marked his fifteenth game of consecutive batting. He has not missed fire in an exhibition tilt.

S. McN. Johnson, formerly an industrialist of Pittsburgh, who has been the city manager of Phoenix for the past two years, has just resigned his position. Johnson, a strong golf devotee in his old home town, is now the president of the Southwestern Golf Association which stages a tournament this week.

The Pirate White Sox game was played in the Phoenix High School Stadium. The athletic field is larger than the average baseball lot and the stands can take care of 10,000 people. The community goes in for baseball in a big way, so much so that a contest between Loyola College of Los Angeles and State Teachers' College of Tempe, Ariz., will be played at Phoenix Saturday night.

A baseball ace is not considered as being temperamental when he refuses to ride an upper berth, yet a lot of the stars might take an example from Manager Lew Fonseca, of the White Sox. When 9-year-old Lew, Jr., balked at his upper berth last night, his dad tossed him into the lower section and the manager slept in the upper.

The great Southwest, outside of Southern California, is hungry for a feast of major league baseball. On the return jaunt of last season the Pirates and White Sox found large and appreciative throngs in Tucson, El Paso, Tulsa and Oklahoma City. The fans of Yuma and Phoenix were in holiday attire to welcome the big leaguers yesterday and the previous day.

Ashbaugh Named Coach at W. & J.

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 5.—(AP.)—A young fellow who played football for Hank Day a few years back at Washington High School is going to help his old coach turn out football teams at Washington and Jefferson College.

He is Dr. William D. Ashbaugh, now a Washington dentist. His appointment as assistant football coach at the college was announced today as spring training began.

In 1922, '23 and '24 Ashbaugh played center and quarterback at Pitt. He prepped at Bellefonte Academy.

Claire Cribbs Named All-America Center

Claire Cribbs, of the University of Pittsburgh, is named center on the All-America basketball team announced today by The Literary Digest. He is the only district passer to make the first team.

Cottom, Purdue, and Krause, Notre Dame, are chosen forwards, while Anderson, N. Y. U., and Lee, Washington, are selected as guards.

Stydahar, West Virginia, and Bennett, Westminster, are given honorable mention as centers.

S. W. PHILLIPS NAMED PRO AT SCHENLEY

By TOM BIRKS

S. Walter Phillips, former city champion, has been named professional at the Schenley Park public links, succeeding Robert Graham, who held the position last year and in 1932. The appointment was announced by Leslie M. Johnston, director of public works.

Phillips' assistants have not as yet been named, but this matter likely will be attended to within the next five days. An entire new list of attendants is expected to be appointed, with the possible exception of the veteran Eddie Kunold, locker room custodian. Kunold has been in charge of the Schenley Park locker room for the past 20 years.

The new setup will include a caddie master, who also will act as clerk, thus eliminating the five cent fee that has been taken out of the caddies' pay in the past.

CHAMPION IN 1931

Phillips becomes the second city champion to become the Schenley pro, the former Cecil Barber graduating from city champ to a member of the paid brigade a decade ago. The new pro always has been a title contender, finally annexing the muny title in 1931. He defeated Johnny Pasikowsky in the final round of the annual tournament that year. He was a member of the local public links team in the national tournament that year.

Phillips will take over his new job today. It is unlikely that Director Johnston will throw the course open for play for at least two more weeks as the course at present is not in shape for play.

DUNLAP ADVANCES

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—(AP.)—George Dunlap, the national champion, continued to display sub-par golf, but a new threat to his chance of winning his fourth North and South amateur title arose in the person of Dick Chapman, of Greenwich, Conn., who shot a blistering 66 on the Pinehurst No. 2 course in the tournament quarter-finals.

Lacking the magic putting that enabled him to set a new record of 63, eight under par, Dunlap yesterday toured the course in 70 strokes in overcoming the seasoned campaigner from Cooperstown, N. Y., Jack Ryerson, by a 4 and 3 margin.

Another veteran of the Pinehurst links, Halbert J. Blue, of Pittsburgh, was eliminated by Dick Wilson, of Southern Pines, former Georgetown star. Blue put up a battle on the first nine, reaching the turn only one down, but coming back he had trouble with three successive drives, and was eliminated, 4 and 3.

School Volley Ball Draw Is Announced

Peabody the defending champion, will oppose Wilkinsburg in the first round of the fifth annual Tri-State scholastic volley ball tournament, sponsored by the department of physical education at Pitt, on Saturday. Knockouts Mark A. A. U. Title Bouts

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—(AP.)—Three knockouts and more than half a dozen of the technical variety opened the forty-fifth national amateur boxing championships last night as the little fellows completed their first and second-round flailings, a preliminary to the parade of leather-pushers dominated by the "heavies" in more than 50 bouts scheduled for tonight in the St. Louis Arena.

The knockout punches were delivered by Bill Skidmore, flyweight from Newark, N. J., to William McSpea, of Fort Benning, Ga., in the third round, after Skidmore had outpointed Joe Smith, of Indianapolis; by Bill Triest, Batavia, Ill., to William White, Detroit, in the second round of their middleweight bout, and by Tony Bent, Boston lightweight, to Lloyd Perry, Omaha, in the first round.

STRIKES AND SPARES

When the Auditorium team failed to make an appearance for its scheduled match with the New Plaza team in the Pittsburgh Duckpin League, the latter team moved up its averages and set a new season mark for a single game, 1,049. C. Unger rolled 190, Mancini 225, Mollozzi 226, A. Beck 155 and Bauer 222 to establish the record. The New Plaza crew finished with a 2,770 total for three games.

The Westinghouse Tenpin League will roll in its handicap tournament again tonight. The League bowlers will hold their annual banquet at the Penn-Lincoln Hotel next 14.

C. Neuhaus was elected president of the Westinghouse League for the 1934-35 season at the thirty-third annual meeting. S. E. Reinhart was made secretary and C. D. Tarnade treasurer.

According to the official average released by W. D. Mills, Dave Charters won the individual average title with a 190 mark for the season. Schoch finished second, three pins behind the leader, and Tom Reantree took third place with 194.

The Guyan team of Huntington, W. Va., is listed to roll at 8 o'clock tonight in the American Bowling Congress tournament at Peoria, Ill. The team will roll its doubles and singles matches tomorrow afternoon.

TUBERS KEEP PIN TITLE

By PHILIP GRABOWSKI

The McKeesport Post No. 361, with three victories in as many matches, retained its title as Allegheny County American Legion bowling champion in the annual tournament, staged last night at the Murray-Beacon alleys, Squirrel Hill.

The Tubers defeated the Kenneth Newman Post No. 200 in the first round, 2245 to 2034; downed the South Side Post No. 453, 2222 to 2198, in the semi-finals and then completed the sweep with a 2214-to-2115 triumph over the Lawrenceville Post No. 531 in the finals.

Lawrenceville advanced at the expense of the South Hills Post No. 156, 2288 to 2095, in the first round and took over the Wilmerding Post No. 230, 2402 to 2227, in the semi-finals.

VIERHELLER VICTOR

In the singles, Vierheller, of the South Side, took top honors with a score of 558. Novicki, of the same post, was second with 540, and Poke, of the Kenneth Newman Post, third with 533. The scores:

TUCKERS ROLL HIGH

PEORIA, Ill., April 5.—Pittsburgh is on the payroll of the American Bowling Congress tournament today as a result of the 2,831 hung up in the team event by the E. M. Tucker five last night. This was the second highest count registered during the night, Wooster Lamberts, of St. Louis, tieing it while the Steins, of St. Louis topped it with 2,885.

The Tuckers hit consistently in the 900 division with games of 964, 948 and 919. H. Guest and H. Kuchler, the only men on the team rolling in the twin-century class, were the team's leading pin gatherers. Guest had 593 and Kuchler 587.

Erie also produced a money-winner in the Sport team. It showed a fine comeback after an 855 start as games of 972 and 970 followed. Neither of the two Bradford nor the Brackenridge teams were able to qualify. The scores:

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Ben Jeby, of New York, a used-to-was world middleweight champion, only hopes he has as pleasant a visit in our midst during his present sojourn as he did on his only other appearence in Pittsburgh, when he defeated Buck McTiernan at Motor Square Garden.

Ben is here to box Ted Yarosz in a 12-round bout in Duquesne Garden tomorrow night. He got in yesterday and worked out lightly in the Pittsburgh Lyceum gymnasium, where he warms up again today. He finished his boxing before he left N'Yawk.

Well, anyway, it seems that Benjamin is a bit social minded. Everything, he says, was lovely on his last trip here, and he trusts the boys will be as kind to him this time. He won the fight that night, got a good piece of money, met some nice people, wasn't hurt and really enjoyed himself.

WANTS EVEN BREAK

About hoping out hospitality hasn't changed, Ben says he means he hopes he gets a square shake—nothing more, nothing less—from the officials, the newspaper muggs and the fans, and he'll be happy. As for Yarosz, what do you think he has in store for him? Surprise! Honest, a really, truly great big suprise. He knows all about how to beat Teddy, and all he wants the good burghers of Pittsburgh to do is to observe him closely as he does his stuff and he feels satisfied they will agree at the finish that he is the victor. Here's what he says about the bout:

"I've seen Teddy box twice, against Vince Dundee in their second bout in Newark and against Young Terry in the same city. And don't let him tell you Terry didn't beat him, either, for he did. I saw it with my own eyes. And I got a good idea of what it takes to whip him. I believe my style is adapted perfectly to taking the play away from him. I know all about his style. He fights something like your late Harry Greb—just sort of surrounds you and keeps you busy. But being busy is one of the best things in my own line, and if the judges will just watch they'll see me outbusy the busy boxing bee."

INTEREST INCREASES

A rather neat speech that, for a used-to-was champion, and it left his listeners in the Ring Lardner character predicament of not having no comeback, so that's the way the matter lies until Teddy catches up with him in the ring tomorrow night and starts hissing in the clinches:

"So you say Terry beat me, huh? Take that, and that, and that, and also this and that and that and these and those, if not them."

The arrival of Jeby in town served to work interest in the bout into a boil, so much so that this sports department spent half its time yesterday telling folks who called up about the show that it was sorry, but the Yarosz fight at Motor Square Garden was being held at Duquesne Garden this week and that is where to apply for reservations. That's what force of habit will do. Everybody knows that they finally threw the bicycle race out of Duquesne Garden to make room for the fight, yet when they get to talking about it they subconsciously speak of the scene as Motor Square Garden, where they have been accustomed to seeing fights. Like the political writer who wrote that the bike race was in Motor Square Garden, and darned if he didn't go there to see it when all along he had a pass for the other place.

PUBLIC WEIGHING

Just to startle the natives, Matchmaker Lew Raymond announces that there will be a public weighing ceremony in the lobby of the Garden—Duquesne Garden at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

(Don't you hope it gets cold and snows and they have to take it inside?)

Aside from that and the fact that Shorty Washko will take the place of Harry Krause against Joey Adams in the opening five-rounder tomorrow night and that Teddy Movan, McKeesport welterweight, will turn professional against Tiger Joe Hughes in the six-round opener on the Tiger Joe Randall-Joey Bazzone card in McKeesport next Monday night and the A. M. A. gets its four-night senior tournament under way at the Keystone A. C. tonight, there's nothing of importance in a fistic way.

SOUTH PASSERS GIVEN STATE TROPHIES

By JULIUS LEVIN

The South Side High School basketball team, the first city school to win the state championship, today received three trophies as a reward for sweeping through the P. I. A. A. eliminations without meeting defeat.

H. O. (Fritz) Crisler, head football coach at Princeton University, who is touring the district high schools as a guest of the Henry Clay Frick Educational Commission, made the presentations at a special assembly held in the school auditorium this morning.

PLAQUES AWARDED

The Orioles not only received the state championship trophy, but were awarded plaques for winning inter-district contests from Huntingdon and New Kensington.

Tomorrow evening the Orioles will be guests of the Varsity Clan, of Carnegie Tech, at a dinner to be given the Skibo varsity and freshman football squads in Skibo Inn.

New Kensington will pay tribute to its high school basketball team next Monday with a public testimonial at the high school and a banquet in the Hill Crest Country Club. The members of the South High School team, who defeated the W. P. I. A. L. champions in the P. I. A. A. eliminations, will be guests at the banquet, scheduled for 9:30 p. m. The public testimonial is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. in the high school.

Tom Riggs, local radio star, will be the master of ceremonies at both affairs. A program of acts has been scheduled for the high school affair. William F. McCabe has been named chairman by the New Kensington Business Men's Association, sponsor of the testimonial and banquet.

BRIDGERS PLAN FETE

Two other schools will celebrate with banquets next Wednesday when Ambridge, winner in Section IV and finalist in the W. P. I. A. L. championship, will honor its passers at Ambridge Junior High School, and Ellwood City will pay tribute to its basketball and football squads in Ellwood City.

Dismal skies and occasional rains failed to dampen the enthusiasm of more than 3,000 students, business men and supporters of the South High School as they paraded yesterday in celebration of their victory over Reading High School.

The procession, headed by the South High School Band, was formed in front of the school in Tenth street at 2:15, when classes were dismissed, and marched up Carson street, across the Twenty-second Street Bridge and into the downtown district over Forbes street, thence back to the school. South High School, numbering 2,200 pupils, and more than 100 machines of members of the South Side Business Men's Association, took part in the celebration. The South Side Post No. 453, American Legion, also participated in the parade.

Grimm Is Injured As Cubs Win, 21 to 2

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 5.—(AP.)—Manager Charley Grimm was knocked out by a ball thrown by Billy Jurges as a climax of a wild ball game which the Chicago Cubs won by a football score of 24 to 21 over San Antonio in 10 innings yesterday.

Grimm was taking one of Jurges' bullet throws at first when the webb of his glove broke from the impact, the ball going through and striking him on the head. He was knocked unconscious, revived later and helped off the field.

STOCK MARKET UNDERTONE FIRMS UP

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.)—Stocks generally displayed a fairly firm undertone today although there appeared to be a lack of stimulating news as well as market sponsorship.

Modest improvement was shown by some of the metals, oils and packing shares, but most other groups held to an extremely narrow range and the activity was somewhat under that of the previous session.

Bonds, while fairly steady, were not in such demand as yesterday. Grains, cotton and rubber were a trifle easier, but silver and copper futures improved. Foreign exchanges were a bit reactionary.

The rails and utilities did nothing. Such equities as American Telephone, United States Steel, Consolidated Gas, Montgomery Ward and Allied Chemical were virtually unchanged. The motors were somewhat lower.

Most of the recently fast-moving low-priced specialties died down to a slow jog when it was reported that the stock exchange governors had sent a questionnaire to brokers requesting details of transactions in some of these issues.

Followers of the motor stocks were somewhat confused by the announcement of Henry Ford that he would not join the other major companies in raising the prices of cars and would, if materials got too high, fabricate his own. If the Detroit manufacturer maintains this position, it was believed that competition in the automotive field would be much keener.

While the financial sector apparently felt much better regarding the stock exchange control bill, and the opinion was expressed in several quarters that the measure would be either substantially revised or shelved, traders failed to back their hopes with any exceptional buying demonstration.

The combined attack on both the regulatory measure and the securities act was being given the closest attention in brokerage houses. The consensus was that liberalization of the securities law was highly probable.

Indications that business still is moving forward was seen in the report of bank clearings for the week ended April 4, which showed an aggregate of $4,823,052,000, or a gain of 12.6 over the same 1933 period. The total exceeded that of the previous week by $440,541,000.

WHEAT CLOSES AT DECLINE

CHICAGO, April 5.—Except during a little spurt of buying toward the last, weakness prevailed in the wheat market today, and prices averaged lower.

Inflation talk had died down, and yesterday's sharp advance of wheat values was regarded as having undermined the trade position. Attention continued to focus chiefly on legislative developments at Washintgon.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1/8 to 1/2 cent under yesterday's finish, May 86 3/8 to 86 5/8 cents; corn unchanged to 3/8 cent higher; oats unchanged to 1/8 cent lower, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents up.

COPPER PRICE FIRMS UP

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP.)—The price of copper for domestic delivery was advanced 1/4 cent to 8¼ cents a pound today. All producers were reported quoting at the higher figure.

This revision, marking the first improvement in the market in several months, is said to be based on expectations of an early agreement on the industry's code, which the trade believes will be followed by increased domestic buying.

Buying in the export market has shown improvement recently and at least one American producer, Phelps-Dodge Corporation, obtained sufficient foreign business to warrant an increase in its output.

According to trade quarters it is costing domestic producers an average of about 8 1/2 cents a pound to produce metal under the present restricted operating schedules.

GOOD OUTLOOK FOR MARKET INDICATED

By LEWIS HANEY
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, April 5.—One may not like some aspects of the action of the stock market, such as the tendancy to give speculative "cats and dogs" a whirl. But it must be admitted that other aspects are quite favorable.

At least, performances here and there show that what is called "constructive activity" is not dead.

Broadly considered, an observation of various charts of "averages" show that the rather steady downward trend which prevailed from the middle of February to the third week in March, has been checked. In fact, the averages have gradually climbed out of their declining path.

The whole movement reflects the absence of liquidation and indicates some accumulation has been going on.

Of course, there are many uncertainties, and as prices rise, the market must absorb not only the usual "profit-taking" but more or less liquidation by tired holders. It seems to me, however, that it did such absorbing in good shape both Tuesday afternoon and yesterday morning.

BOND AVERAGES UP

So my feeling is that one's general attitude should be that of investing in carefully selected stocks whenever these little reactions afford opportunities to pick them up at concessions.

Some of the bullish indications are as follows:

The bond averages continue to creep up, indicating confidence in the financial situation.

The only considerable trading activity in stocks is obviously on the buying side. This observation is the more significant in that for six days now the majority of issues traded in have closed with plus signs.

The number of substantial issues making "new highs" is worth nothing. (These have recently included United Fruit, Wilson preferred, Monsanto, Chemical, McIntyre, Glidden and Amerada.)

More than that, such old line leaders as American Can, DuPont, Steel and Telephone have been pushed back up to the "resistance levels" through which they declined a couple of weeks ago in a way that suggests they were "down but not out."

UTILITIES WEAK

Weakness in the utilities is a drawback. The railways still confront labor uncertainties. (In fact, the possibility of a labor flare-up in several quarters must be considered.)

The stock exchange regulation bill remains a menace. The "new dealer" may at any time bring on new radical "reforms." The idea of raising wages "to create purchasing power," and then boosting prices to offset the higher wages, is hardly a ground for long range optimism.

But for the present there is obviously greater confidence among business leaders, and more "soft pedaling" among the new dealers. It is as if the Dr. Wirt episode had cleared the air by dragging into the open something that was worrying many. Now we find leaders airing their views concerning NRA. Gen. Johnson expressing opposition to "licensing" business, etc. There is hope that the more radical and restrictive new deal measures will fall of their own weight.

The market does not seem at all likely to run away. Increasing resistance will probably be met soon. But in view of the inflationary and the present trend toward moderation at Washington, I would retain holdings and add to them "on the dips."

MODERN TRAINS EXPAND RAIL INTEREST

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, April 5.—The pioneering, experimental streamlined train of the Union Pacific System has created a renaissance of interest in railroads, according to Carl R. Gray, president of the railroad.

Mr. Rukeyser

For too long the carriers dulled public enthusiasm by standing pat, neglecting research and technological progress. The streamlined innovation is seemingly a harbinger of a better spirit. The adventure of railroad building is to be reborn. In recent years, there has also been certain marked improvement in the character of sleeping accommodations on trains.

New Cycle Of Wage Boosts

By B. C. FORBES

THE NEWS that automobile manufacturers are getting ready to advance prices will not astonish readers of this column.

Mr. Forbes

A leading automobile manufacturer was quoted here, when labor trouble first loomed, as declaring that if the industry was compelled to raise wages, car prices would have to be raised. He felt that the majority of auto workers were already getting better pay than received by the majority of individuals and families buying cars, including farmers.

However, a 10 per cent wage increase occurred.

Now you and I and everyone else apparently will be called upon to foot the bill, in the form of increased price tags on automobiles.

THE STEEL industry is undergoing a similar experience. It has raised wages some 10 per cent. The burden, naturally, will be shouldered by consumers of steel, home owners, railroad users, automobile owners, everybody.

A NEW CYCLE of wage increases has set in. It probably will spread widely. After all, why should workers in automobile or steel plants have their wages boosted and workers in other lines of business be left to wrestle with relatively poorer pay?

IT IS TO BE hoped that all needful and salutary wage readjustments will be brought about smoothly, that not too many prices will be raised before the majority of consumers are receiving enough increase in income to enable them to maintain normal volume of purchases.

It is a delicate operation, this raising a far-flung population from a low price level to a higher price level. The less artificiality and arbitrariness injected by NRA or other bureaucrats, the greater the prospect of effecting the transition with a minimum of hardship and dislocation.

THE BIG question which will shortly force itself to the forefront is:

"Will consumers accept and pay higher prices without objection, without curtailing their volume of buying?"

GENERALLY SPEAKING, high-wage countries enjoy higher standards of living than low-wage countries. America has consistently sought to press toward high-wage levels. It has made much progress since the days, last century, when a dollar-a-day was accounted top-notch wages.

The new upward trend in wages tends to inspire fresh confidence, and to stimulate increased buying. But the less our theoretic bureaucratic friends at Washington inject themselves into the picture and attempt to force on manufacturers and other producers higher costs, the greater the likelihood of the rise from low levels to high levels being accomplished without undue disturbance or disaster.

Of course, if and when all industrial wages are boosted, it will be essential to bring about a corresponding boost in agricultural commodities, in order that our vitally important agricultural population may be able to buy and consume normally. As agricultural prices go, so goes the country.

THE OPERATION of raising all prices is far too gigantic, far too many-sided, far too complicated, far too delicate to be attempted in arbitrary, autocratic fashion by either a handful or a myriad of Washington officeholders.

This virile young nation has never failed in the past to overcome temporary economic setbacks and to achieve new heights of prosperity without the aid of any NRA, AAA, RFC, CWA, PWA, CCC, NEC, etc.

Some of these alphabetical creations perhaps have served a timely, useful purpose. But they were explicitly labeled "emergency" measures.

With each step towards normalcy, a step should be taken towards ridding the nation, ridding taxpayers, ridding business of costly, unnecessary un-American bureaucrats.

Chickie's Daughter

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Yes, love was an enemy, the sad Pippin persisted in thinking. It killed girls like Vivian; it destroyed the youth in a boy like Sherry. His name wasn't dragged in, yet anyone who saw the way he clung to Pippin—the way he wanted to talk and talk—anyone could see that down the long years he wouldn't escape the consequences of his ill-fated love. It was savage and out of all proportion.

Pippin told David, her father: "I've adopted the masculine viewpoint. Work is much more important than love.

"Love should be a mere incident in life. Custom stresses it ludicrously. Like starving people exaggerate the importance of food. A loaf of bread shuts out the sun, moon and stars."

David gave a sudden, tickled laugh: "Well, Tomlinson, where did you get that?"

"Pieced it together here and there. What do you think I do when I lie awake alone in the dark and ruminate on the wrongs of this wicked world? Look at that and see if I'm not in earnest!"

She laid down a report card for the quarter's work. She had taken difficult courses in anatomy and chemistry. She had done extremely well.

David grinned, but his eyes were full of pride.

"So you mean to become a Mme. Curie after all? I think the three of us will get along famously together."

"Which three?"

"You and Kevin and I."

To Work With Kevin

She looked up startled—drinking in with suppressed excitement her father's news. A new hospital was to be built. David would be chief of staff. Kevin, returning within the next six months would become David's assistant and she, if she kept up her studies and was really serious in her purpose, could have the job as laboratory technician.

She stood very still: "But I'd have to finish my last year."

"You can finish the last year. We won't be ready before then."

She saw a vision of herself in a white smock, working along at Kevin's side. She said in a little, crushed voice: "I'm afraid I won't be good enough."

"That's up to you. You'd better be."

She gave a little joyous laugh and threw her arms around her father's neck. The gray world which had seemed so pitiless was suddenly warm and sweet again. She went out with a vision in her mind and a hope in her heart.

* * *

"You act as though you're going to amount to something, or else you're bent on becoming an old maid." It was late in the spring quarter. Pippin haunted the laboratories. She went about in a dreamy fervour of concentration.

It irked Gregg, who wanted her to write another play with him. He began to suspect a secret rival.

She gave a quick, happy laugh: "You've guessed my secret sorrow. Rather nice to be a lean, long-nosed spinster girl, free as air!"

"But it's not your type. You're like your mother and should be set in a home with lots of offspring. Remember the picture Willa Cather gives of the children tumbling in a bright cascade from Antonio's dwelling?"

'Gosh, thanks a lot!"

Paints Picture of Home

Gregg chuckled and added sheepishly: "But think how nice for some man to come home and see a lovely thing like you waiting for him each evening and a nice supper cooked."

"I love that male arrogance. You think a woman should always be a background for a man."

"Yeah, you need us like the moon needs the earth. Something to revolve around. In your dreams it's always the man who is on his knees, but I want my woman there. I think the woman should love the most. If ever I do marry—"

"When you're fat and bald and 40—"

"But whenever I do marry, I want my wife to adore me. I want to be the sun and the stars of her existence."

"Oh, Gregg, with that pug nose and stevedore's chin, how can she?"

"Women like masterful men." He added somberly, "Do you think I'm very homely, Pippin?"

She linked her arm in his: "I think you're just about the nicest and most comforting person on the earth, and I've had my moments when I thought your clean, fighting face delectable."

"Looks don't count so much with a man. Maybe you think no girl will ever adore me, Pippin, but if I really tried, I could have you on your knees."

"Oh, certainly! Every man's dream—given the right moon and the right music and the right little nook, an angel from heaven would fall in his arms."

Gregg winked: "There's much to be said for the correct technique!"

They sat on a hill and watched the clouds ripple to fire in a sunset sky.

Muses on Travels

"We'll probably wander all over the world and not see a lovelier view than this." He began to muse. Would he enjoy scenes alone as he enjoyed scenes with her? Would the water, shimmering from blue to silver, seem such a poem?

He said suddenly: "It's a darn shame you've gone in so ruthlessly for science, Pippin. You have a real talent for writing—a rare knack with words. We could do plays; in five or six years our names would be shining in the bright lights of Broadway."

"But if I'm to have that home and that whole cascade of children, and if I'm to be there with my suppers cooked, how am I to run off with you in this bizarre, arty arrangement?"

"It's too bad there isn't some way to work it out. I wonder why it's so necessary to wall yourself in with a house and a bed and a board? Why wouldn't it be possible to get a large caravan and jaunt about as the gypsies do? Life could be really splendid, really joyous and free. But humanity wants its prison! its little storm-proof cave!

"Your chance to have your fling is NOW! But if you stick around here and get into a rut, you'll never lift yourself out. Do you want to face a dreary future like that, Pippin?"

"You're rapidly giving me chills and fever, darling."

"You could get an appointment in some European university and study on the continent for a while. Your big scientists all do that."

"I plan to. A little later."

"Tomorrow never comes. Too many people take out their living in dreaming. That old mirage, luring and tricking them even to the grave."

Sees Drab Future

She suddenly saw herself sitting on a stool—the stack of test tubes before her—a thin, colorless, lank-haired creature; all the mountain peaks unclimbed; life dwindled to a pale gray trickle.

She hugged Gregg's arm with a little shudder.

He looked in her face; his eyes had an anxiety, a tenderness. He gave a short laugh and put his arm chummily about her. "Don't let them do that to you, Pippin. You've got too much flame—don't put it out so awfully soon. I can make a better plan for you than this."

"Not weakening, are you, darling? Pity, they say, is akin to love."

"Pippin, I've written to your lake and asked for a job in the summer. Help me with the play then?"

"I thought you'd be off on a world tour."

"I've got to get some money first. If I can sell a dozen more adventure stories I'll have about $1,000 all velvet. We'd have that for a starter."

"Careful there, or you'll be proposing to me!"

They walked down the hill. She felt dimmed. She wondered if she was really giving up the song and fervor; all the zest and color that makes youth such a precious gift.

She tried to analyze her excitement in the prospect of working in the laboratory. She was excited; she was boundlessly lifted.

It had nothing to do with Kevin. Of this she felt sure.

Whole Interest in Study

No! Her fervid anticipation had nothing to do with Kevin Malone. She chose to believe her whole interest was in the study itself. She wanted to be a person alone.

But she did not like that picture of herself growing vapid and tight-nosed down long years of routine in a laboratory. Nothing magnificent in that! Just a competent, officious old maid—

She wondered with a flurry of indignation if her father perceived this fate was imminent. She went to his office over the week-end. He had a fully-equipped laboratory, where lately a little cubby-hole was partitioned off for her.

She accosted him abruptly: "Do you think four years is sufficient training for me?"

"Of course not!"

"Why don't I travel after I graduate? I'd like to study in Europe."

David hid a grin. "I've been figuring on that. We'll get things started. With the right assistance Kevin can manage. We should have a year abroad—you can stay longer if you want."

"Who will be technician then?"

"There are one or two good ones besides yourself. Probably Miss Matthews."

Pippin pictured vivacious, intelligent Cora Matthews taking the place she had fancied her own, working at Kevin's side, sharing with him some absorbing research, meeting the flash of his warm, imperious eyes.

She felt forlornly trapped; she felt somehow, cruelly betrayed.

FRENCH ARMY ACCLAIMS NAPOLEON BACK FROM ELBA

Hardly a year after his banishment to the island, Elba, Napoleon escaped and, reappearing among the French soldiers, was acclaimed with overwhelming devotion (March 15, 1815). His "Hundred Days Reign" began, overthrowing temporarily King Louis XVIII (brother of executed Louis XVI; young Louis XVII had died as prisoner). Though Napoleon promised no more conquests, the European powers united their armies against the "enemy to world peace." (World History)

PRESIDENT JOHNSON PARDONING REBELS

Vice President Andrew Johnson, succeeding the martyr Lincoln as President (April 15, 1865) attempted to follow the policies of the Great Emancipator. He frequently pardoned rebels at the White House, proclaimed general amnesty to the seceders (May 29, 1865) except prominent leaders, on condition they obey Federal laws (13th amendment, abolition of slavery, etc.). He appointed governors for the rebel states to call conventions for repeal of secession laws and to frame new state constitutions.

Johnson's reconciliating measures were obstructed by a revengeful Congress, which under the leadership of Thaddeus Stevens, of Pennsylvania, refused the seating of Southern representatives until "reconstruction" by the Congress was accomplished. This proved a failure and disgrace. (United States History)

CAUSTIC SODA AND POTASH

Sodium or potassium hydroxide [Na(OH), K(OH)] are obtained from the chlorides (Na Cl, KCl) by electrolysis, chlorine gas being a by-product.

The Nelson cell (above) is widely used to produce these important bases. Simplest representation of reactions: NaCl (in electrolyte) = Na (at cathode) + Cl (at anode) and Na + H2O = Na (OH) + H. The caustic soda solution is drawn off, water evaporated and remaining Na (OH) cast into sticks. Steam may be blown into the cathode compartment helping to dissolve caustic soda and keep the pores of diaphragm open. Caustic potash is obtained similarly from KCl (Chemistry)

GLANDS, THEIR DISORDERS

The pituitary gland (hypophysis) in size of a hazelnut is located beneath the brain in a bone-socket. Its anterior lobe, produces "tethelin" (rich in P and N), controlling the growth of skeleton; the posterior, chiefly nervous tissue, secretes "pituitrin" (regulating the use of carbohydrates, fat deposition, sizes of blood vessels and blood pressure). Removal or disease of the anterior lobe causes emaciation, then death; that of the posterior obesity, arrest of physical, mental development. Hypertrophy of this gland results in excessive height, mental disorder (above).

The pineal gland (epiphysis), the size of a pea, is at the base of the brain, inhibiting premature puberty. (Gen. Science)

DANTE, VIRGIL CROSSING STYX

"Charon the demon with the eyes of glede,
Beckoning to them, collect them all together,
Beats with his oar, whoever lags behind. . . ."

From Longfellow's translation (published 1867-1871) of Dante's "Divine Comedia" (about 1300). It is a strictly literal rendering, preserving the meter, but sacrificing the rhyme of the original. If not the best, it is the most faithful English translation.

Dante's "Divine Comedia" consists of the Inferno (the Hell, conceived as a funnel with its suffering sinners in successive circles); the Purgatorio, (Purgatory, a mountain with circular ledges crowded with repentants); the Paradiso (Heaven, a world of beauty, light and song). (Literature)

CONSTRUCTION OF FRAME HOUSES

In a frame house the supporting structure is a frame of rigidly connected long members, generally lumber, lately also steel. Lumber frames may be of braced, balloon, or platform construction (above). Braced or drop-girt frame consists of heavy corner posts with knee-braces, plates, girts and studs (one floor length). The balloon frame has light corner posts and studs running the height of the walls. The platform or western frame is like the balloon, but the studs, only one-story long, rest on plates. The braced frame is the strongest of the three. (General Science)

Can't Handle Stratosphere

The sky-hikers are going after that stratosphere record again this month.

Maj. Fordney and Commander Settle copped the record last November when they stepped up the record to five miles and a fracture.

The boys brought down a paper bag full of stratoclimate and gave it to the strato bureau. Which has been operating on thin air in defiance of the new deal.

Sixteen mildewed scientists gathered around in high gusto and great dudgeon. The bag was opened in a bonded warehouse. Each scientist got a noseful of the stratoweather and zoomed to education in a series of ground loops.

Stratosphere is queer stuff. It offers no resistance to gravity. The scientists tell us that at five miles in the air a hen will lay an egg with the speed of a bullet.

That's none too fast for Aipelham Commuter. At six miles you have to mix stratosphere with mucilage so you can breathe it.

At that outlawed height the barometer registers nothing but indignation.

The thermometer indicates a unanimous vacuum. And why go that far after it when you can buy one in a thermos bottle for 50 cents?

The spectograph gathers and classifies specks. The automatic camera takes scientific panoramas of desolation and no referendum. These vertical expeditions are accompanied by dizziness and nausea which is not our idea of an escort of honor.

The temperature at six miles is minus 55 centigrade or 67 below Fahrenheit. The horizon is in the cellar and the landscape is a sunken garden.

That's the reason a mugg becomes a scientist. He can do anything he wants without a pilot's license.

We have an invitation from Fordney and his pals to take a stratotrip. We refuse firmly with both feet on the ground and sashweights in our pockets.

U. S. Should Pay Depositors in Closed Banks by Enacting the McLeod Bill

THE McLeod bill, now before Congress, which provides for paying in full depositors of closed banks which belonged to the Federal Reserve System, aims to correct one of the cardinal sources of instability in our economic system.

In the past, labor, consumers and investors alike suffered because they were victimized by the bankers' emotions.

Specifically, in times of expansion and optimism, bankers went out of their way to induce borrowers to take credit.

The result was a needless blowing up of enterprises, which tended to throw business in general out of equilibrium.

Then when the inevitable correction came, the period of reaction was needlessly intensified by the simultaneous effort of bankers everywhere to make lenders pay up. Financiers at this stage were governed by the emotion of fear.

Deflation, with all its catastrophic horrors, is merely a process of inducing borrowers everywhere to pay up abruptly.

* * *

IN TIMES of declining gross volume of business and falling profits, borrowers frequently can reduce their net banking indebtedness only through the forced sales of assets.

Such involuntary liquidation drags down the price level and bears down heavily on the whole population.

By providing for the transference of assets of closed banks to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which is instructed to liquidate them in an orderly fashion in ten years, the threat of further deflation through forced liquidation is removed under the terms of the sensible bill introduced by Representative Clarence J. McLeod, of Michigan.

If the bill had no other merit, it ought speedily to be enacted into law.

In addition to giving debtors up to ten years to pay up, the bill also reduces the rate of interest on such outstanding loans to 4 per cent.

IT WOULD GIVE POSITIVE STIMULUS TO BUSINESS BY CONVERTING MORE THAN A BILLION AND A QUARTER OF FROZEN, IDLE, AND AT PRESENT USELESS, BANK DEPOSITS INTO IMMEDIATELY AVAILABLE PURCHASING POWER.

Thus the bill would furnish a well-conceived mechanism for enlarging total buying power and putting it into the hands of those who would use it.

* * *

THE McLeod bill provides a formula for PRACTICAL, WORKABLE REFLATION.

In addition, it commends itself because of the fundamental principle of equity entailed.

The banks involved were under federal supervision, and depositors remained loyal to them under public appeals against hoarding.

If the closings of the banks resulted from inefficiency, the government as supervisor was partly to blame.

It is manifestly unjust to let the full brunt of the losses fall upon the shoulders of innocent depositors, especially in view of the fact that the government now sponsors a deposit insurance scheme which prevents a recurrence of such injustices to small depositors.

Under the McLeod bill, the losses, if any, will be borne by the government.

But Representative McLeod rightly feels that the ten-year period for liquidation will give the full span of a business cycle in which to find better markets for the sale of bank assets.

He believes that the assets available, plus the double liability of stockholders, assure that the government will be protected against ultimate loss.

* * *

BY A stroke of the pen, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to break the deadlock, which delays recovery.

The McLeod bill offers relief to one of the most valued groups in the country—THE THRIFTY BANK DEPOSITORS.

As an alternative to fantastic schemes of experimenters, this measure offers a practical technique for doing justice to individuals while at the same time helping to rebuild national prosperity.

County Consolidations

The Movement to Eliminate Unnecessary Units Is Spreading.

One of the heartening signs of the times is the swiftly rising tide of popular revolt against the obsolete system of county government which has come down from the days of the oxcart.

A survey just completed reveals convincing proof that the pressure of an outraged public sentiment against the fleecing of the people to pay the cost of county governments no longer needed is making itself felt in state capitals all over the country.

According to this survey, Virginia and Nebraska have recently enacted laws making easy the consolidation of counties having the same general characteristics.

Petitions are circulating in Michigan for a constitutional amendment to be voted on next November, which will permit county consolidations in the interest of economy and efficiency.

At a special session of the New Mexico Legislature, to be held later in this month, legislation will be urged to reduce the number of counties by fixing tax valuation standards too high for some of them to reach.

Pending before their Legislatures within the last two years have been county merger proposals that would reduce the cost and raise the standard of government in the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Minnesota, Kansas and Washington.

The Oklahoma Corporation Commission is sponsoring a proposal that the 75 counties of that state be re-formed to coincide with the boundaries of the 35 senatorial districts.

Unlimited authority has been given to a state commission to report next November upon county mergers in Indiana.

The Montana Taxpayers' Association has served notice that it will renew at the next session of the Montana Legislature its effort to get a county merger bill enacted into law.

Public sentiment is far ahead of political action in this vital business of modernizing county government to meet the needs of a new day.

In state after state, the demand for this change is coming directly from the people and the opposition is coming from the politicians.

To modernize the obsolete system of county government against which a popular revolt is spreading North, East, South and West, two fundamental changes in the system must be made:

First, county government must be abolished in all metropolitan areas, where it duplicates local government and is, therefore, wholly superfluous.

Second, outside of metropolitan areas there must be consolidation of counties that will reduce their number to the minimum required to meet the needs of local government throughout these areas.

Soon after his election to the presidency, Mr. Roosevelt, speaking as the Governor of the State of New York, put the case convincingly for modernizing our system of county government when he said:

"We have a system of county government whose general form and structure is no more fit for its purpose than an oxcart would be for the task of supplying modern transportation between New York and Chicago."

Nearly every other state in the Union is suffering from the same "archaic, expensive and wasteful form" of county government against which Mr. Roosevelt protested and against which the American people are organizing a public sentiment that no state legislature can long resist.

Utility Rate Changes

The Public Service Commission Deserves Credit for Taking the Lead.

Whether the public utilities are entitled to a return of 6 or 7 per cent on their investment is perhaps debatable. At any rate it is gratifying that the Public Service Commission has raised the question of its own initiative in suggesting that the lower figure is a large enough return while business conditions are as they are at present.

The commission deserves credit for taking the lead in the investigation of utility rates. The people of Pennsylvania will be pleased if this marks the inauguration of a new policy. There has been too much opportunity for injustice in the old policy of doing nothing until people complained; for under that policy utilities companies found it possible to impose on customers who because of their ignorance of utility matters and because of the Public Service Commission's inactivity did not know they were being imposed upon.

The law under which public utilities can raise their rates is unfair. It should be changed to give the Public Service Commission more latitude in protecting the public.

Under the present system, unless a protest against a proposed rate increase is filed within 30 days after the increase is announced, the public must bear the cost and burden of proving the rate is unjust and must pay the higher rate while proof of its injustice is being submitted.

The next legislature should prohibit any public utility company from increasing its rates until after the proposed increase has been submitted to the Public Service Commission and approved.

Measures that will benefit immediately ten millions of persons and immediately add more than ONE THOUSAND MILLIONS OF DOLLARS to the nation's effective purchasing power—

Such are the companionate McLeod-Fletcher Bills now in process of enactment by Congress.

Representative McLeod, of Michigan, who introduced the measure in the House, has described the purpose of his Bill as "the only fair thing for the Government to do."

And he is right, for here are the facts:

The ten million persons concerned are bank depositors. They were among the many millions of persons who deposited their money in member banks of the Federal Reserve System. They relied, in a very definite sense, on the assurance of Federal supervision and Federal protection to make their deposits safe. Many of them REMAINED DEPOSITORS, at Government urging, when other people were becoming unsocial hoarders.

But these ten millions of persons happen to be among those depositors WHOSE BANKS CLOSED.

The McLeod Bill means JUSTICE to these depositors.

It will enable the Government to take over the banks, releasing the frozen deposits of all these people and receiving as security the frozen assets of the banks.

Currency will be issued on the assets to reimburse the depositors.

Thus the ten millions of people will receive their just money, the Government will have kept faith and, as conditions improve, the Government, by slowly liquidating the assets, will recover its funds and retire the currency issued.

Obviously the McLeod Bill and its companion Senate measure, the Fletcher Bill, should be passed as quickly as the two houses of Congress can act.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 5.—The blonde heiress Barbara Hutton, on her silk-cocooned tour of the Orient with her prince, has kicked up dust at home. News reel shots of her stepping into limousines with her new husband have been generously booed in Manhattan movies.

Perhaps the thought that crystalizes in many minds over the cinema flashes was expressed by one galleryite as the young gallant and his lady moved through a line of flunkies to a waiting car in Shanghai. "And that guy," he moaned, "never worked a day in his life!"

However, friends of Miss Hutton declare the romance is the culmination of a genuine romance and that she would have married him had he been a shipping clerk minus royal blood. They point to two other alleged chances she had to wed distinguished men of great wealth. One a noble.

Prince Mdivani is said to be a superlative in his devotions and when torn from his bride's side to avoid unsentimental process servers on the Far East junket dispatched long wireless condolences every four hours. And his bride remained in her cabin weeping.

And since relayed to me I've driven everybody about the house cuhrazy. Skipping and trilling "rococo cocotte!"

Almost every writer exploits some odd personal adornment at his typewriter. I cannot, for instance, write save in pajamas. Arthur Somers Roche wears green eye shades. Sinclair Lewis an old sweater. Rupert Hughes must have the stump of a cigar about to finger between meditations. Irvin Cobb wears an apple green smock. Michael Arlen sports plus fours at his machine. Norman Reilly Raine, Tugboat Annie author, always works with a knitted cap on his head. When he mislaid it recently, he astonished a casual visitor by appearing at the door with a substitute; a knitted stocking belonging to his wife. Booth Tarkington wrote best when his French poodle napped at his feet.

Incidentally, many of the world's graphic writers have done their fine chores with limited eyesight. Lafcadio Hearn had but one-fortieth vision in only one eye. Basil King was almost stone blind. Victor Hugo was myopic. James Joyce is half blind. J. Breckenridge Ellis has such thin vision he often has to read by Braille. And, of course, there are the war correspondents. Floyd Gibbons with only one eye and Karl von Wiegand is so very nearly blind he can scarcely read a paper 12 inches from his eyes, yet manages to "see" more than most of his guild.

LISTEN, WORLD!

Spring Blues!

Spring blues—how they get you! Start a sick rebellion in you. Make you hate the same old places, the same old chores.

What's the use of it all, anyway? Plugging along, doing the things you did last year, and the year before, and the year before that? What does it get you, living like that? Might as well be a squirrel in a cage! Or an old horse, going blind, going dead, between the shafts!

Meaningless work . . . meaningless years . . . how you hate each familiar gesture, each monotonous day!

When you were twenty . . . just starting in . . . remember? What dreams you had then! What flaming visions of life! Grow stale and stodgy like the old has-beens around you? Not you! You were going to keep life glorious! You weren't going to drift aimless through empty years. You were going to have a purpose and a plan . . . get somewhere . . . do something . . . make each day a great adventure!

When you were twenty . . . before you married Jim . . . before you took that job with White and Brown, Inc. . . . that's how you felt about life. Then what happened? You don't know. But, somehow, the fire went out of you. Slowly, unconsciously, you went stale. The visions faded. The days grew meaningless. And now—

Now the wild, sweet spring outside the window is a mockery. For all your heart seems dead!

You sweep the floor, mend little Billy's stockings, peel the potatoes for dinner; or you get out the same old pile of books, pull on your overalls, or snap the light on over your office desk. Whatever you're doing . . . wherever you're doing it . . . It's all the same . . . you're sick of life!

Spring blues—how they get us! Gleam and glamour, blossom and song beating in a gypsy madness against the window. But in our hearts, nothing but an aimless discontent that seems to spread its dreary film over everything we touch.

I know! I've been having the spring blues, too. Wishing I could leave everything, everybody I've ever known. Wondering if I'd made any sense out of my 50 years of life.

And then, just yesterday morning, I came across this verse by Virginia Brasier.

"The dun and yellow rug upon the floor,
Sun-faded curtains of a soft design,
Clean, creamy linen and the little store
Of varied treasures that are so much mine.

* * *

"This pillow that has known my salty tears
(Brief woe about some trifling household care),
A gangling table of uncertain years,
A comfortable, form-impressioned chair—

* * *

"Though line and stitch and cloth are wearing thin, Living and love have filled a pattern in."

* * *

"Living and love have filled a pattern in."

Wonder if you dreamed that you were making Big Medicine for sick souls when you wrote those few words, Virginia Brasier. I suspect not; your lines are so simple, so unassuming. Yet you did just that, and here's one tired human who is grateful.

Sometimes we are so tired—you and I, my dear! Sometimes we think that we have wasted the years. But truly, we have never lost the dreams which made our youth so glorious. Under our fumbling fingers those dreams are finding shape. SLOWLY BUT SURELY "LIVING AND LOVE ARE FILLING THE PATTERN IN"!

The Discovery of the Ancient Capital of the Queen of Sheba by two French Aviators

By Edwin C. Hill

THAT'S a thrilling tale told by the French explorers, Corniglion-Molignier and Andre Malraux, of their discovery of the lost capital of the Queen of Sheba. They were flying over the savage desert of Ruba-el-Khali, in the extreme southwest corner of Arabia, near the Red Sea, when their astonished gaze fell upon a great mass of white towers and noble buildings, all surrounded by a great wall.

A dead city, lost and forgotten, but one which must have held two hundred and fifty thousand souls in the days when the Queen of Sheba went to visit King Solomon in Jerusalem. We can read the story in the Book of Kings:

"And the Queen of Sheba, having heard of the fame of Solomon, in the name of the Lord came to try him with hard questions . . . And entering into Jerusalem with a great train and riches and camels that carried spices, and an immense quantity of gold and precious stones, she came to King Solomon and spoke to him all that she had in her heart. And she gave the king a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and of spices a very great store and precious stones. And she returned and went to her own country with her servants."

Returned, indeed to this very white city, lost and forgotten for almost three thousand years, holding no man knows what mysteries and treasures. The discovery is not so astonishing when one reflects that Arabia was the very center of the world and of culture thirty centuries ago; a garden, a paradise, instead of the desert it is today.

* * *

Other Ancient Cities Buried in Arabia

AND lost in Arabia are other magnificent cities, though none, perhaps, so lovely and so appealing to the imagination as the Lost City of Petra. In the far-off ancient days, there was a great king living in Arabia, who built for himself a capital that became one of the wonders of the Arab world. He called his city Petra. It was located in the wildest mountains in the middle of a barren wilderness in the land of Edom, south of the Dead Sea. So Richard Haliburton tells us in a fascinating tale of travel.

Unless one knows the country well, one cannot find it, for the main entrance is just a crack in the mountain wall. Only the Stream of Moses, the same stream the prophet brought forth with his miraculous rod, betrays the entrance, for the rivulet suddenly turns from the open valley and strikes into the mountain wall. One follows the stream and finds himself at the bottom of a tremendous split in the rock, overhung on either side by black precipices three hundred feet high that shut out the sky and the sun.

No wind stirs, no flower blooms—a world petrified and deserted thirty centuries ago. Gloomier and gloomier it grows, darker and more sinister. And then, we turn a corner in the canyon, and behold a miracle of light and loveliness, a temple tomb, carved from the coral red rock, lifting its radiant and exquisite face high up the towering cliff.

* * *

King Dumbfounded By Its Beauty

THE facade is one hundred and fifty feet high, and a hundred feet across and adorned with the most beautiful carvings—garlands and flowers, angels and goddesses, standing forth in delicate relief, all in the solid rock. One can imagine the king returning, borne on his litter of gold, and stopping, speechless, before the miraculous mausoleum. "So beautiful in form and color that whosoever looked upon it should fall in love with it and remember it to the end of his days."

He made a sacrifice to the gods of the architect who had conceived it, and decreed that no more rock tombs should ever be built. It became the city's crowning glory. But it soon proved to be a fatal passion for the king. For the nobles, envious of their ruler's overtowering monument—a monument so completely obscuring their own—plotted against him, and murdered him.

He alone had known the secret charm that held in thrall the djinns who had carved his wonder city out of the solid rock. When the last heart-beat of their master had ceased, the djinns found themselves free. These terrible spirits burst the bonds that had bound them, and with a single magic word enchanted the whole of the glorious rock city they had helped to build.

Indeed, they must have, else this pink and silver dream beckoning in the moonlight would have been in ruins two thousand years ago. Not in a lifetime could one forget the enchanted coral temple, alone and beautiful in the moonlight—the lost, forgotten, wonder city in the limitless Arabian desert.

Ending of Air Mail Chaos Up to Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Let just be done, though the heavens should fall.—Motto of Ferdinand I.

IF order is to be brought out of the chaos into which American air transport has been plunged by the wrecking of the federal air mail, and by punishment without a hearing of citizens entitled to a presumtion of innocence until proven guilty, it is becoming daily more apparent that the fetching will have to be done by the Congress.

A step in this direction has been taken by Senator McCarran of Nevada. As a member of the so-called "Black committee" which has pretended for months to be conducting an investigation into ocean and air mail contracts, Senator McCarran is thoroughly familiar with what has been done and left undone by that committee to develop the facts.

* * *

To Build Up Commercial Aviation

AS the committee has yet to make a report, it is impossible to speak for any member concerning the ultimate findings of the committee. But at least Mr. McCarran seems to appreciate the necessity of legislation that will save commercial aviation in this country from utter destruction, as the result of recent blunders.

The McCarran bill provides:

First, for the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity to all air transport companies which were in operation on a fixed daily schedule on the first of the present year.

Second, for the creation of a federal air commission to regulate in the public interest commercial aviation in much the same way that the railroads are so regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under such a system, the objectionable features of competitive bidding would be eliminated. Air transport companies having contracts with the government to carry the mail would operate under a certificate of public convenience at reasonable rates to be fixed by the commission.

* * *

New Commission Would Fix Rates

TO the new commission would be entrusted many other important duties. It would be charged with fixing the rates, tariffs, regulations and practices of the carriers of the air mail. Such a commission would protect the rights to fair treatment of the air transport pilots. It would protect the stockholders of the companies contracting to carry the mails. It would protect the communities entitled to an air mail service. It would protect future administrations from such a scandal as that into which the recent wrecking of the federal air mail by politicians, for politicians and their favorites, seems now to be developing.

In its fundamental purpose and in its apparent effect, the McCarran bill is the antithesis of the McKellar-Black bill.

For that reason the sooner the appropriate committees of Congress begin a serious consideration of the McCarran bill, the sooner will the Congress get about its business of bringing order out of chaos in the air.
